ABSTRACT.

PARAGRAPH 1.—Transmits Criminal Report and Statements for 1864.

PARAGRAPH 2.—Detailed Statements of persons brought to trial and results.

PARAGRAPH 3.—General results and averages of the above.

PARAGRAPH 4.—95,940 persons for disposal in 1864.

81,601 persons for disposal in 1863, being increase of 14,339.

Persons charged with bailable or petty offences increased from 61,498 to 71,973, while those charged with heinous crimes increased from 20,103 to 23,967.

PARAGRAPH 5.—Crimes and offences ascertained to have been committed, similarly increased from 78,595 in 1863 to 87,399 in 1864.

Proportionate increase of petty crime greater than that of heinous crime. One reason for this to be found in the appointment of Honorary Magistrates.

PARAGRAPH 22.—Highest percentage of convictions of offenders accused of heinous crimes obtained in Benares, Mirzapore, Shahjehanpore, and Boolundshuhur.

Lowest percentage of convictions of offenders accused of heinous crimes obtained in Humeerpore, Futtehpore, Cawnpore, Banda, and Moozuffernuggur.

PARAGRAPH 23.—Details of Criminal work performed in each Magistracy.

Large increase in the amount of Criminal duties disposed of.

Preliminary enquiries under Chapter XII., Criminal Procedure Code, increased from 1,182 to 2,195.

This result considered satisfactory.

Cases of minor enquiry diminished from 3,792 in 1863 to 1,913 in 1864.

Total number of trials disposed of or submitted to Magistrate under Section 277 increased from 46,245 in 1863 to 53,498 in 1864.

Miscellaneous cases decided increased from 1,62,276 to 1,93,935.

PARAGRAPH 24.—Greatest and fewest Criminal trials disposed of in certain named districts.

PARAGRAPH 25.—Criminal work of Honorary Magistrates.

PARAGRAPH 26.—These disposed of 67 enquiries under Sections 135 and 180, and Chapter XVI., Criminal Procedure Code; decided 2,223 Criminal trials under Chapters XIV. and XV.; and submitted 193 cases to the Magistrate under Section 277, besides disposing of 2,135 miscellaneous cases.

PARAGRAPH 27.—Services of such Magistrates most largely employed in Etawah, Benares, Bareilly, Shajehanpore, and Futtehpore.

Amount of work performed by certain named Honorary Magistrates specially creditable to their industry.

PARAGRAPH 28.—Testimony of District Officers favorable to the employment of this honorary class of officials as an important and auxiliary agency.

Their services most valuable in the decision of certain petty cases indicated.

These officers, as a class, are still considerably deficient in respect to a due observance of rules of procedure prescribed by law; but these defects will be cured by further experience and by a careful supervision of their proceedings by District Magistrates.

The result in the city of Shahjehanpore of an experiment of a Board of these officials sitting twice or thrice a week for the trial of petty cases, is awaited with great interest by the Court.

PARAGRAPH 29.—Remarkable increase of petty litigation during the past few years noticed by the several Magistrates.

Large proportion of such litigation notoriously groundless, especially in large cities.

The above results incline the Court, in concurrence with many of the Magistrates, to question the policy of the recent legislation exempting all petitions and applications referring to petty offences from Stamp.

PARAGRAPH 30.—Sentences passed by Magistrates.

PARAGRAPH 31.—18,238 persons sentenced to imprisonment in 1864, and 18,079 in 1863.

10,986 persons to rigorous imprisonment.
879 persons to simple imprisonment.
6,373 persons to imprisonment with fine.
Imprisonment not more than six months, 14,113 persons.
Imprisonment not more than one year, 2,003 persons.
Imprisonment not more than two years, 2,122 persons.

PARAGRAPH 32.—Fines imposed on 28,214 persons in 1864, and 24,302 in 1863. Of Rs. 3,99,124 thus imposed, Rs. 2,29,226 were realized, being a proportion of 58 per cent., as compared with 51 per cent. in 1863.

Court understand that the realization of fines has, under G. O., No. 96A., dated the 2nd April, 1864, been entrusted during 1864 to one of the Tehseeldaree Umlah of each Magistracy. If this this has been the case, the result must be pronounced successful.

PARAGRAPH 33.—As in former years, number of heavy fines very small.

Fine of Rs. 1,000 imposed only on 8 persons, and only 43 persons fined sums varying from Rs. 200 to Rs. 500.

PARAGRAPH 34.—Rs. 2,57,796 imposed in fines as sole punishment in 137 petty offences, and Rs.1,76,462 were realized.

PARAGRAPH 35.—Heaviest fines imposed in offences of "causing grevious hurt," "breach of Customs laws," "breach of Abkaree laws," "mischief," "assault," and "criminal trespass."

PARAGRAPH 36.—2,167 persons in 1,714 cases sentenced to punishment of "whipping;" of these 506 were juveniles and 1,672 adults.

PARAGRAPH 37.—Districts in which greatest recourse was had to this mode of punishment.

Districts in which sentences of whipping were rarest.

PARAGRAPH 38.—Under Section 2 of Act VI., 1864, 1,923 persons in 1,500 cases were whipped as sole punishment on first conviction of "theft" or some cognate offence.

Under Section 3, 27 persons in 24 cases were whipped as sole punishment on second conviction, and 164 persons in 141 cases in addition to other punishment, also on second conviction.

Under Section 4, there were only 10 cases in which 10 persons were whipped for "lurking house-trespass" and "lurking house-trespass by night," in addition to other punishment on second conviction.

PARAGRAPH 39.—Vast majority of persons sentenced to be whipped for the different descriptions of theft.

188 persons whipped for "dishonestly receiving stolen property" and 173 for "lurking house-trespass" or "house-breaking by night."

PARAGRAPH 40.—Premature yet to offer any opinion on the working of the Act as a deterrent from crime.

Infliction of whipping has, however, resulted in keeping 1,966 persons out of the already over-crowded jails.

PARAGRAPH 41.—General results of appeals from Magistrate's order to Sessions Courts.

2,737 appeals in 1864 and 2,234 in 1863 for decision; 2,617 were disposed of; 711 appeals rejected; 1,356 orders confirmed; 550 orders, or 21 per cent., reversed or modified, as compared with 23 per cent. in 1863.

Result generally satisfactory.

PARAGRAPH 42.—Districts in which the proportion of decisions reversed or modified was remarkably small :—

Humeerpore, Furruckabad, Shahjehanpore, Jhansie, Cawnpore, Allygurh.

PARAGRAPH 43.—Districts of which the Returns were specially unfavorable :—

Etah, Benares, Muttra, Mynpoorie.

Explanation in regard to the unfavorable Return of the Etah district.

PARAGRAPH 44.—Results of appeals, as they bear on the total number of cases disposed of, given in columns 8 and 9 of the Statement. Of 38,535 appealable cases decided, 2,717, or 7 per cent., were appealed compared with 8 per cent. in 1863, and only 1 per cent. interfered with against 2 per cent. in 1863.

PARAGRAPH 45.—Districts in which the best results were obtained according to the above standard :—

Banda, Allahabad, Benares, Humeerpore, and Moozuffurnugger.

Districts in which the least favorable results were obtained :—

Gurhwal, Muttra, Boolundshuhur, and Moradabad.

These unfavorable results have been commented on in the Court's replies to the district Reports.

PARAGRAPH 46.—Cases committed in 1863, 1,419.

Cases committed in 1864, 1,671.

This increase due to increase in the amount of heinous crime.

PARAGRAPH 47.—Cases of 2,882 persons disposed of on trial by the Sessions Judges.

Of these, 2,124, or 74 per cent., were convicted, and 758, or 26 per cent., acquitted ; being the same proportions as those attained in 1863.

PARAGRAPH 48.—Detailed District Returns of Commitments.

PARAGRAPH 49.—Districts in which the best Returns in respect to the proportion of persons convicted were obtained :—

Allygurh, Scharunpore, Azimgurh, Bijnour, Dehra Dhoon, and Mirzapore.

Districts in which very inferior results were obtained :—

Cawnpore, Jhansie, and Bareilly.

PARAGRAPH 50.—Mr. Waterfield chiefly responsible for the unfavorable results obtained in Cawnpore.

Jhansie and Bareilly results exceptional.

In Jhansie, the number of persons tried at the Sessions was small, while in Jhansie and Bareilly the Returns were unfavorably affected by the large number of persons concerned in the cases of acquittal.

Court consider the proportion of persons acquitted a better test of the comparative judicial efficiency of committing officers than the proportion of cases of acquittal.

PARAGRAPH 51.—Sessions Judges complain of much of their time being taken up in trying cases of grievous hurt, &c., which do not call for a severer sentence than a Magistrate can inflict, but which must be committed to the Sessions under the existing law.

PARAGRAPH 52.—Court have always been of opinion that it was a defect in the Criminal Procedure Code restricting the trial of the above and similar offences to the Sessions Court, and limiting the general powers of a Magistrate to a sentence of two instead of three years' imprisonment as formerly.

Inconsistency in the Legislature to have subsequently vested considerably higher powers in Magistrates of districts of other provinces, whose judicial experience is inferior to that of Magistrates of districts in the North-Western Provinces.

PARAGRAPH 53.—Cases regarding disputed possession of land or water.

352 such cases newly instituted, as compared with 523 in 1863.

Result considered to be satisfactory.

PARAGRAPH 54.—Witness Statement.

2,58,991 witnesses examined in 1864, and 2,21,528 in 1863.

2,44,293 witnesses dismissed after one day's attendance.

10,927	ditto	after 2 days' attendance.
2,601	ditto	after 3 days' attendance.
1,170	ditto	after longer periods.

Proportion of persons dismissed after 1, 2, 3, and 4 days' attendance respectively, i. e., 95, 4, 1, and 0 per cent., was the same as in 1863.

These results highly satisfactory.

PARAGRAPH 55.—Greatest number (18,463) of witnesses examined in Allahabad.

In Ghazeepore and Etawah the number was also very large.

PARAGRAPH 56.—Districts of which the results were most favorable :—

Meerut, Boolundshuhur, Jounpore, and Moozuffurnugger.

PARAGRAPH 57.—Districts of which the Returns were least favorable :—

Jaloun, Goruckpore, and Benares.

Explanation of results obtained in Jaloun and Goruckpore.

Explanation of unfavorable result obtained in Benares.

PARAGRAPH 58.—Average duration of Criminal trials in 1863 and 1864.

PARAGRAPH 59.—Duration of cases in Magistrates' Courts, 13 days in 1863, 12 days in 1864.

Improvement in 17 districts; retrogression in 9.

In 7 districts the result the same.

PARAGRAPH 60.—The lowest and highest periods of duration in certain districts :—

Benares, Dehra Dhoon, Ghazeepore, and Budaon show the lowest averages.

And Gurhwal, Jounpore, Etah, and Jhansie, the highest.

PARAGRAPH 61.—Explanation of the Gurhwal Returns.

PARAGRAPH 62.—Explanation of the Jounpore Returns.

PARAGRAPH 63.—Explanation of the Etah and Jhansie Returns.

PARAGRAPH 64.—Appeals from Assistants referred to Magistrates.

1,493 appeals instituted in 1864, and 1,209 in 1863.

Of 1,453 appeals disposed of, 809 confirmed, 259 orders rejected, and 385 or 27 per cent., reversed or modified, as contrasted with 29 per cent. in 1863, and 28 per cent. in 1862.

Results sufficiently satisfactory.

PARAGRAPH 65.—Operation of Section 44 of Act XXV., 1861, compensation fines for loss or damage caused by offences punishable with fines.

In Magistrates' Courts, Rs. 40,184 imposed in compensation in 1864; Rs. 23,620 in 1863.

Rs. 13,772, or 34 per cent., realized and paid in compensation, against 41 per cent. in 1863.

Results not satisfactory, and irreconcilable with the favorable results in regard to the realization of fines generally adverted to in paragraph 32 of this address.

Results in certain named districts very favorable :—
Kumaon, Shahjehanpore, Moozuffurnugger, and Jounpore.

In Sessions Judges' Courts, of Rs. 6,717 imposed as compensation, Rs. 347, or 5 per cent., realized.

PARAGRAPH 66.—General remarks as to the provisions of the above Section.

PARAGRAPH 67.—Amount of Criminal business disposed of by each Sessions Judge.

PARAGRAPH 68.—Considerable increase in the amount of work performed.

1,431 Sessions trials and 2,427 appeals disposed of in 1864.
1,178 trials and 1,948 appeals in 1863.

The Judges of Agra, Mynpoorie, Moradabad, Allygurh, and Shahjehanpore, did most Criminal work; those of Jounpore, Azimgurh, and Allahabad, least.

PARAGRAPH 69.—Penal sentences of Sessions Judges.

PARAGRAPH 70.—92 sentences of death in 1864.

78 ditto of ditto in 1863; 349 persons transported,—i. e., 159 for life, 40 for 14 years and upwards, and 150 for 7 years and upwards.

PARAGRAPH 71.—1,306 persons sentenced to rigorous imprisonment,—i. e., 206 from 7 to 14 years, 530 from 3 to 6 years, and 570 to lesser periods.

47 persons sentenced to simple imprisonment, and 331 persons imprisoned as well as fined.

PARAGRAPH 72.—Only 16 persons (5 juveniles and 11 adults) whipped by order of Sessions Judges in the districts, and for the offences named.

PARAGRAPH 73.—Operation of trial by Assessors.

PARAGRAPH 74.—In 1,416 trials, the Sessions Judges concurred with the Assessors in 1,217, and differed from them in 199 cases.

Quotation of Mr. Vansittart's remarks on the subject.

Hindoo Assessors will seldom or never find a Brahmin guilty of murder, however clear the evidence.

In cases of marriage and ceremonial observances, opinion of Assessors valuable.

PARAGRAPH 75.—1,108 Assessors agriculturists; 1,048 Mahajuns; 465 Pleaders; 182 in service; and 36 Priests.

PARAGRAPH 76.—Duration of trials and appeals in Sessions Courts.

Average duration of each trial, 20 days in 1864 and 23 days in 1863; and of each appeal 20 days in 1864, being the same as in 1863.

PARAGRAPH 77.—As remarked last year, these averages subject to disturbing causes.

PARAGRAPH 78.—Results of appeals and references to Nizamut Adawlut.

PARAGRAPH 79.—Six persons had their cases referred to the Nizamut Adawlut under the old law; the sentences proposed by the Sessions Judges were passed on them.

PARAGRAPH 80.—Of 87 persons sentenced capitally, the Court confirmed the sentences passed on 60, modified those passed on 11, and acquitted the remaining 16 persons.

PARAGRAPH 81.—Judges with whom the Court concurred in opinion and passed or confirmed the sentences proposed in the references made :—

Messrs. Drummond, Fane, Power, Money, Bramly, Lushington, Stewart Reid, Sherer, and Thornhill.

Results of references made by Messrs. Ross and Turnbull not favorable, but the number of persons referred was small.

PARAGRAPH 82.—The cases of 784 persons were appealed or were called for and reviewed by the Court on inspection of the periodical Statements.

Sentences passed on 420 persons confirmed, and those on 160 modified; the remaining 204 persons were acquitted.

Of the cases of 164 persons otherwise reviewed by the Court, the sentences on 146 persons were confirmed, and those on 3 were modified, the remaining 15 persons being acquitted.

PARAGRAPH 83.—In respect to appeals and revisions, the results obtained by Mr. Dunlop and Major MacNeile were perfect, but the number of cases revised was small.

Omitting the Returns of officers where the number of revisions was less than 10, the best results are those of Messrs. Fane, Sherer, Paterson, and Turnbull; and the least good those of Messrs. G. P. Money, Keene, Lindsay, and Lushington.

PARAGRAPH 84.—Amount of Criminal business disposed of by the Nizamut Adawlut during the past two years.

PARAGRAPH 85.—78 cases of heinous crime were regularly referred to the Court in 1864, and 77 in 1863, and 135 in 1862.

The above result indicates a growing tendency on the part of the Sessions Judge to substitute sentence of imprisonment for life for a capital sentence in murder cases.

Caution used by the Court in such cases.

PARAGRAPH 86.—25 cases reviewed under Sections 403 and 405 in 1864; 51 cases in 1863.

As anticipated in last year's Report, the number of these cases was much smaller than in 1863.

This circumstance betokens general improvement in the observance of Rules of Criminal Procedure by the Sessions Courts.

PARAGRAPH 87.—340 Criminal appeals preferred in 1864, and 232 in 1863.

Cases under Sections 404 and 434, in 1864, 71; in 1863, 80.

PARAGRAPH 88.—Altogether 514 Criminal trials decided in 1864, 440 in 1863; 178 miscellaneous cases in 1864, 222 in 1863; so that on the whole 692 cases were disposed of in 1864 and 662 in 1863.

PARAGRAPH 89.—30 Criminal trials pending before the Nizamut Adawlut in 1864, 22 in 1863, and 47 in 1862.

PARAGRAPH 90.—Average duration of each trial in the Court was 16 days.

PARAGRAPH 91.—Penalties imposed by Nizamut Adawlut.

PARAGRAPH 92.—Total number of sentences increased from 162 in 1863 to 219 in 1864.

Number of capital sentences was only one in excess of 1863, while that of persons transported for life diminished from 17 to 11.

Number of persons imprisoned from 7 to 14 years increased from 12 to 30; that of persons from 5 to 10 years did not vary materially; but those imprisoned for periods not exceeding 5 years increased from 60 in 1863 to 104 in 1864.

PARAGRAPH 93.—Reference made to the replies of the Court to the several Annual Reports, of which copies are submitted, in regard to special exceptional Returns and orders passed thereupon.

PARAGRAPH 94.—Statement called for in G. O., No. 425A., dated 3rd September, 1864, and additional Statements prescribed by the Government of India, also submitted.

Remarks in regard to the latter Statements.

Court, for reasons explained, consider them unsuitable for periodical submission, and suggest their discontinuance.

PARAGRAPH 95.—Administration of Criminal Justice generally successful in the past year in these Provinces.

REPORT

NIZAMUT ADAWLUT

NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES,

ON THE

ADMINISTRATION OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE,

FOR THE YEAR 1864-65.

No. 419 OF 1865.

FROM

JAMES SIMSON, ESQUIRE,

Register to the Court of Nizamut Adawlut,

North-Western Provinces,

Agra,

TO

ROBERT SIMSON, ESQUIRE,

Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces,

Allahabad.

DATED AGRA, THE 31ST MARCH, 1865.

SIR,

I AM directed to submit, for the orders of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor, the Court's Report on the Administration of Criminal Justice in the North-Western Provinces, and Divisions of Jhansie and Kumaon, during the year 1864, together with the usual figured Statements.

Transmits Criminal Report and Statements for 1864.

2. The following Statement exhibits the total number of persons brought to trial for heinous and petty offences in each district, and the manner in which they were disposed of, with the corresponding results of the previous year :—

Detailed Statement of persons brought to trial, and results.

Zillah.	Total number of persons under trial during the year.			Total number of persons whose cases were finally disposed of by the Magisterial Authorities.			Number of persons under trial at the close of the year.			Number of persons whose cases have been pending above three months.	Number of persons whose cases were disposed of by the Magisterial Authorities. Convicted, including committed.			Discharged and acquitted.			Percentage of persons convicted and committed to those whose cases were disposed of.

81,601 persons for disposal in 1863, being increase of 14,339.

4. The total number of persons for trial during the year under review amounted to 95,940, as compared with 81,601 in the year 1863, showing an increase of 14,339 persons in the year under report. It is observable that the number of persons charged with bailable or petty offences increased in a much larger ratio than those accused of heinous crimes; the number of the former having increased from 61,498 to 71,973, while that of the latter only increased from 20,103 to 23,967.

Persons charged with bailable or petty offences increased from 61,498 to 71,973, while those charged with heinous crimes increased from 20,103 to 23,967.

5. These results are similar to those which obtained in respect to the number of crimes and offences ascertained to have been committed, which increased from 78,595 reported in 1863, to 87,399 in 1864; but it is noticeable, that the increase of heinous offences from 41,802 to 46,281, and that of petty offences from 36,793 to 41,118, was nearly identical, * although with reference to the smaller number of non-bailable offences, the proportionate increase of this latter description of crime was greater than that of the former. One reason of this is that Honorary Magistrates being now scattered over the country, and the means of obtaining justice being brought so much nearer to the people, a large number of cases, which formerly would have remained unnoticed, are now brought to light and made the subject of complaint.

* Increase of non-bailable offences, ... 4,479
Increase of bailable offences, ... 4,325

Crimes and offences ascertained to have been committed similarly increased, from 78,595 in 1863 to 87,399 in 1864.

Proportionate increase of petty crime greater than that of heinous crime. One reason for this to be found in the appointment of Honorary Magistrates.

6. In looking at the detailed district Returns, it will be seen that, out of thirty-three Magisterial districts in these Provinces, there was an increase in the number of offences ascertained to have been committed in all but the six districts of Agra, Furruckabad, Mynpoorie, Allahabad, Azimgurh, and Kumaon, where there was a slight diminution. Taking heinous or non-bailable offences alone into consideration, the nine districts of Moradabad, Budaon, Agra, Furruckabad, Mynpoorie, Cawnpore, Allahabad, Jounpore, and Jaloun, exhibited a decrease in the number of such offences, the remaining twenty-four districts showing an increase in this respect.

Increase in the number of offences in all but the districts of Agra, Furruckabad, Mynpoorie, Allahabad, Azimgurh, and Kumaon, where there was a slight diminution.

In Moradabad, Budaon, Agra, Furruckabad, Mynpoorie, Cawnpore, Allahabad, Jounpore, and Jaloun, there was a decrease in the number of non-bailable offences. In the remaining districts there was an increase in this respect.

7. In one or two cases this increase of crime has been attributed to an improvement effected in the report of crime by the Officers of the Police Department, and where this was really the case, the increase would be more apparent than real. But, generally, the result has been explained to be due to the evil effects arising from an unfavorable harvest following on a season of partial drought, causing a considerable rise in the price of the necessaries of life, and a corresponding increase in the number of offences committed against property.

In one or two cases the increase of crime attributed to improvement in the report of crime by the Police.

Generally, this result has been explained to be due to the evil effects arising from an unfavorable harvest following on a season of partial drought, causing a rise in the prices of the necessaries of life, and a corresponding increase in the number of offences against property.

8. This will be seen from the following Table:—

Theft, --- --- --- ---	17,580	26,577	28,081
Receiving stolen property dishonestly, ---	779	996	1,346

House-breaking, --- --- ---	8,120	12,224	13,560
Total, ---	26,676	40,035	43,347

from which it will be observed that the very large increase in the number of those offences which took place in 1863 has been fully maintained in the year under review, a circumstance to which the Court would solicit the serious attention of Government.

The very large increase in the number of such offences which took place in 1863 fully maintained in 1864; serious attention of Government solicited to the circumstance.

9. A corresponding increase occurred in most of the principal heinous offences affecting the person, as will be seen from the following Return:—

A corresponding increase occurred in most of the principal heinous offences affecting the person.

This increase likewise is attributable to the cause above stated.

This increase also attributable to the cause above stated.

Various opinions offered by Magisterial Officers in regard to operation of Police Administration.

Officers of experience are of opinion that, while fairly successful in arrestings and apprehending persons accused of offences against the person, the Police have been deficient in the detective element in cases of offences against property.

General impression prevalent that more attention is paid to drill and smartness of appearance, as also to enlistment of men who are foreigners, than to detective efficiency.

10. The opinion expressed by the Magisterial Officers regarding the operation of the Police Administration during the year under review are very various; but, on the whole, most Officers of experience are of opinion that, while fairly successful in the arrest and apprehension of persons accused of offences against the person, the Police have nevertheless been greatly deficient in the detective element when offences against property have been committed; and a general impression appears to be prevalent that more attention is paid by the Officers of the Department to drill, and smartness of appearance, as also to the enlistment of men who are foreigners, such as Seikhs and others, who are unacquainted with the people of the locality in which they are employed, than to detective efficiency in the tracing of crime.

Quotation of Mr. Carnac's remarks in regard to working of the Police in the Etah district.

11. In regard to the district of Etah, Mr. Carnac, in a series of observations, quoted in the margin, has dwelt at some length on the want of success obtained in that district in the detection of crime, which he attributes to a wilful neglect of their duties on the part of the district Police, fostered by a net-work of cliquedom, which he reports to prevail among the subordinate officials of that body and some of the Magisterial Umlah. The Court trust the measures which are now in progress, consequent on the issue of their recent Circular Order and the orders of Government on this subject, may result in the removal of this reproach from the Etah district, and they hope to obtain the co-operation of the Inspector-General of Police in this important matter.

"There is a very large increase in the number of thefts, 651, as compared "with 347 in 1863. The Police have, moreover, been far less successful in "apprehending them.

"In 1863, 155 cases out of 347, or nearly 50 per cent., were brought to "trial, while in 1864 only 165 cases out of 651, or just one-fourth, were "traced.

"This is the most unfavorable feature in the annual Returns, and no "explanation has been submitted by the Joint Magistrate. I have called upon "that Officer for any remarks he may wish to record, and will forward his "reply to the Court.

"It appears to me that such a complete failure of justice cannot be "attributed solely to inefficiency on the part of the Police Force. It is "difficult to believe that, with every allowance for lax supervision and con-"trol, such unsatisfactory results could be shown. My own conviction is "that there has been a wilful neglect of duty on the part of the Police.

"I base my opinion on the fact that nearly the whole of the establishment, "Umlah, and Police, are related to, or connected with, each other; and the "net-work of cliquedom is so complete that it is scarcely an exaggeration "to state that the Mahomedan families of Soron override the district. The "Serishtadar of the Joint Magistrate's Court (who enjoys the worst possi-"ble reputation) comes from that town, and is surrounded by his relatives "in the Persian Office. This man's brother-in-law is the Kotwal; another "brother is the Inspector who conducts the Sessions cases; and other "brothers and relatives are Chief Constables in the district.

"I have recently mentioned these facts to the Commissioner of the Di-"vision, and the issue of the Court's Circular, No. 23, dated 28th December, "1864, relative to cliquedom, will afford an excellent opportunity of weeding "out a class of men who are at present a curse to the people of Etah, and "who, moreover, have (with some exceptions) the last claim to Government "service in Etah or elsewhere, when the hostility of the Soron Mahomedans "in the mutiny is borne in mind.

Measures now in progress expected to remove the reproach of cliquedom from the Etah district.

"The emergency calls for a strong measure of reform; and, as I understand "that the District Superintendent of Police proposes taking leave to the "Hills this Summer, I am of opinion that Captain Graham, District Superin-"tendent of Police of Etawah, or any other efficient Officer should be "deputed to Etah with the view of effecting a thorough reform of establish-"ments, especially with reference to the cliquedom above mentioned, which "will, I doubt not, be denied and evaded by all kinds of falsehood and "subterfuge.

"House-breaking, "unaggravated.

There were 286 crimes of this class in 1864, as compared with 112 in 1863, or nearly 150 per cent. of increase.

"There is here also a lamentable want of success on the part of the Police, "only four cases having been brought to trial, and eight persons convicted. "Practically, burglary may be committed with impunity in that portion of the "Etah district under the jurisdiction of this Court. I have already stated "my opinion that this extraordinary want of success cannot be attributed to "mere inefficiency on the part of the detective Police, and that there must "be other causes at work which do not appear on the surface."

Remarks of Mr. Hume and of Mr. Carnac, in regard to the causes of the increase of crime in the Etawah district, and to the inefficiency of the Police Administration, given in a separate Appendix.

12. Mr. Hume, the Magistrate of Etawah, and Mr. Carnac, the Sessions Judge of Mynpoorie, have fully detailed in their annual Reports the causes which, in their opinion, may be considered to have led to the increase of crime in that district, with special reference to the Police Administration which was deemed inefficient by both Officers. These remarks, which are too long for insertion in the body of this Report, have been submitted in a separate Appendix.

Court's reply to the above observations.

They see no reason to believe that the Police had been less efficient in Etawah than elsewhere.

13. The Court, in their reply to these observations, remarked that they saw no reason to believe that the Police had been less efficient in Etawah than in other districts, and they observed that, although it was true that the general proportion of persons convicted, of those tried, had deteriorated from 57 to 44 per cent., the percentage of persons convicted of non-bailable or heinous offences, for which the Police were chiefly responsible, had improved from 53 to 60 per cent., a circumstance which appeared to be rather creditable to their efficiency in this district than otherwise. On the general question of the Police Administration, they considered it unnecessary to enter, but transmitted an extract of Mr. Carnac's remarks on the subject, to the Inspector-General of Police, for such notice as that Officer might consider necessary.

Although the general proportion of persons convicted deteriorated from 57 to 44 per cent., the percentage of persons convicted of heinous offences improved from 53 to 60 per cent., a circumstance rather creditable than otherwise to the efficiency of the Police.

Extract of Mr. Carnac's remarks have been forwarded to the Inspector-General of the Police.

14. The Court are glad to observe that no cases of thuggee, nor of belonging to a gang of Dacoits, were reported during the year; and that the number of instances of administering stupifying drugs with criminal intent diminished from 74 to 45, results which, in the opinion of the Court, as well as of the Magisterial and Judicial Officers generally, show that, up to the present time, no evil effects have followed the abolition of the Thuggee Department, as a separate agency.

No cases of thuggee, nor of belonging to a gang of Dacoits, were reported in 1861.

Cases of administering stupifying drugs with criminal intent diminished from 74 to 45.

The above results show that, up to the present time, no evil effects have followed the abolition of the separate Thuggee Department.

15. At the same time, some Officers of experience are of opinion that crimes analogous to thuggee and the administration of stupefying drugs, may shortly be expected to revive; and the Court suggest that the attention of the Police Department be specially drawn to the subject, in connection with the following remarks recorded by Mr. Carnac on this matter:—

Some experienced Officers are of opinion that crimes analogous to thuggee and administration of stupifying drugs may shortly be expected to revive; attention of the Police Department might be specially drawn to the subject.

Mr. Carnac's remarks on the subject.

"Recently, in the Etah district, there was a case in which a common Chumar "personated a Thakoor of rank, and gave himself out to be related to some of "the leading families of the district. He was extremely well dressed, in red "turban, a chintz tunic, and a gold necklace, and by his appearance and man-"ners succeeded in inducing a native bahlee driver to take him from Itmadpore, "in the Agra district, towards Jeytra, whither he said his son had preceded "him in a palkee. On the third days' journey he stupefied the carter with some "intoxicating drug, and, leaving him by the road-side, carried off the cart and "bullocks. The former was abandoned in a jungle, and the latter were found "subsequently in the Chumar's possession. Of course, the carter heard nothing "of the 'Chowhan Thakoor' at Jeytra; and it was by the merest accident that "one Chutter, hearing a description of the 'Thakoor,' said it was probably "Deysa Chumar, who was in the habit of practising "chalakee," which is a "word of similar meaning to 'thuggee.' Other witnesses deposed to the "'Thakoors' having arrived the same evening at their village accompanied by "twenty Marwarees, men and women, of the west country, and to the party having "stayed the night and gone on together towards Sadoollagunj, in the Budaon "district, where the 'Thakoor' said he lived. The party were accompanied "by buffaloes and bullocks, on which they carried their clothing and some of "the stone flour-mills of the country. They stated that they had come from "'beyond the Jumna and were going over the Ganges.'

"I have entered thus fully into this case, as it presents all the ordinary "features of the old thuggee system. It was due rather to the vigorous health "of the carter that he recovered after lying senseless for hours, than to any "mercy on the part of the Thug.

"In 1862, I suggested that a special agency was necessary to cope with "crime of this difficult and insidious nature, and the case above quoted appears "to me to bear out that opinion. If memory serves me, I also advocated the re-"moval of Dhatura plants wherever found in the neighbourhood of roads. This "would necessitate the poisoning Thug's carrying the poison on his person, "and a means of detection would be thereby afforded. It should also be the "duty of the Police to warn travellers of this class of Thugs, and short Hindee "proclamations could be circulated among travellers and hung up in Serais and "small Bhutyara shops, for the information of the public. Another check "would be found in a legal restriction in the sale of drugs. This question has, "I believe, occupied the attention of the Supreme Government since 1861.

"I doubt, however, that these measures would check the crime to any great "extent; and if cases, such as that indicated above, are found to occur in other "districts, I apprehend that the Government will speedily revive the Special "Agency which so successfully suppressed the thuggee of former times, when the "roomal and not poison was the means, but the object precisely similar, viz., "robbery. Murder always accompanied the crime as formerly practised, while it "is occasional though not unfrequent in the present day."

Number of persons for trial increased in all the districts except in Dehra Doon, Etah, Shahjehanpore, Muttra, Allahabad, Azimgurh, and Gurhwal.

564 trials pending at the end of 1864, as compared with 579 similarly pending at the close of 1863.

16. Returning to the number of persons for trial,—this increased in all the districts except in those of Dehra Doon, Etah, Shahjehanpore, Muttra, Allahabad, Azimgurh, and Gurhwal.

17. Of 95,940 persons for trial during the year under report, the cases of 94,149 were finally disposed of by the Magisterial Officers, as compared with 79,951 in the previous year, leaving the cases of 1,340 under trial at the close of the year, being slightly in excess of the proportionate number pending on the files at the end of 1863. The number of trials pending on the files at the end of the year was, however, only 564, as compared with 579 similarly pending at the close of 1863.

Cases of 97 persons pending trial more than three months at the close of 1864, as compared with 27 similarly pending at the close of 1863.

This result due to the exceptional Returns of Chundeyree (Lullutpore), where 56 persons were so pending.

These were concerned in four cases of dacoity.

In one case 93 arrests were made, and 53 persons were to have been committed to the Sessions.

In this case, a whole village said to have conspired to murder a Lumberdar and his family.

The case was referred to the Nizamut Adawlut, and two persons have been sentenced capitally.

The Court sanguine that the measures in progress for cutting down the jungles in Chundeyree will tend to lessen the facilities afforded for committing heinous crimes generally in this part of the country.

18. The cases of 97 persons had been pending trial more than three months at the close of the year, as contrasted with 27 similarly pending at the end of 1863; but this unfavorable result was mainly due to the exceptional Returns of Chundeyree (or Lullutpore), in which district alone no less than 56 persons had been pending trial at the end of the year for more than three months. These persons were concerned in four cases of dacoity, in one of which above 93 arrests were made, and 53 persons were about to be committed to the Sessions when the annual Reports were prepared. This case was reported by the Deputy Commissioner to be one of a very peculiar nature, in which a whole village are believed to have conspired to murder a Lumberdar and his family, and the course of the investigation involved frequent postponements and local enquiries which necessitated the delay which occurred. The case was referred to the Nizamut Adawlut, and two persons have been sentenced capitally. The Court have no doubt that the salient features of the case will be touched upon by the Inspector-General of Police in his annual Report. They are sanguine that the measures now in progress for cutting down the heavy jungles which exist in the Chundeyree district will be the means of lessening the facilities now afforded for the commission of heinous crimes generally in that part of the country.

Cause of delay in the disposal of the 16 persons whose cases had been long pending in Cawnpore.

Explanation considered insufficient by the Court, and suitable orders passed by them.

19. The cause of the delay in the disposal of the 16 persons, whose cases had been long pending in the Cawnpore district, was explained to be the pressure of criminal duties on the file of the Joint Magistrate, Mr. Waterfield, owing to the prosecution of a heavy case of the murder of a European, arising out of the mutinies, which occupied the time of the Committing Officer nearly a month. But the Court did not consider this explanation to be sufficient. They have passed suitable orders in regard to the remaining cases in which undue delay occurred.

Exclusive of Chundeyree and Cawnpore, in seven other districts only there were cases pending more than 90 days, and the total number of persons concerned did not exceed 25.

They remark that, exclusive of Chundeyree (or Lullutpore) and Cawnpore, there were only seven other districts in which any cases had been under trial for more than 90 days, and the total number of persons concerned in these cases did not exceed 25.

20. The Court would observe here, and generally throughout this Report, that they have not thought it necessary to comment upon each unfavorable district result in detail, as they have already done so in their replies to the Annual Reports of the Sessions Judges and Magistrates, copies of which are herewith transmitted for the information of Government.

Court have commented upon each unfavorable district result in their separate replies to the Sessions Judges' Annual Reports, of which copies are submitted.

21. Out of 94,149 persons disposed of on trial during the year, 54,837 were either convicted or committed to the Sessions, being a proportion of 58 per cent., as compared with 57 per cent. in the previous year, and 39,312 were discharged and acquitted, a percentage of 41, as contrasted with 43 per cent. in 1863. In non-bailable offences, the percentage of persons convicted was 56 per cent. against 55 per cent. in 1863. These results appear to exhibit a slight improvement in the working of the Police Administration, as evincing the observance of a better discretion in the arrest of offenders accused of heinous crimes during the year under review.

Out of 94,149 persons disposed of on trial in 1864, 54,837 were either convicted or committed to the Sessions, being a proportion of 58 per cent., as compared with 57 per cent. in 1863, and 41 per cent. were discharged and acquitted, contrasted with 43 per cent. in 1863.

56 per cent. were convicted for non-bailable offences, compared with 55 per cent. in 1863.

These results exhibit a slight improvement in the working of the Police Administration.

22. Referring to this class of offenders only, the highest and lowest percentages, respectively, are found in the following districts :—

Large increase in the amount of criminal duties disposed of.

There was a large increase in the aggregate amount of criminal duties disposed of, compared with the previous year.

Preliminary enquiries under Chapter XII., Criminal Procedure Code, increased from 1,182 to 2,195.

This result considered satisfactory.

The number of enquiries preliminary to commitment under Chapter XII. of the Criminal Procedure Code increased from 1,182 to 2,195. This result, with reference to the increase of heinous crime generally, is considered satisfactory.

Cases of minor enquiry diminished from 3,792 in 1863 to 1,913 in 1864.

Total number of trials disposed of or submitted to Magistrate under Section 277 increased from 46,245 in 1863 to 53,498 in 1864.

Miscellaneous cases decided increased from 1,62,276 to 1,93,935.

Cases of minor enquiry by subordinate Magistrates under Sections 135, 180, and Chapter XVI., Criminal Procedure Code, diminished in number from 3,792 in 1863 to 1,913 in the year under report. But the total number of trials disposed of or submitted to Magistrate under Section 277 increased from 46,245 in 1863 to 53,498 in 1864, and the number of miscellaneous cases decided from 1,62,276 in the one year to 1,93,935 in the other.

Greatest and fewest criminal trials disposed of in certain named districts.

24. The largest number of criminal trials disposed of under Chapters XIV. and XV., Criminal Procedure Code, was respectively as follows :—

Banda,	3,736
Agra,	2,956
Futtehpore,	2,784
Bareilly,	2,648
Allahabad,	2,560

and the smallest the following :—

Gurhwal,	161
Boolundshuhur,	331
Kumaon,	360
Dehra Doon,	475

The order of these districts, as respects comparative pressure of criminal duties, does not vary materially from that of the previous year.

These disposed of 67 enquiries under Sections 135 and 180, and Chapter XVI., Criminal Procedure Code; decided 2,223 criminal trials under Chapters XIV. and XV., and submitted 193 cases to the Magistrate under Section 277, besides disposing of 2,135 miscellaneous cases.

26. From this Statement it will be observed that these gentlemen disposed of 67 enquiries under Sections 135 and 180, and Chapter XVI., Criminal Procedure Code; decided 2,223 criminal trials under Chapters XIV. and XV.; and submitted 193 cases to the Magistrate under Section 277, besides disposing of 2,135 miscellaneous cases.

Services of such Magistrates most largely employed in Etawah, Benares, Bareilly, Shahjehanpore, and Futtehpore.

Amount of work performed by certain named Honorary Magistrates specially creditable to their industry.

27. The services of the Honorary Magistrates were employed most largely in the districts of Etawah, Benares, Bareilly, Shahjehanpore, and Futtehpore; and the amount of work performed by Rajah Juswunt Roy of Etawah; Mr. Quin, Benares; Hidayut Ally, Bareilly; and Sheikh Ahmed Buksh, Futtehpore, was specially creditable to their industry.

Testimony of District Officers favorable to the employment of this honorary class of officials as an important and auxiliary agency.

Their services most valuable in the decision of certain petty cases indicated.

These officers, as a class, are still considerably deficient in respect to a due observance of rules of procedure prescribed by Law; but these defects will be cured by further experience and by a careful supervision of their proceedings by District Magistrates.

28. The testimony of the District Officers is, on the whole, favorable to the employment of this honorary class of officials as an important auxiliary agency in the disposal of criminal duties. It is found, in practice, that their services are most valuable in the decision of petty cases, in which a personal knowledge of the peculiar customs and observances of the Native community is most necessary. As a class, they are still considerably deficient in respect to a due observance of the rules of procedure prescribed by Law; but these are defects which will be cured by further experience and by the careful supervision of their proceedings by the Magistrates of the districts to whom they are subordinate.

The result in the city of Shahjehanpore of an experiment of a Board of these officials sitting twice or thrice a week for the trial of petty cases is awaited with great interest by the Court.

In the city of Shahjehanpore, the experiment of causing a Board of these officials to sit together regularly twice or thrice a week for the decision of petty cases is being tried, and the Court await the result of this experiment with great interest.

Remarkable increase of petty litigation during the past few years noticed by several Magistrates.

Large proportion of such litigation notoriously groundless, especially in large cities.

The above results incline the Court, in concurrence with many of the Magistrates, to question the policy of the recent legislation exempting all petitions and applications referring to petty offences from stamp.

29. The remarkable increase of petty litigation during the last few years has been noticed by many of the Magistrates of these Provinces, and, as a large proportion of this description of litigation is notoriously groundless, especially in large cities, where private dissensions and enmities are the fruitful sources of trifling complaints in the Criminal Courts, the Court, in concurrence with many of the Magistrates in the North-Western Provinces, are inclined to question the policy of the recent legislation which has exempted from stamp all petitions and applications referring to bailable or petty offences.

§ Besides these, there were 10 persons more whipped, which are included in Columns 2, 5, and 8

31. Altogether 18,238 persons were sentenced to the penalty of imprisonment, as compared with 18,079 in 1863, i. e.,—

10,986 persons to rigorous imprisonment.

879 persons to simple imprisonment.

6,373 persons to imprisonment with fine.

18,238 persons sentenced to imprisonment in 1864, and 18,079 in 1863.

10,986 persons to rigorous imprisonment.
879 persons to simple imprisonment.
6,373 persons to imprisonment with fine.

In the cases of 14,113 persons the period of imprisonment did not exceed six months. In those of 2,003 persons it was not more than one year. And in the remaining cases (2,122) it did not exceed two years. The cause of this merely nominal increase in the number of persons sentenced to imprisonment will be noticed further on.

Imprisonment not more than six months, 14,113 persons.
Imprisonment not more than one year, 2,003 persons.
Imprisonment not more than two years, 2,122 persons.

32. Fines were imposed on 28,214 persons, as compared with 24,302 persons in the previous year. The sums thus imposed amounted to Rs. 3,99,124, of which Rs. 2,29,226 were realized, or 58 per cent., as contrasted with 51 per cent. in the previous year,—a result which is very satisfactory. The Court understand that, during the year under report, the realization of fines by the sale of the movable property of criminals has been entrusted to one or other of the Tehseeldaree Umlah of each Magistracy, in accordance with G. O., No. 96A., dated 2nd April, 1864. If such has been the case, the result of the change of system in this respect must be pronounced successful.

Fines imposed on 28,214 persons in 1864, and 24,302 in 1863. Of Rs. 3,99,124 thus imposed, Rs. 2,29,226 were realized, being a proportion of 58 per cent., as compared with 51 per cent. in 1863.
Court understand that the realization of fines has, under G. O., No. 96A., dated the 2nd April, 1864, been entrusted during 1864 to one of the Tehseeldaree Umlah of each Magistracy. If this has been the case, the result must be pronounced successful.

33. It is observable in this, as in former years, that the number of persons upon whom fines of large amount were inflicted was very small, as evidenced by the fact that the fine of Rs. 1,000 was imposed on no more than eight persons, and that only forty-three were fined sums varying from Rs. 200 to Rs. 500 in amount.

As in former years, number of heavy fines very small.
Fine of Rs. 1,000 imposed only on eight persons; and only forty-three persons fined sums varying from Rs. 200 to Rs. 500.

34. Out of Rs. 3,99,124 imposed in fines, Rs. 2,57,796 were inflicted as sole punishment in 137 offences of a petty description, and Rs. 1,76,462 were realized. In 41 of these offences, as enumerated below, the total amount of fines imposed exceeded Rs. 1,000:—

Under Section 2 of Act VI., 1864, 1,923 persons in 1,500 cases were whipped as sole punishment on first conviction of "theft" or some cognate offence.

38. There were 1,500 cases under Section 2 of the Act, in which 1,923 persons were whipped as sole punishment on first conviction of "theft," or some of its cognate offences.

Under Section 3, 27 persons were sentenced to whipping as sole punishment on second conviction in 24 cases, and 164 persons to the same penalty, in addition to other punnishment, in 141 cases, also on second conviction; the offences being of a similar nature in both instances to those mentioned in Section 1.

Under Section 3, 27 persons in 24 cases were whipped as sole punishment on second conviction, and 164 persons in 141 cases in addition to other punishment, also on second conviction.

Under Section 4 of the Act, there were only 10 cases in which 10 persons were sentenced to be whipped for the offences of "lurking house-trespass" and "lurking house-trespass by night," in addition to other punishment, on second conviction.

Under Section 4 there were only 10 cases in which 10 persons were whipped for "lurking house-trespass" and "Lurking house-trespass by night," in addition to other punishment, on second conviction.

39. From the Statement given below, it will be seen that the vast majority of persons, 1,735, were sentenced to be whipped for the different descriptions of theft.

Vast majority of persons sentenced to be whipped for the different descriptions of theft.

A considerable number were also whipped for the offences of dishonestly receiving stolen property (188), and lurking house-trespass or house-breaking by night (173). In no cases was this penalty imposed on persons convicted of robberies, dacoities; nor in cases of false evidence or forgery; nor in those relating to assaults upon women; nor in unnatural offences.

188 persons whipped for "dishonestly receiving stolen property," and 173 for "lurking house-trespass" or "house-breaking by night."

Premature yet to offer any opinion on the working of the Act as a deterrent from crime.

40. It is as yet premature, the Court remark, to offer any opinion as to the extent to which the infliction of this penalty may be considered to have operated as a deterrent from crime; and it would be altogether unsafe to deduce any argument founded on an experience of eight months, based on the comparative absence of the imposition of whipping on a second conviction of the same offence. But the infliction of this penalty has at least had the good result of keeping 1,966 prisoners out of our already over-crowded Jails. The influence of this penalty in effecting this result may be gathered from the circumstance that only 18,238 persons were sentenced to imprisonment in 1864, as compared with 18,079 in the previous year, although the number of sentences imposed in 1864 were very much larger than in 1863.

Infliction of whipping has, however, resulted in keeping 1,966 persons out of the already over-crowded Jails.

2,737 appeals in 1864, and 2,234 in 1863, for decision, 2,617 were disposed of.

There were 2,737 appeals for decision, contrasted with 2,234 in the previous year, when the amount of criminal business was considerably less. Of these,

* In Agra, 8 cases returned for re-investigation are not included in this.
† In Muttra, 8 cases ditto ditto ditto.
‡ In Goruckpore, 1 case ditto ditto ditto.

2,617 were disposed of, 711 being rejected, 1,356 decisions confirmed, and 550, or 21 per cent., reversed or modified, as contrasted with 23 per cent. in 1863.

711 appeals rejected; 1,356 orders confirmed; 550 orders, or 21 per cent., reversed or modified, as compared with 23 per cent. in 1863.

The Court are of opinion that this result may be considered generally satisfactory.

Result generally satisfactory.

42. In the following districts, the proportion of decisions reversed or modified was remarkably small, and speaks highly in favor of the judgment of the officers employed therein:—

Districts in which the proportion of decisions reversed or modified was remarkably small:—
Humeerpore, Furruckabad, Shahjehanpore, Jhansie, Cawnpore, Allygurh.

1. Humeerpore,	---	0	per cent. reversed or modified.
2. Furruckabad,	---	5
3. Shahjehanpore,	---	10
4. Jhansie,	---	10
5. Cawnpore,	---	11
6. Allygurh,	---	12

The districts 1st, 2nd, and 4th in the above list attained a correspondingly high position in the similar Return of the previous year.

43. In the districts of—

Districts of which the Returns were specially unfavorable:—
Etah, Benares, Muttra, Mynpoorie.

Etah,	---	---	42 per cent. reversed or modified.
Benares,	---	---	36
Muttra,	---	---	33
Mynpoorie,	---	---	30

the Returns were specially unavorafble.

In the case of the Etah district, however, the number of appeals was not large, the worst Returns being those of Gunga Pershad, Deputy Magistrate, ten of whose decisions were reversed in appeal, seven being confirmed, and one appeal rejected.

Explanation in regard to the unfavorable Returns of the Etah district.

44. The results of these appeals, as they bear on the total number of cases disposed of during the year, will be seen in columns 8 and 9 of the Statement, from which it will be observed that, out of 38,535 appealable cases decided, 2,717, or 7 per cent., were actually appealed, as compared with 8 per cent. in 1863, and only 1 per cent. interfered with in appeal, against 2 per cent. in 1863.

Results of appeals, as they bear on the total number of cases disposed of, given in columns 8 and 9 of the Statement.
Of 38,535 appealable cases decided, 2,717, or 7 per cent., were appealed, compared with 8 per cent. in 1863, and only 1 per cent. interfered with, against 2 per cent. in 1863.

45. Judged by this standard, the best results were obtained in the districts of—

Districts in which the best results were obtained according to the above standard:—
Banda, Allahabad, Benares, Humeerpore, and Moozuffernuggur.

Banda,	1	per cent. of decisions appealed.	0	per cent. reversed or modified.
Allahabad,	3		0
Humeerpore,	4		0

and the least favorable in those of—

Districts in which the least favorable results were obtained:—
Gurhwal, Muttra, Boolundshuhur, and Moradabad.

Gurhwal,	25	per cent. of decisions appealed.	6	per cent. reversed or modified.
Muttra,	18		5
Boolundshuhur,	19		3
Moradabad,	15		4

In regard to these as well as other unfavorable results, the Court have commented in detail in their replies to the several district Reports.

These unfavorable results have been commented on in the Court's replies to the district Reports.

Commitments.

Cases committed in 1863, 1,419.
Cases committed in 1864, 1,671.
This increase due to increase in the amount of heinous crime.

Cases of 2,882 persons disposed of on trial by the Sessions Judges. Of these, 2,124, or 74 per cent., were convicted, and 758, or 26 per cent., acquitted; being the same proportions as those attained in 1863.

Detailed District Returns of Commitments.

46. Commitments.—Inclusive of cases pending at the close of the previous year, the number of cases committed to the Sessions amounted to 1,671, and the number of persons to 3,382, as contrasted with 1,419 cases and 2,751 persons in the previous year. This increase is evidently due to the increase which occurred in the amount of heinous crime.

47. The cases of 2,882 persons were disposed of on trial by the Sessions Judges. Of these, 2,124, or 74 per cent., were convicted, and 758, or 26 per cent., acquitted,—being exactly the same proportions as those attained in 1863.

48. The detailed results of each Magistracy are shown below:—

Districts in which the best Returns in respect to the proportion of persons convicted were obtained:—
Allygurh, Seharunpore, Azimgurh, Bijnour, Debra Doon, and Mirzapore.

49. The best Returns, in respect to the proportion of persons convicted, were obtained in the districts of—

Allygurh,	88	per cent. convicted.
Seharunpore,	87
Azimgurh,	87
Bijnour,	87
Debra Doon,	87
Mirzapore,	86

In the districts of —

Cawnpore,	---	---	42	per cent. convicted.
Jhansie,	---	---	47
Bareilly,	---	---	51

the results were very inferior.

Districts in which very inferior results were obtained:—
Cawnpore, Jhansie, and Bareilly.

50. For the unfavorable results obtained in the Cawnpore district, Mr. Waterfield, the Joint Magistrate, was chiefly responsible, having committed 20 cases involving 42 persons of those tried at the Sessions, in respect to 7 cases and 24 persons of which acquittals took place.

Mr. Waterfield chiefly responsible for the unfavorable results obtained in Cawnpore.

The inferior results shown in the Jhansie and Bareilly districts were in a great measure exceptional. In the former district, the absolute number of persons tried at the Sessions was too small to prove a fair criterion of the judgment evinced by the Committing Officers, while in both districts the Returns were unfavorably affected by the disproportionate number of persons concerned in the cases which resulted in acquittal.

Jhansie and Bareilly results exceptional.
In Jhansie, the number of persons tried at the Sessions was small; while in Jhansie and Bareilly the Returns were unfavorably affected by the large number of persons concerned in the cases of acquittal.

This latter remark is applicable to some of the other districts, where the results are more or less unfavorable; but, on the whole, the Court consider that the proportion of persons acquitted is a better test of the comparative judicial efficiency of the Committing Officers than the proportion of cases of acquittal.

Court consider the proportion of persons acquitted a better test of the comparative judicial efficiency of Committing Officers than the proportion of cases of acquittal.

51. The Court would here notice that several of the Sessions Judges have complained of much of their time being taken up in the trial of cases of grievous hurt, &c., which, from their nature, do not call for a severer sentence than a Magistrate, under his general powers, is competent to inflict, but which, under the existing law, must be committed to the Sessions for trial;—such offences, for instance, as the breaking another's tooth, or the fracture of one of the bones of the fore-arm.

Sessions Judges complain of much of their time being taken up in trying cases of grievous hurt, &c., which do not call for a severer sentence than a Magistrate can inflict, but which must be committed to the Sessions under the existing law.

52. The Court, I am to observe, have always been of opinion that it was a defect in the Criminal Procedure Code restricting the trial of charges of grievous hurt, and similar offences, to the Sessions Court,—as also limiting the general powers of a Magistrate to a sentence of two instead of three years' imprisonment, as formerly; and they would add that it seems somewhat inconsistent in the Legislature to have subsequently vested considerably higher powers in Magistrates of districts in other Provinces whose judicial experience is much inferior to that of Magistrates of districts of the North-Western Provinces, most of whom have been in the exercise of magisterial functions for periods varying from twelve to twenty years.

Court have always been of opinion that it was a defect in the Criminal Procedure Code restricting the trial of the above and similar offences to the Sessions Court, and limiting the general powers of a Magistrate to a sentence of two instead of three years' imprisonment as formerly.
Inconsistency in the Legislature to have subsequently vested considerably higher powers in Magistrates of districts of other Provinces whose judicial experience is inferior to that of Magistrates of districts in the North-Western Provinces.

352 such cases newly instituted, as compared with 523 in 1863.

Result considered to be satisfactory.

The Court have, for the last two years, noted the diminution in the number of these cases. Their number has still further decreased in the year under review, only 352 having been newly instituted, as compared with 523 in 1863. The Court believe the result to be satisfactory, as formerly many cases were instituted under Act IV. of 1840, and subsequently under Chapter XXII. of the Criminal Procedure Code, which should either have been filed in the Revenue Courts or formed the ground-work of a charge of criminal trespass.

Altogether, the evidence of 2,58,991 witnesses was taken, contrasted with that of 2,21,528 in 1863,—an increase corresponding with the other results of the year.

2,58,991 witnesses examined in 1864, and 2,21,528 in 1863.

Of the witnesses examined, 2,44,293 were dismissed after no more than one day's attendance; 10,927 after 2 days' attendance; 2,601 after 3 days; and the remaining 1,170 after longer periods. The proportion of persons dismissed after 1, 2, 3, and 4 days' attendance respectively,—i. e., 95, 4, 1, and 0 per cent.,—was exactly the same as that attained in 1863, which the Court consider to be highly satisfactory.

2,44,293 witnesses dismissed after one day's attendance.

10,927 ditto after 2 days' attendance.

2,601 ditto after 3 days' attendance.

1,170 ditto after longer periods.

Proportion of persons dismissed after 1, 2, 3, and 4 days' attendance respectively,—i. e., 95, 4, 1, and 0 per cent.,—was the same as in 1863.

These results highly satisfactory.

55. The greatest number of witnesses were examined in the Allahabad district, where so many as 18,463 attended Court for examination. In the districts of Ghazeepore and Etawah the number was also very large.

In these four districts only 39 persons were detained for more than one day,—a circumstance very creditable to the Magisterial Officers. In Mozuffernuggur not a single witness was so detained.

Jaloun, Goruckpore, and Benares.

Explanation of results obtained in Jaloun and Goruckpore.

The Jaloun Return, though unfavorable, is an improvement on that of the preceding year. The inferior result exhibited in the Goruckpore district has been explained to be due to the unpunctual attendance at Court of the subordinate Magistrates of the district; and the Court have expressed their dissatisfaction on this account, in their reply to the Sessions Judge's Annual Report.

Explanation of unfavorable result obtained in Benares.

In Benares, the small proportion of witnesses dismissed after only one day's attendance was reported by the Magistrate of the district to be attributable to the practice followed by Mr. Cline, Deputy Magistrate, of performing Revenue and Magisterial duties on alternate days, whereby witnesses were unduly kept in attendance. But the Court are of opinion that Mr. Cline was unfairly burdened with Criminal, Revenue, Treasury, and miscellaneous duties, in consequence of which he was unable to dispose of his Criminal work with promptitude and despatch; and they are glad to learn that he has now been relieved from the extraordinary pressure of duties to which he was subjected during the closing months of the past year.

Results sufficiently satisfactory.

The number of appeals of this description instituted during the year, inclusive of those pending at the beginning of it, amounted to 1,493, compared with 1,209 in 1863. Of these, 1,453 were disposed of, 809 being confirmed, 259 orders rejected, and 385, or 27 per cent., reversed or modified, as contrasted with 29 per cent. in 1863, and 28 per cent. in 1862. In the Magistrates' Courts, Rs. 40,184 of the fines inflicted were directed to be paid to the injured parties in compensation for loss or damage received, contrasted with Rs. 23,620 in the year 1863. Of this amount, Rs. 13,772, or 34 per cent., were realized and paid as directed in the order, against 41 per cent. similarly realized in 1863. This result cannot be considered as evidence of even tolerable success on the part of the Magistrates in the realization of these fines; and the Court are at a loss to reconcile these results with the favorable results in regard to the realization of fines generally formerly adverted to in paragraph 32 of this address.

In Magistrates' Courts Rs. 40,184 imposed in compensation in 1864.

Rs. 23,620 in 1863.

Rs. 13,772, or 34 per cent., realized and paid in compensation, against 41 per cent. in 1863.

Results not satisfactory, and irreconcilable with the favorable results in regard to the realization of fines generally adverted to in para. 32 of this address.

In the districts of Kumaon, Shahjehanpore, Mozuffernuggur, and Jounpore, the results were very favorable.

Results in certain named districts very favorable:—
Kumaon, Shahjehanpore, Mozuffernuggur, and Jounpore.

In the Courts of the Sessions Judges, Rs. 6,717 were imposed and ordered to be paid under Section 44 of the Code; only Rs. 347 of which, or 5 per cent., was actually realized and paid as directed.

In Sessions Judges' Courts, of Rs. 6,717 imposed as compensation, Rs. 347, or 5 per cent., realized.

66. The Court have frequently warned Magisterial Officers against the indiscriminate resort to this important provision of the Law, without a reasonable assurance that the defendant is possessed of means sufficient for the realization of the fine. But they have been equally careful to inculcate the necessity of exhausting every possible means calculated to secure payment of the fine, after the provisions of Section 44 have been directed to be applied. The result, they regret to observe, has not been commensurate with their expectations; but the subject is one of much difficulty, in which the data at the command of the Magisterial Officers for enabling them to judge of the condition of the offender, are perhaps often insufficient.

In 1,416 trials, the Sessions Judge concurred with the Assessors in 1,217, and differed from them in 199 cases.

Quotation of Mr. Vansittart's remarks on the subject.

Hindoo Assessors will seldom or never find a Brahmin guilty of murder, however clear the evidence.

In cases of marriage and ceremonial observances, opinion of Assessors valuable.

74. 1,416 trials were held with the aid of Assessors; in 1,217 of which the Sessions Judge concurred in the opinion of the Assessors, differing from them in 199 cases. On this subject, Mr. Vansittart, Sessions Judge of Bareilly, remarks: "If the Assessors fail to give satisfaction, I may say it is generally on trials "where the prisoner is charged with murder, they being disposed to demand the "evidence of an eye witness; the Hindoo gentlemen generally hesitating to con-"vict on this count, by which they may, contrary to their instincts and the prin-"ciples of their religion, send a fellow creature to meet his death by hanging." To this, the Court would add, that Hindoo Assessors will seldom or never find a Brahmin guilty of murder, however clear the evidence of the case.

In cases connected with marriage and ceremonial observances, however, the opinion of the Assessors is frequently valuable.

1,108 Assessors, Agriculturists; 1,048 Mahajuns; 465 Pleaders; 182 in service; and 36 Priests.

75. Of the Assessors employed in 1864, 1,108 followed agriculture as a profession; 1,048 were Mahajuns; 465 Pleaders; 182 employed in service; and 36 Priests; the remaining Assessors being unclassed.

The average duration of each Sessions' trial during the year 1864, counting from the date fixed by the Magistrate for the trial to the date on which the warrant of the Sessions Judge issued or his reference was despatched to the Sudder Court, was 20 days, as compared with 23 days in 1863; and that of each criminal appeal † 20 days, being the same proportion as in the previous year.

Average duration of each trial 20 days in 1864 and 23 days in 1863; and of each appeal 20 days in 1864, being the same as in 1863.

77. In regard to this Return, the Court would repeat their remark of last year, that these averages are subject to disturbing causes such as the periodical circuits of the Sessions Judges to outlying Magistracies, which it is frequently out of the power of the Sessions Judges to control. The Court, however, have not failed to notice the extraordinarily short average duration of Sessions trials (one day) reported in the Moradabad Judgeship, with special reference to the extreme dilatoriness of Mr. J. Power in holding the Bijnour Sessions, which has formed the subject of correspondence during the year, and they have called for special explanation on the matter.

As remarked last year, these averages subject to disturbing causes.

* In this case the papers were returned to the Sessions Judge, as he was competent to pass the sentence recommended by him.

† In this case the papers were returned to the Commissioner, as he was competent to pass the sentence recommended by him.

‡ Exclusive of seven cases, viz:—

One case from Mynpoorie, and one from Allahabad, which are still pending before the Court; and one, a Moradabad case, has been returned for further evidence; and four, Ajmere cases, sent by Government for the opinion of the Court.

Six persons had their cases referred to the Nizamut Adawlut under the old law; the sentences proposed by the Sessions Judges were passed on them.

79. Six persons availed themselves of the privilege of having their cases referred to the Nizamut Adawlut for passing of sentence under the provisions of the old law. All these persons were convicted and sentenced by the Court as proposed by the Sessions Judges.

Of 87 persons sentenced capitally, the Court confirmed the sentences passed on 60, modified those passed on 11, and acquitted the remaining 16 persons.

80. Eighty-seven persons were sentenced capitally, and their cases referred for confirmation of sentence by the Sudder Court under the Code of Criminal Procedure. The sentences passed on 60 of these were confirmed by the Court; modified sentences were passed on 11; and the remaining 16 persons were acquitted.

Judges with whom the Court concurred in opinion, and passed or confirmed the sentences proposed in the references made:—

Messrs. Drummond, Fane, Power, Money, Bramly, Lushington, Stewart Reid, Sherer, and Thornhill.

81. In all the regular references of this nature, made by Messrs. Drummond, Fane, Power, Money, Bramly, Lushington, Stewart Reid, Sherer, and Thornhill, as noted marginally, the Court concurred in opinion with the Sessions Judges, and passed or confirmed the sentences proposed by them.

Results of references made by Messrs. Ross and Turnbull not favorable; but the number of persons referred was small.

The results of the references made by Messrs. Andrew Ross and Turnbull were not favorable; but the number of persons referred was small.

The cases of 784 persons were appealed or were called for and reviewed by the Court on inspection of the periodical Statements.

Sentences passed on 420 persons confirmed, and those on 160 modified; the remaining 204 persons were acquitted.

82. The cases of 784 persons were either appealed to the Court from the decisions of the Sessions Judges or called for by the Court on perusal of the Monthly Statements. Of those disposed of, the sentences passed on 420 persons were confirmed, and on 160 modified, the other 204 being acquitted.

Of the cases of 164 persons otherwise reviewed by the Court, the sentences on 146 persons were confirmed, and those on 3 were modified, the remaining 15 persons being acquitted.

The cases of 164 persons were otherwise reviewed by the Court. In these cases, the sentences of the Sessions Judges were confirmed in respect to 146 persons, and modified in regard to 3, only 15 persons being acquitted.

In respect to appeals and revisions, the results obtained by Mr. Dunlop and Major MacNeile were perfect, but the number of cases revised was small.

Omitting the Returns of officers where the number of revisions was less than 10, the best results are those of Messrs. Fane, Sherer, Paterson, and Turnbull; and the least good those of Messrs. G.P. Money, Keene, Lindsay, and Lushington.

83. Taking both these classes of cases revised into account, the Court observe that the results obtained by Mr. Dunlop and by Major MacNeile were perfect, though the number of cases revised was very small, especially in the case of the latter Officer. If, however, the Returns of those Officers be omitted where the number of revisions was less than 10, the best results are those of Messrs. Fane, Sherer, Paterson, and Turnbull; and the least good those of Messrs. G. P. Money, Keene, Lindsay, and Lushington.

84. The amount of criminal business of every description performed by the Nizamut Adawlut during the past two years is shown below :—

85. Seventy-eight cases of heinous crime were regularly referred to the Court during the year under review, as contrasted with 77 in the previous year, and 135 in 1862. With reference to the considerable increase of serious crime throughout the country, a larger increase might reasonably have been expected of these cases; and the result appears to indicate a growing tendency on the part of the Sessions Judge to substitute the minor sentence of imprisonment for life in transportation for a capital one in cases of murder. But in all such cases the Court are careful to see that the provisions of the Law in regard to the record of reasons for the non-infliction of sentence of death are duly attended to.

78 cases of heinous crime were regularly referred to the Court in 1864, and 77 in 1863, and 135 in 1862.

The above result indicates a growing tendency on the part of the Sessions Judge to substitute sentence of imprisonment for life for a capital sentence in murder cases.

Caution used by the Court in such cases.

86. The Court called for the records of cases under Sections 403 and 405 in 25 cases, compared with 51 in the previous year. As anticipated by the Court in last year's Report, the number of these cases, which are generally called for on perusal of the Monthly Statements for the purpose of checking irregularities of procedure, or illegalities, or harshness of sentences, was much smaller than in 1863,—a circumstance which seems to betoken general improvement in the observance of the rules of Criminal procedure by the Sessions Courts in these Provinces.

25 cases reviewed under Sections 403 and 405 in 1864; 51 cases in 1863.

As anticipated in last year's Report, the number of these cases was much smaller than in 1863.

This circumstance betokens general improvement in the observance of Rules of Criminal Procedure by the Sessions Courts.

87. Three hundred and forty Criminal appeals were preferred to the Sudder Court during the year, against 232 in 1863; and 71 cases were referred to or otherwise came before the Court under Sections 404 and 434, compared with 80 in 1863.

340 Criminal appeals preferred in 1864, and 232 in 1863.

Cases under Sections 404 and 434 in 1864, 71; in 1863, 80.

88. On the whole, 514 Criminal trials were decided by the Court in 1864, as contrasted with 440 in the previous year, and 178 miscellaneous cases were also disposed of in 1864, against 222 miscellaneous cases in 1863; so that the number of Criminal cases of every description disposed of in the year under report was 692, compared with 662 in 1863.

Altogether 514 Criminal trials decided in 1864; 440 in 1863; 178 miscellaneous cases in 1864; 222 in 1863; so that on the whole 692 cases were disposed of in 1864, and 662 in 1863.

89. Thirty Criminal trials were pending on the Court's file at the close of 1864, as contrasted with 22 similarly pending at the end of 1863, and 47 at the close of 1862.

30 Criminal trials pending before the Nizamut Adawlut in 1864; 22 in 1863; and 47 in 1862.

90. The average duration of each Criminal trial disposed of by the Court during the year amounted to 16 days.

Average duration of each trial in the Court was 16 days.

Penalties imposed by Nizamut Adawlut.

91. The penal sentences inflicted by the Nizamut Adawlut during the year under review were the following :—

Penalties.	1864.	1863.
Death	61	60
Transportation for life	11	17
Transportation above 7 years and not exceeding 14 years	30	12
Imprisonment for life	...	...
Imprisonment above 12 and not exceeding 21 years	...	...
Imprisonment above 5 and not exceeding 10 years	14	13
Imprisonment not exceeding 5 years	104	60
Total	219	162

Total number of sentences increased from 162 in 1863, to 219 in 1864.

Number of capital sentences was only one in excess of 1863, while that of persons transported for life diminished from 17 to 11.

92. The total number of sentences passed by the Sudder Court increased from 162 passed in 1863 to 219 in the year under notice. As before mentioned, the number of capital sentences was only one in excess of the previous year, while the number of persons transported for life diminished from 17 to 11.

Number of persons imprisoned from 7 to 14 years increased from 12 to 30; that of persons from 5 to 10 years did not vary materially; but those imprisoned for periods not exceeding 5 years increased from 60 in 1863 to 104 in 1864.

There was a considerable increase (from 12 to 30) in the number of persons imprisoned from 7 to 14 years. Persons sentenced to periods ranging from 5 to 10 years did not vary materially in number, but those ordered to be imprisoned for periods not exceeding 5 years were nearly double what they were in 1863, having increased from 60 to 104.

Reference made to the replies of the Court to the several Annual Reports, of which copies are submitted, in regard to special exceptional Returns, and orders passed thereupon.

93. The replies of the Court to the several Annual Reports of the Sessions Judges are submitted in manuscript for the perusal of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor. To these the Court would refer in regard to specially exceptional or unfavorable results, and the orders passed by the Court thereupon.

Statement called for in G. O., No. 425A., dated 3rd September, 1864, and additional Statements prescribed by the Government of India, also submitted.

Remarks in regard to the latter Statements.

Court, for reasons explained, consider them unsuitable for periodical submission, and suggest their discontinuance.

94. The Court have likewise submitted with the Report the Statement called for in your letter, No. 425A., dated 3rd September last, inclusive of the remarks of the Magistrates of districts and Sessions Judges, regarding their subordinates, together with the additional Statements prescribed by the Government of India, in G. O., No. 96A., dated 10th May, 1864; but, in regard to the latter, the Court would respectfully submit that, until thoroughly revised by themselves, those Statements could not possibly be filled up, as they were framed with reference to the former system of Criminal law and procedure which obtained before the enactment of the recent Codes, and were in many places altogether inapplicable to the present system; e. g., the old list of miscellaneous offences, with nomenclature differing most materially from that prescribed in the Indian Penal Code, was embodied in these Statements. But, even as corrected, the Court consider them unsuitable for periodical submission, inasmuch as they are framed entirely on a different principle from that on which the Court's Criminal Statements are based. Their preparation therefore is a matter of the greatest difficulty, and the Court have no confidence in the accuracy of Statements prepared under such disadvantageous circumstances; they would therefore earnestly request that the submission of these additional Statements be discontinued.

Administration of Criminal Justice generally successful in the past year in these Provinces.

95. In conclusion, it only remains for the Court to express their opinion, that the administration of Criminal Justice in the North-Western Provinces during the past year has been generally successful, and the labor of the Judicial and Magisterial Officers employed such as to entitle them to the acknowledgments of Government.

I have the honor to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient Servant,

JAMES SIMSON,

Register.

Agra, the 31st March, 1865.

APPENDIX A.

EXTRACT from the Etawah Magistrate's Report, No. 1, dated 6th January, 1865, to the address of the Sessions Judge of Mynpoorie.

DURING the past year, 1864, the cases of more than twice as many persons were disposed of as in 1863, and just three times as many as in 1862. So vast an increase demands a full explanation. .

I would first remark that it is chiefly, but not solely, in bailable offences that the increase has occurred. In 1863, the number of persons disposed of in non-bailable was 402, and in 1864 it amounted to 491. In the subjoined Table these numbers, as well as the numbers of the offences recorded to have been committed in those years, are analyzed :—

Year.	Theft.		Unaggravated house-trespass or house-breaking.		All other non-bailable offences.		Attempt to commit ditto.
	No. of cases that occurred.	Number of persons brought to trial and disposed of.	Number of cases that occurred.	Number of persons brought to trial and disposed of.	Number of cases that occurred.	Number of persons brought to trial and disposed of.	Number of cases that occurred.	Number of persons brought to trial and disposed of.
1863 ...	722	246	297	34	52	104	135	18
1864 ...	964	294	324	32	83	150	141	15
Increase ...	242	48	27	...	31	46	6	...
Decrease ...	...	...	...	2	...	...	...	3

It will be observed that there has been a real increase in the number of recorded crimes, as well as in the number of persons brought to trial, while the increase of the latter is only a little more than proportional to that of the former. It might be asserted that the crimes that are now committed are more invariably recorded than they formerly were, but my own impression is that crime has really increased. One cause of this increase unquestionably is the extremely high prices that have here prevailed, almost throughout the year. In a district where in past years wheat has habitually sold at from 30 to 35 seers per rupee, petty thefts must increase, when for months together only 15 seers are procurable, and this is what has actually occurred.

Let us analyze the theft cases for instance :—

Class of case.	Year 1863.		Year 1864.
	Number of cases.	Value of property stolen.	Number of cases.	Value of property stolen.
Bonâ fide theft fully believed to have occurred	283	4,762	424	4,197
Cases of reported theft not believed to have occurred	27	339	45	972
Cases of strayed cattle recorded as stolen owing to their recovery not having been ascertained	412	4,502	494	5,516

Here we find an increase of one-half in the number of the theft cases, but withal a considerable diminution in the amount of property stolen. In burglaries (chiefly the work of professional thieves) there has been but slight increase; but robberies and dacoities (non-aggravated cases), which any five half-starved Rorees can perpetrate after dusk in the high fields on some bunya bringing home flour and salt from the weekly fair, have doubled, while cases of receiving stolen property have increased from 10 to 34. Murders have increased, but culpable homicides have diminished, and, as the line separating these offences is very narrow, no satisfactory inference can be drawn from these variations.

In the past year, in round numbers, 1,500 non-bailable offences (including doubtful cases and cases of lost and strayed cattle) were recorded as having occurred; in 1863, only 1,200 such cases were recorded. In these cases, in 1864, there were 293 successful prosecutions, or nearly 20 per cent., against 215 or less than 18 per cent. in 1863: moreover, out of all such prosecutions, 60 per cent. were successful in 1864, against 53 per cent. in 1863. Although, therefore, from circumstances beyond our control, there was an increase of 25 per cent. in non-bailable offences, we were somewhat more successful than in 1863 in dealing with them.

It must not be supposed, however, that I consider these results satisfactory. The Superintendent of Police is a very able and energetic officer,—of considerable experience. I myself am also not new to the work. Both of us have exerted ourselves most strenuously during the past year, and yet our exertions appear to have produced no appreciable results; not one single case of importance has occurred during this past year, which I myself have not personally watched, and yet several—nay, almost half—of the most important have broken down. In 5 out of 11 cases of murder, in 5 out of 10 cases of robbery, and in one out of 3 cases of dacoity, we have been unable to bring the offenders to justice, or at any rate to secure their conviction. Looking back to former years, it appears to me that in 1858, 1859, and 1860, I was very much more successful with the old Police than I am now with the new, and that too although I certainly did not take more pains then than I have taken in the past year, and although I had then no zealous co-adjutor like Lieutenant Graham. I am inclined to believe that it is in a great measure to the transition state in which our Police organization has long been that we owe our want of success. Although it is not possible in a Report like this to go deeply into the question, it will not, I think, be out of place to note briefly some leading facts bearing on this question. Practically speaking, for the Collector, and, what is still more important, the Tehseeldars, officers possessing very great powers over and influence with the Zemindars, we have substituted the Superintendent of Police and Inspectors, neither of whom can possibly, ex-officio, carry much weight now in serious crimes. It is almost solely through the Zemindars that the truth can be elicited and proof obtained. Any number of men may have seen a murder committed; but, in many cases, not one of these eye-witnesses will give evidence, unless strongly pressed by their Zemindars. True, the Magistrate is still responsible; but the Magistrate working through the Superintendent and Inspectors, and the Magistrate working through his Tehseeldars, is a wholly different matter. The people understand that the Police is a separate serishta; that the Magistrate neither appoints, promotes, nor punishes the Police,—there is another officer between; and let a Magistrate go to the spot himself, and, assisted by the Police, do and say what he pleases, he cannot produce one-third of the effect that he did when working directly through his "officer of Police," as Tehseeldars were then called. The first great cause then of the present comparative want of efficiency of the new Police, as compared with the old, is that we have virtually substituted, for very influential officers, others who have no real weight with the very class whose co-operation is, as Native society is now constituted, most necessary to success in Police administration.

The second is somewhat similar. Formerly, your chief instruments in detection, the fellows who would worm out of suspected persons clues to important facts, who would bully and coax all parties who could or might know or find out anything about the case into active assistance, were old, ragged-coated, grey-haired Burkundauzes, who had been 20, 30, 40 years in the same Thannah. Now scarcely a single one of the old men are to be found. They could not or would not drill; they did not like the new system; and we have a hundred men from the Police corps raised at Allahabad, or 200 from some Chamar Levy raised some where else. The second cause then is, in my judgment, that the lower grades are a as body far less competent as detectives than the old Burkundauzes were.

There is yet a third cause. The numerical strength of Police has, I think, at any rate in this district, been reduced below the limit at present compatible with efficiency. To these and other less important kindred causes is, I think, chiefly to be attributed the want of success that I have above remarked; but, while hazarding the opinion that the new Police is not altogether so successful as yet as was at first expected, it must not therefore be supposed that I either regret the change or look forward anything but hopefully to the future. In the first place, if we have lost something we have also gained greatly. If the Police hardly protect the property and lives of the public so efficiently as the former Police did, and if, as detectives, they are somewhat less successful, at any rate they do not prey upon and oppress the public as the old Burkundauz Police unquestionably did. A few more crimes may be committed, a few less offenders proportionably brought to justice; but I question whether, notwithstanding this, the general public are not better off and really better protected, take it all in all, under the new system than the old: corruption, extortion, ill-treatment, and abuse, were, do what one would, too much the characteristics of the old Police. In this district at any rate, they seem almost unknown amongst the new.

Again, granting that the peculiar influence of Collector and Tehseeldar derived from their known almost unlimited powers in revenue matters is lost to the Police in their investigations, and that hence these latter produce less favorable results, may it not be doubted whether this influence was constitutional or healthy, and may we not say, "Better get out less cases without than more with this influence?" Certainly, in regard to the old Burkundauz system of detection,—half force, half fraud,—we are well rid of it. Controlled by an iron hand, restricting its illegalities within the narrowest limits, it might work well and possibly do little real evil; but it was bad in principle, and we are well rid of it. Time, I think, maturing the scheme and bringing experience to the force as a body, and specially the lower grades, will gradually remove that want of practical success which, at present, cannot fail to cause anxiety. One more word I would add on this subject. We must have patience. There are doubtless some more or less important improvements yet necessary, but the main requisite is to have a little patience,—to let the organization solidify,—to let the young plant root and grow. Hitherto this poor new Police has scarcely had fair play, having been pulled up by the roots every six months or so to see how it was getting on. Change, change, change, has been the only persistent characteristic of the Police; and if, under such a system, or want of system, officers and men have not been at all discouraged or disheartened, and have not become at all less zealous and careful in the discharge of their duties, it must be admitted that it is infinitely to their credit.

THIS indicates a large increase of crime without any corresponding success on the part of the Police in apprehending and bringing criminals to trial.

The fact is not satisfactory.

Mr. Hume has very properly recorded, at considerable length, the causes which have, in his estimation, contributed to produce these unfavorable results; and I commend that officer's remarks to the consideration of the Court, who are well aware of the ability and zeal which characterize Mr. Hume's administration of the Etawah district, and of the value which attaches to his opinions in all matters affecting the welfare and good government of the people.

Mr. Hume's views may be briefly stated to be: 1st, that the high price of food throughout the year has operated unfavorably on the Returns of theft and burglary; 2nd, that, owing to the different constitution of the new Police, as contrasted with the old Burkundauz system, the former have hitherto been less successful in detecting crime; 3rd, that the Police force has been reduced numerically below the limit at present compatible with efficiency.

There can be no question that the first cause mentioned by Mr. Hume has operated unfavorably, and must continue to do so while prices are maintained at their present rates. But it is to be observed that these rates have for the most part prevailed for the last four years, yet there has been a steady increase of crime and a corresponding want of success in its detection. If the Court will refer back to the Returns from 1859 to 1863, this fact will be apparent. It cannot therefore be said that the admitted defects of the new Police system have been remedied after three years' experience of their duties.

While, therefore, concurring with Mr. Hume that high prices necesarily account for increased crime to an appreciable extent, I am not prepared to admit that so vast an enhancement can be charged to this cause, or that the efforts of the Police would have been so continually baffled if they had attained to a moderate degree of efficiency.

The second cause mentioned by Mr. Hume is one that involves the whole constitution of the new Police, and it is one which, as Mr. Hume justly remarks, it is inexpedient to enter upon at length in a Report of this nature. But I may be permitted to express my cordial concurrence in that officer's brief remarks relative to the severance of the offices of Magistrate and Police Officers, the consequent loss of that local influence among the people which was formerly exercised by the Magistrate with good results, but which can never attach to the Office of District Superintendent. But I am prepared to go further than Mr. Hume, and to assert that the want of co-operation on the part of the people, which has resulted from the introduction of the new Police, is now and must always prove fatal to the system. The absolute dependence of the Police, both in the present and the past, upon the assistance of the Zemindars has hitherto not, in my opinion, been sufficiently realized or appreciated; and it is only when the people abandon the Police to their own resources, as at present, that their utter helplessness in the detection of heinous crime is fully apparent. That the new Police have ceased to enjoy that prestige which, whatever the faults of the old system may have been, even the Burkundauz possessed, is a fact which none will deny; and so long as the law vests the appointment and promotion of Police Officers in the hands of the District Superintendent, the defect will not be remedied. I quite concur in Mr. Hume's remark on the evil results of importing 200 men of a Chamar Levy into a district. But the arguments which apply to the exclusion of large bodies of Chamars have equal force in regard to the employment of Seikhs, who, whatever their qualities as smart, well-drilled soldiers, have not the stake in the country which the Burkundauz of the old school possessed in virtue of his connections by caste and relationship with the respectable families of the district. A remedy for this important defect may be found in a strict prohibition against the employment of outsiders. It would, in my opinion, be much wiser to relax in some degree the system of drill in the new Police, if by that means the young men of good family belonging to the district would thereby be induced to join the ranks. The immense advantages of local position and influence among the people would be cheaply purchased at some sacrifice of martial appearance and smartness, which seem to be at present the first consideration (as they naturally would be) with a Military Officer who holds the Office of District Superintendent.

I regret that I cannot endorse Mr. Hume's opinion that we are well rid of the unconstitutional means, "half force, half fraud," which he alleges to have been adopted by the old Police in the detection of crime. I am not disposed to admit that the action of the old Police is fairly described as " half force, half fraud, " or that we are in a position to assert that there is any diminution of either element in the new system.

That there is now more crime, and less detection, cannot be denied ; and it appears to me that the main cause of these defects is the want of sympathy on the part of the people, and their natural dislike to the large importation of foreigners, whether Seikhs, Chamars, or others, whose sole recommendation is smartness in appearance and drill. I am not aware of any such radical changes in the new Police system as would explain their want of efficiency or justify Mr. Hume in inferring that the condition of the Police has been unsettled, or harassed by changes.

JAMES SIMSON,
Register.

No. 515A.

FROM

ROBERT SIMSON, ESQUIRE,

Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces,

To

J. D. SANDFORD, ESQUIRE,

Officiating Register to the Court of Nizamut Adawlut.

DATED NYNEE TAL, THE 18TH JULY, 1865.

SIR,

HAVING laid before the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor the Court's Annual Report, dated 31st March last, on the administration of Criminal Justice in the North-Western Provinces and the Divisions of Jhansie and Kumaon, during the year 1864, I am directed in reply to communicate as follows:—

2. It is observed that the number of persons for trial largely exceeds that of any other year since 1858. If, however, a comparison be made with the Returns for 1855, the last year previous to the mutiny of which Statements exist, it appears that the numbers are as follows:—

For 1855	...	1,01,790	persons under trial.
For 1864	...	95,940	persons under trial.
Difference in favor of 1864	...	5,850

The Returns for the Saugor and Nerbudda Territories and for the Delhi Division were, however, included in the Statements of 1855.

3. There can be little doubt that the large increase* of crime (which, however, is not so large as in the preceding year) is attributable in a great measure to the high price of food consequent on a bad harvest and the distress amongst the poorer classes of the population which resulted therefrom. This is evident from the fact that petty offences and offences against property have increased in a higher ratio than other crimes.

Receiving stolen property dishonestly,	996	1,346
Robbery	238	360
House-breaking	12,224	13,560
	40,035	43,347

4. Almost every class of heinous crime has, however, increased to a greater or less degree, with the exception of the administering of stupifying drugs with criminal intent, which, the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to perceive, has diminished by nearly one-half. Further observation on this subject will be deferred until receipt of the Annual Police Report.

5. The attention of the Inspector-General of Police will be drawn to the opinions on the operation of the Police administration referred to in the 10th paragraph of the Report. A copy of paragraph 11 of the Report, regarding the cliquedom which is said to prevail in the Etah district among the subordinate officials in the Police and some of the Magisterial Umlah, will also be forwarded to Mr. Court, and to the Joint Magistrate through the Commissioner, for a full report upon the state of things as reported by Mr. Carnac.

Paragraphs 12 and 13 of the Report.

6. In regard to the Police administration in the Etawah district, His Honor will await the receipt of the Police Report before passing orders on the subject.

7. It is gratifying to observe that no case of Thuggee is reported to have occurred during 1864. A copy of paragraph 15 of the Report, with the remarks recorded by Mr. Carnac, in reference to crimes perpetrated after the administration of stupifying drugs and other crimes analogous to Thuggee, will, as suggested by the Court, be forwaredd to the Inspector-General of Police for special consideration.

8. The great delay in the disposal of cases in the Cawnpore district is unsatisfactory; but as Mr. Monckton, whose health was very indifferent, has taken sick leave to England, and Mr. Waterfield has been transferred to a less onerous district, it is hoped that similar delays will not again occur.

9. The increased proportion of convictions is satisfactory, but there is room for further improvement. The Return for the Benares district is very favorable. The increased number of preliminary enquiries by Magistrates also evinces a commendable desire on their part to avoid the arrest or detention of persons against whom the obtaining of sufficient proof of guilt is doubtful.

10. The exertions of the Honorary Magistrates named in paragraph 27 of the Report have been very praiseworthy. Rajah Juswunt Rao of Etawah especially deserves notice for the large number of cases satisfactorily disposed of by him. The appointment of Honorary Magistrates was specially made with a view to the speedy and satisfactory disposal of trivial cases, and it is gratifying to His Honor to observe that the Reports regarding them are so generally favorable. His Honor will be glad to learn the result of the experiment, now being tried at Shahjehanpore, of trying petty cases which occur in the city by a Board of Honorary Magistrates.

11. The Lieutenant-Governor entirely agrees with the Court that the exemption from Stamp-duty of all petitions and applications referring to bailable or petty offences was inexpedient and has tended greatly to increase idle and frivolous litigation.

12. The result of the realization of fines is satisfactory, and is probably to be attributed in some measure to the change of system adverted to by the Court.

13. It is observed that the punishment of whipping has not only relieved the over-crowded Jails of these Provinces to a considerable extent, but has also prevented 1,923 persons, a third of whom were probably juveniles, who were convicted of theft for the first time, from being incarcerated with hardened criminals, with the probable result of irretrievably ruining their characters.

14. The proportion of decisions reversed or modified on appeal, shown in paragraphs 41 to 43, cannot be looked upon as a perfect test of the correctness of a Magistrate's judgments. The proportion of appeals to the number of cases decided is, in His Honor's opinion, a much better criterion of the care and good judgment of the Magistrate, but this test also applies only to those districts in which there is a resident Judge. A further objection to basing any decided conclusions upon these percentages, as a means of comparison, is the great differences of the numbers from which they are taken.

15. His Honor entirely concurs with the Court in the opinion expressed regarding the restriction by the Criminal Procedure Code of the trial of charges of grievous hurt and similar offences to the Sessions Court, and the limitation of the general powers of Magistrates in these Provinces introduced by the Criminal Procedure Code. The inconsistency of conferring larger powers on Deputy Commissioners of less experience in non-Regulation Provinces is very apparent, and His Honor trusts that this defect may hereafter be rectified.

16. It appears from the Court's Resolution on the Returns from Allahabad that nearly 8,000 more witnesses were examined this year in that district than in 1863, chiefly in the Courts of the Joint Magistrate and the Uncovenanted Deputy Collector. There is no apparent reason for this enormous increase, as the number of cases is not greatly larger; and the Court have very properly requested the Magistrate to call the attention of his subordinates to the necessity of exercising more discretion in summoning witnesses.

17. The unnecessary detention of witnesses in the Jaloun, Goruckpore, and Benares districts, is noticed in paragraph 57 of the Report: the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that these unfavorable remarks will not have to be repeated. The names of the officers referred to, in Jaloun and Goruckpore, should however be ascertained and reported for the information of Government. I am desired to add that it is the duty of the Magistrate to insist upon punctuality in attendance at Office on the part of his subordinates, and that for the fulfilment of this duty he will be held responsible. The same remark applies to the Jounpore Statement showing the average duration of each trial; and I am to request that the names of the officers to whose procrastination the unfavorable state of this Return is ascribed may be reported. Mr. Bird has been removed from the charge of the Jounpore district, and the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion as regards his official character has been separately recorded.

18. The average duration of each Sessions trial at Moradabad is evidently incorrect, and His Honor requests that the explanation which may be received from Mr. Power be submitted for his perusal.

19. The Criminal business devolving upon the Sudder Court has increased, though not to a great extent, during the year: it has been disposed of with commendable promptitude.

20. In regard to the request contained in the 94th paragraph of the Report for the discontinuance of the additional Statements prescribed by the Government of India, I am directed to state that, if the Court will make a separate reference on this subject, showing in detail their objections to these Statements and their general unsuitability under the present system, His Honor will give the subject every consideration, and, if necessary, will address the Government of India.

21. The considerable increase of crime exhibited in these Returns is much to be regretted, but the prompt and efficient manner in which the Judicial Officers generally have performed the largely-augmented duties thus devolving upon them is satisfactory. The Court have expressed no separate opinion of the relative merits of the officers whose work they have reviewed, but from the separate District Resolutions it appears that Messrs. Oldfield and Hume are deserving of special commendation for the vigor, promptitude, and ability of their administration, and the following officers are also very favorably mentioned: Magistrates—Messrs. Ricketts, Edwards, Martin, Pollock, Lawrence, and Jenkinson; Joint Magistrates—Messrs. Watson, Halsey, Hardinge, Quinton, Kaye, Duthoit; Assistant Magistrates—Messrs. D. Gardner, W. Tyrrell, Sells, G. Ward, McConaghey, Girdlestone, Dale, and Hall; Deputy Magistrates and Extra Assistant Commissioners—Messrs. Bachman, Walker, James, Khyr-ood-deen Ahmed, Meer Imdad Ali, Kunnoo Lall, Ameer Ali, Debee Pershad; Tehseeldars—Mendee Ali of Etawah and Gunga Pershad of Bareilly.

22. The report of the death of Mr. Best, which occurred at Futtehpore on the 5th instant, has been received by the Lieutenant-Governor with great regret: by this event the Government have lost a very energetic, conscientious, and useful officer.

23. In conclusion, the Lieutenant-Governor has pleasure in conveying his acknowledgments to the Court for their exertions and for the attention they have bestowed on the administration of Criminal Justice in these Provinces.

I have the honor to be,

Your most obedient Servant,

ABSTRACT.

PARAGRAPH 1.—Transmits Criminal Report and Statements for 1864.

PARAGRAPH 2.—Detailed Statements of persons brought to trial, and results.

PARAGRAPH 3.—General results and averages of the above.

PARAGRAPH 4.—98,115 persons for trial in 1865, as contrasted with 95,940 in 1864, being an increase of 2,175 persons.

Compared with the Returns of 1855, exclusive of the Saugor and Delhi Territories, there was an increase of 14,271 persons for trial.

PARAGRAPH 5.—The number of persons charged with non-bailable offences increased from 23,967 in 1864, to 26,108 in 1865; and that of persons charged with bailable offences increased from 71,973 to 72,007.

The latter increase to be expected with reference to the very large increase (from 61,498 to 71,973) which occurred in 1864, compared with 1863.

PARAGRAPH 6.—Crimes and offences ascertained to have been committed similarly increased from 87,399 in 1864, to 92,809 in 1865; i. e., from 46,281 heinous offences in 1864, to 51,504 in 1865; and from 41,118 petty offences in 1864, to 41,305 in 1865.

PARAGRAPH 7.—The number of ascertained offences increased in all the districts, excepting Seharunpore, Dehra Dhoon, Allygurh, Moradabad, Bareilly, Agra, Humeerpore, Futtehpore, Gurhwal, Jhansie, Jaloun and Lullutpore.

Heinous crime increased in every district saving those of Seharunpore, Dehra Dhoon, Moradabad, Humeerpore, Mynpoorie, Jhansie and Jaloun.

PARAGRAPH 8.—General increase of crime observable throughout the country: the number of persons brought to trial having likewise increased.

PARAGRAPH 9.—Causes of the increase have been explained variously. In those parts of the country, especially in the Benares Division, where the harvests of 1865 were unfavorable, this result was due in a great measure to the prevailing scarcity of grain, and the high prices of the necessaries of life.

PARAGRAPH 10.—As in 1864, there was a considerable increase in most of the principal offences against property.

The number of persons brought to trial for these offences increased from 18,973 in 1864, to 21,960 in 1865. This increase, however, was not in proportion to the increase in the number of offences themselves, which numbered 43,374 in 1864, compared with 49,261 in 1865.

PARAGRAPH 11.—Result not quite so satisfactory in regard to the chief offences affecting the human body.

PARAGRAPH 12.—Whilst there was an increase in the number of offences of the above description, with the exception of rape, there was a diminution in the number of persons for trial for culpable homicide, grievous hurt, and aggravated dacoities, excluding those charged with rape.

General results of the trials more favorable than in 1864.

PARAGRAPH 13.—Magistrates of Benares and Furruckabad of opinion that the unchecked prevalence of gambling in these towns proved a considerable incentive to crime during 1865. These sentiments shared in by many other Magistrates.

Draft Bill for prohibiting gambling separately submitted by the Court.

PARAGRAPH 14.—Several Magistrates have attributed the increase of crime to the inefficiency of the local constabulary.

From the tenor of the District Reports, there is reason to believe that crime is now more faithfully reported than during the first four years of the introduction of the new system.

PARAGRAPH 15.—In 1865 there were no cases of Thuggee, nor of belonging to a gang of dacoits. The number of cases of administering stupifying drugs, with criminal intent, which diminished from 74 in 1863, to 45 in 1864, still further decreased to 41 in 1865. River dacoities on the Jumna has been stopped by the judicious use of Extra Police at the expense of offending village communities.

PARAGRAPH 16.—The Court have had no reason to change their opinion expressed last year, that, up to the present time, no evil effects have resulted from the abolition of the Thuggee Department as a separate agency.

PARAGRAPH 17.—The case of attempted Suttee in Furruckabad was prevented by the Police.

PARAGRAPH 18.—No diminution observed in the number of persons for trial accused of petty offences. In 1862 only 53,621 were charged with such offences. In 1863-1864, and 1865, the respective numbers were 61,493, 71,978, and 72,007.

PARAGRAPH 19.—Some Officers, especially Mr. Hume, are of opinion that the increase in the number of this class of offences brought before the Criminal Courts is indicative of the satisfactory feeling entertained by the Natives of the country in regard to the working of the Criminal Courts.

Quotation of Mr. Hume's remarks.

PARAGRAPH 20.—Many experienced Officers, on the other hand, are of opinion that too much encouragement is given by the existing Stamp Law to the institution of petty complaints in the Criminal Courts.

PARAGRAPH 21.—Reference to one Officer's remarks, that there is a growing tendency to resort to a charge in the Criminal Courts, as the readiest and cheapest method of collecting petty debts, and settling disputes regarding houses and other property.

PARAGRAPH 22.—The establishment of Local Courts, presided over by Honorary Magistrates, a great boon to the Agricultural population of the country. At the same time, it may be apprehended that cases are sometimes entertained in these Courts which are properly cognizable elsewhere; and that in large towns false litigation has been encouraged by the exemption from Stamp duty of petitions regarding petty offences.

PARAGRAPH 23.—Of 98,115 persons for disposal, the cases of 96,312 were finally disposed of, contrasted with 94,149 disposed of in 1864; leaving the cases of 1,312 persons under trial, compared with 1,340 similarly pending at the end of 1864.

This result considered very satisfactory.

PARAGRAPH 24.—The cases of only 23 persons were reported to have been pending at the end of 1865, compared with 95 similarly pending at the close of 1864. In reality, the number was only 13, five persons having been concerned in 3 cases.

In the Regulation Provinces 5 persons had been long pending trial; the remaining 18 persons (in reality 8) belonged to the district of Jhansie.

These persons were concerned in a case of dacoitie committed in Foreign territory, in which great delay occurred in the preliminary investigation in Mr. James's Court.

Dissatisfaction has been expressed as to this delay, and explanation has been called for.

PARAGRAPH 25.—Special explanation has been called for respecting the 5 persons whose cases had been long pending in the Bareilly district.

PARAGRAPH 26.—Out of 96,312 persons disposed of on trial, 58,646 were either convicted by the Magisterial Officers, or committed to the Sessions Courts, leaving a proportion of 61 per cent., compared with 58 per cent. in 1864; 37,666 persons were discharged and acquitted; i. e., 39 per cent of those disposed of, as contrasted with 41 per cent. in 1864.

60 per cent. of the persons accused of non-bailable offences were convicted or committed, compared with 56 per cent. in 1864.

PARAGRAPH 27.—Reference to paragraph 11 of Report for 1864, as to the unfavorable opinion of the late Judge of Mynpoory, in regard to the Police in the Etah Magistracy, and as to the measures in progress to remedy the cliquedom then extensively prevalent among the body.

PARAGRAPH 28.—Quotation of Mr. Crosthwaite's remarks on the subject.

PARAGRAPH 29.—Copy of the above extract furnished to the Inspector-General of Police.

The Court are glad to observe that the evil of cliquedom, alluded to by Mr. Carnac so prominently, has been completely eradicated, and they expect improvement in the functions of the Police Officers.

In several other districts complaints have been made as to the inefficiency of the Police.

PARAGRAPH 30.—In several other districts complaints have been made as to the inefficiency of the Police.

Quotation of the remarks of the Magistrate of Meerut on the subject.

PARAGRAPH 31.—In the opinion of many Magistrates the Police Force, as a body, are improving in detective ability.

The increase from 56 to 60 per cent. of persons convicted and committed for heinous offences may fairly be appealed to in support of the above conclusion.

PARAGRAPH 32.—Quotation of Mr. Oldfield's remarks on this subject.

PARAGRAPH 33.—Remarks recorded by the Sessions Judge of Bareilly on the subject.

PARAGRAPH 34.—The Court presume that, in regard to the amounts respectively recovered by the Police of the value of property stolen, improvement is desirable.

PARAGRAPH 35.—Districts named in which the most favorable per-centages of offenders convicted were obtained.

PARAGRAPH 36.—Districts named in which the least favorable results were obtained.

PARAGRAPH 37.—Value resulting from the appointment of a Chemical Examiner brought to the Court's notice in two interesting cases during 1865.

PARAGRAPH 38.—Particulars given of a very difficult case, in which the report of the Chemical Examiner, corroborated by circumstantial evidence, led to the conviction of the accused.

PARAGRAPH 39.—Particulars of another case, in which the report of the Chemical Examiner led to the acquittal of the accused, his statement having been confirmed by Dr. Walker's report.

PARAGRAPH 40.—In the one case, the report of the Chemical Examiner was the means of bringing home the crime to the guilty; and in the other it led to the preservation of the innocent.

PARAGRAPH 41.—Details of criminal work performed in each Magistracy.

PARAGRAPH 42.—Exclusive of miscellaneous business, the number of cases disposed of increased from 57,606 in 1864 to 61,988 in 1865.

PARAGRAPH 43.—Enquiries under Chapter XII., Criminal Procedure Code, nominally decreased from 2,195 in 1864 to 2,187 in 1865.

PARAGRAPH 44.—Cases of enquiry by Subordinate Magistrates diminished in number from 1,913 in 1864 to 1,626 in 1865.

The total number of trials disposed of by Magistrates under Chapters XIV. and XV., and Section 277, increased from 53,498 to 58,175 in 1865.

PARAGRAPH 45.—Miscellaneous cases disposed of decreased from 1,93,935 to 1,86,375.

PARAGRAPH 46.—The number of enquiries under Chapter XII. was very large in Cawnpore, Allahabad, Benares, and Ghazeepore.

In Lullutpore, Gurhwal, Bustee, Jaloun, Dehra Dhoon, and Jhansie, the number of these enquiries was very small.

PARAGRAPH 47.—Districts named in which the largest and smallest number of criminal trials respectivly were disposed of.

PARAGRAPH 48.—Statement showing the share taken by the several Magisterial Officers who disposed of the largest number of trials.

PARAGRAPH 49.—Criminal work of Honorary Magistrates.

PARAGRAPH 50.—The Honorary Magistrates disposed of 3,205 criminal trials and 125 minor enquiries in 1865, exclusive of 76 cases referred to the Magistrate, against 2,223 criminal trials and 67 minor enquiries in 1864.

The number of miscellaneous cases disposed of was 6,106, compared with 2,135 in 1864.

PARAGRAPH 51.—Very considerable assistance was rendered by the Honorary Magistrates in Etawah and Budaon.

PARAGRAPH 52.—With reference to amount of work performed, Rajah Juswunt Rao, Etawah, Sheik Shureef-ood-deen, Budaon, Chowdhree Gunga Pershad, Etawah, Hotee Lall, Allygurh, and Mr. Debnam, Budaon, deserve special notice.

PARAGRAPH 53.—The Court notice with much pleasure the generally favorable opinion expressed by Magistrates in regard to the growing efficiency of this class of public officials as Subordinate Magistrates.

Their services have been cheerfully given, sometimes at considerable personal inconvenience. Their Courts believed to possess the confidence of the people, which is a source of real congratulation.

The Court trust that the merits of the gentlemen noted in paragraph 52 may receive special acknowledgment.

PARAGRAPH 54.—The experiment referred to in paragraph 28 of last year's (1864) Report of a Board of these Officials setting together for several times a week for the trial of petty cases in the city of Shahjehanpore, has worked successfully during 1865.

Great credit due to Mr. Probyn for his supervision of the experiment, which perhaps may be introduced elsewhere.

PARAGRAPH 55.—Quotation of Mr. Probyn's remarks on the subject.

PARAGRAPH 56.—Sentences passed by the several Magisterial Authorities.

PARAGRAPH 57.—18,097 persons were sentenced to imprisonment in 1865, compared with 18,258 in 1864; i. e., 11,279 to rigorous imprisonment, 806 to simple imprisonment, and 5,681 to imprisonment and fine; 14,191 sentences not exceeding six months, 1,927 sentences not exceeding one year, 1,979 sentences not exceeding two years.

PARAGRAPH 58.—30,360 persons were fined in 1865, and 28,214 in 1864. The total amount of fines was Rs. 3,46,763, of which Rs. 2,08,344, or 60 per cent., were realized, against 58 per cent. in 1864.

PARAGRAPH 59.—9 persons sentenced to fines of Rs. 1,000 each, and 28 to fines varying from Rs. 200 to 500.

PARAGRAPH 60.—Of Rs. 3,46,763 imposed as fines, Rs. 2,17,912 were inflicted as sole punishment in 160 cases; Rs. 1,62,554 were realized.

Detail given of the 38 offences in which the aggregate amount of fines imposed exceeded Rs. 1,000.

PARAGRAPH 61.—Largest amount of fines were inflicted in cases of "grievous hurt," "breach of Customs and Abkaree Laws," "assault," "mischief," and "criminal trespass."

PARAGRAPH 62.—4,093 were whipped in 1865, compared with 2,167 in 1864. Of those whipped, 611 were juveniles and 3,482 were adults in 3,144 cases.

PARAGRAPH 63.—The punishment of whipping most resorted to in Azimgurh, Benares, Ghazeepore, Allahabad, Cawnpore, Mirzapore, Shahjehanpore, and Jounpore.

This punishment least resorted to in Gurhwal, Etawah, Bijnour, Mozuffernuggur, Kumaon, and Etah.

PARAGRAPH 64.—Under Section 2 of the Act, 3,697 persons were whipped as sole punishment in 2,812 cases of theft of different kinds,—extortion, dishonestly receiving stolen property, and lurking house-trespass. For simple theft, 2,409 persons were whipped as sole punishment.

PARAGRAPH 65.—Under Section 3, 24 persons were whipped as sole punishment, and 349 persons as additional punishment, mostly for thefts.

PARAGRAPH 66.—Under Section 4, only one person was whipped, being found guilty under Section 469, Indian Penal Code.

PARAGRAPH 67.—374 persons were whipped on second conviction, compared with 201 in 1864.

PARAGRAPH 68.—Penalty of whipping continues to grow in favor among the Magistrates, with the exception of some, who are of opinion that, save in the case of juvenile offenders, the punishment is not considered a sufficient penalty for the offences committed.

Quotation from an Annual Report on the subject.

PARAGRAPH 69.—Quotation of Mr. Probyn's opinion in favor of this kind of punishment.

PARAGRAPH 70.—Suggestion of Mr Oldfield regarding the establishment of Juvenile Reformatory Wards.

PARAGRAPH 71.—Results of appeals preferred to the Sessions Judges.

PARAGRAPH 72.—2,316 appeals in 1865 and 2,737 in 1864 for decision.

2,242 appeals disposed of in 1865.

571 appeals were rejected.

1,150 orders were confirmed, and 521, or 23 per cent., reversed or modified, compared with 21 per cent. in 1864.

PARAGRAPH 73.—Districts indicated in which the most and least favorable results were obtained.

PARAGRAPH 74.—Out of 16,364 appealable cases decided, 2,221, or 14 per cent., were actually appealed, compared with 7 per cent. in 1864. Of the appealble cases disposed of, 3 per cent. were interfered with in appeal.

PARAGRAPH 75.—Best results attained in Muttra, Jounpore, Bijnour, Boolundshuhur, and Agra.

Least good results obtained in Allygurh, Etah, Mirzapore, and Mynporie.

PARAGRAPH 76.—With reference to individual results, the Court indicate the officers from whose orders the fewest appeals were preferred.

PARAGRAPH 77.—The officers who obtained the best results in respect to the results of appeals from their orders, named by the Court.

PARAGRAPH 78.—Results of commitment made to the Sessions Court.

PARAGRAPH 79.—In 1865, 1,661 cases and 3,474 persons were committed, against 1,671 cases and 3,382 persons committed in 1864.

PARAGRAPH 80.—3,228 persons were tried by the Sessions Judges, 2,355, or 73 per cent., being convicted, and 873, or 27 per cent., acquitted,—proportions less favorable than in previous years by one per cent.

PARAGRAPH 81.—Districts in which the results were very favorable and unfavorable.

PARAGRAPH 82.—Officers who were most successful in respect to the number of cases in which convictions were obtained indicated.

PARAGRAPH 83.—The proportion of persons convicted at the Sessions considered to be a better test of the care and judgment evinced by the committing officers than the results of cases.

Officers who have obtained the best results in this respect indicated.

PARAGRAPH 84.—The foregoing return specially creditable to Mr. Probyn and Gunga Pershad.

PARAGRAPH 85.—Cases regarding disputed possession of lands.

PARAGRAPH 86.—Reference to paragraph 53 of Report of 1864 as to the gradual decrease in this description of cases.

A still further diminution from 352 cases in 1864 to 215 in 1865.

Further decrease anticipated.

PARAGRAPH 87.—Witness Statement.

PARAGRAPH 88.—2,50,327 witnesses examined in 1865, compared with 2,58,991 in 1864.

2,38,311	witnesses	were detained	1 day.
9,830	ditto	ditto	2 days.
1,563	ditto	ditto	3 ,,
623	ditto	ditto longer periods;

being 95, 4, 1, and 0, per cent. respectively as in 1864.

PARAGRAPH 89.—Greatest number of witnesses summoned in Etawah, Benares, and Allahabad.

PARAGRAPH 90.—Memorandum showing the comparative district results of the highest and lowest ratios of attendance.

PARAGRAPH 91.—Referring to the instructions issued by the Court during 1865 as to testing the witness registers.

Separate orders have been issued by the Court, where necessary, regarding the Statement of witnesses and that of the average duration of cases.

PARAGRAPH 92.—The average duration of cases in the Magisterial Courts was 11 days, compared with 12 days in 1864 and 13 in 1863.

PARAGRAPH 93.—In 17 districts there was an improvement on the results of 1864; in only 5 districts there was an increased average; and in 10 the average periods were the same as in 1864.

PARAGRAPH 94.—Districts in which the highest and lowest averages were obtained.

PARAGRAPH 95.—Results of Gurhwal, Goruckpore, and Bustee, unfavorably affected by local considerations.

Better averages expected to be obtained in Goruckpore and Bustee.

PARAGRAPH 96.—Unfavorable results in Etah attributed by the Joint Magistrate to the dilatory proceedings of the Tehseeldars invested with the powers of a Deputy Magistrate.

PARAGRAPH 97.—Appeals preferred from the orders of Assistant Magistrates to Magistrates.

PARAGRAPH 98.—Including those pending, there were 1,602 appeals for trial in 1865, compared with 1,493 in 1864.

1,580 appeals were disposed of; 832 orders having been confirmed, 258 appeals rejected, and 440 orders reversed or modified,—being a proportion of 29 per cent., contrasted with 27 per cent. in 1864.

PARAGRAPH 99.—Operation of Section 44, Criminal Procedure Code.

PARAGRAPH 100.—Rs. 27,657 were imposed as fines by the Magisterial Authorities under Section 44, Criminal Procedure Code, as compared with Rs. 40,184 in 1864. In 1865, Rs. 12,106, or 43 per cent., were realized and paid, as compared with 34 per cent. in 1864.

The efforts of the Magistrates of Muttra and Seharunpore most successful.

PARAGRAPH 101.—Rs. 11,220 were imposed as fines under the same Section by the Sessions Judges, against Rs. 6,717 in 1864; but only Rs. 881, or 8 per cent., were realized and paid to the injured parties.

PARAGRAPH 102.—The Court do not expect much improvement in the ratio of fines realized to that imposed under Section 44, Criminal Procedure Code.

PARAGRAPH 103.—Amount of criminal business disposed of by each Sessions Judge.

PARAGRAPH 104.—1,523 trials and 1,939 appeals were disposed of in 1865, compared with 1,431 trials and 2,427 appeals in 1864.

Cases of heinous crime increased, but the number of appeals diminished.

PARAGRAPH 105.—Judges of Mynpoorie, Shahjehanpore, Moradabad, Agra, and Futtehpore, performed the largest amount of work; and the Judges of Goruckpore, Azimgurh, and Jounpore, the smallest.

PARAGRAPH 106.—Penal sentences passed by Sessions Judges.

PARAGRAPH 107.—109 sentences of death in 1865 and 92 in 1864.

PARAGRAPH 108.—175 persons sentenced to transportation for life.

15 persons sentenced to transportation for 14 years and upwards.

26 persons sentenced to transportation for 7 years and for less than 14 years.

PARAGRAPH 109.—280 persons were rigorously imprisoned from 7 to 14 years.

627 persons were rigorously imprisoned from 3 to 6 years.

636 persons were rigorously imprisoned for lesser periods.

PARAGRAPH 110.—32 persons were sentenced to simple imprisonment, and 397 to imprisonment and fine, 15 being sentenced to whipping as well as imprisonment.

PARAGRAPH 111.—Only 22 persons were whipped in the Judgeships of Seharunpore, Allygurh, Moradabad, Mynpoorie, and Benares, 17 of whom were in Seharunpore.

PARAGRAPH 112.—Practical operation of Section 324 in regard to trials with the aid of Assessors.

PARAGRAPH 113.—Out of 1,515 trials disposed of, the Sessions Judges concurred in the opinion of the Assessors in 1,362 and differed from them in 153 cases.

PARAGRAPH 114.—Opinion of Mr. Ouseley regarding Assessors.

PARAGRAPH 115.—With reference to the allusion formerly made by the Court as to the prepossession shown by the Assessors, especially Hindoos, in favor of those charged with homicide and its kindred offences, and in reference to the quotation made in the Report of 1864 of the opinion expressed by Mr. Vansittart, the Court are glad to observe that Mr. Vansittart is this year of opinion that the Assessors are improving.

PARAGRAPH 116.—The system of trial by jury, so far as Native offenders are concerned, has not yet been extended to these Provinces.

PARAGRAPH 117.—Duration of trials and appeals in Sessions Courts.

PARAGRAPH 118.—Average duration of each trial 17 days in 1865, compared with 20 days in 1864.

The average duration of each appeal was 19 days, compared with 20 days in 1864.

PARAGRAPH 119.—No new remarks on this Statement offered by the Court.

PARAGRAPH 120.—Results of appeals and reference to Nizamut Adawlut.

PARAGRAPH 121.—Cases of 15 persons were referred to the Court under the old law for confirmation of sentence of death, of whom 11 were convicted and sentenced capitally ; on one person a modified sentence was passed ; and the remaining 3 were acquitted.

PARAGRAPH 122.—The cases of 104 persons sentenced to death under the new law were referred to the Court. The sentences passed on 79 were confirmed, those on 15 modified, the remaining 10 persons having been acquitted.

PARAGRAPH 123.—Officers whose references for confirmation of capital sentences were entirely concurred in by the Courts.

Results of Messrs. Vansittart and Horne not favorable.

PARAGRAPH 124.—The cases of 892 persons were either appealed or called for by the Court.

Of those disposed of, the sentences passed on 533 persons were confirmed, and on 187 modified,—172 persons being acquitted.

PARAGRAPH 125.—The cases of 238 persons were otherwise reviewed by the Court. The sentences passed in regard to 175 persons were confirmed and modified in respect to 33 ; 30 persons were acquitted.

PARAGRAPH 126.—Best results were obtained by the late Major Lloyd.

PARAGRAPH 127.—Excluding the returns of those officers whose cases reviewed did not exceed 10, the Statement is most favorable to the judgment of Major McNeile, and to that of Messrs. Sapte, Ouseley, Bramly, and Fane, and least to that of Messrs. Reade, Horne, and Money.

PARAGRAPH 128.—Mr. Reade's work generally marked by care and intelligence.

The return in regard to Mr. Horne correctly indicates his general inefficiency.

Mr. Horne has apparently exerted himself in consequence of the Court's censure ; but his decisions are still wanting in the respects indicated.

Messrs. Spankie, Turnbull, and Lindsay, deserving of specially honorable mention; also Mr. Fane.

PARAGRAPH 129.—Amount of criminal business disposed of by the Nizamut Adawlut.

PARAGRAPH 130.—In all 96 cases were referred to the Court, compared with 78 in 1864.

PARAGRAPH 131.—The records of 40 cases were called for under Sections 403 and 405, Criminal Procedure Code, contrasted with 25 in 1864.

PARAGRAPH 132.—310 appeals were preferred to the Court in 1865, against 340 in 1864.

114 cases were otherwise reviewed by the Court, under Sections 404 and 434, compared with 71 in 1864.

PARAGRAPH 133.—560 criminal trials and 159 miscellaneous cases were altogether decided in 1865, compared with 514 trials and 178 miscellaneous cases in 1864.

PARAGRAPH 134.—38 criminal trials pending at the end of 1865, compared with 30 pending at the close of 1864.

PARAGRAPH 135.—Average duration of each criminal trial before the Nizamut Adawlut was 19 days.

PARAGRAPH 136.—Penal sentences passed or confirmed by the Court during 1865.

PARAGRAPH 137.—Total number of penal sentences increased from 220 in 1864, to 292 in 1865.

PARAGRAPH 138.—As usual, copies of the Court's replies to the separate Annual Reports, and extracts of the Magistrates' and Sessions Judges' remarks regarding the qualifications of their subordinates, are submitted.

PARAGRAPH 139.—The Court hope that the results of the past year (1865) will be considered favorable by Government.

* In last year's Report 97 persons were shown in this column; but on inquiry it was found that the case of no person was pending in Shahjehanpore more than three months. The figures should be corrected in last year's Report to 95.

General results and averages of the above.

3. Apart from district details the general results and averages of each year were as shown below :—

NUMBER OF PERSONS WHOSE CASES WERE DISPOSED OF BY THE MAGISTERIAL AUTHORITIES.

98,115 persons for trial in 1865, as contrasted with 95,940 in 1864, being an increase of 2,175 persons.

Compared with the Returns of 1855, exclusive of the Saugor and Delhi Territories, there was an increase of 14,271 persons for trial.

The number of persons charged with non-bailable offences increased from 23,967 in 1864 to 26,108 in 1865; and that of persons charged with bailable offences increased from 71,973 to 72,007.

The latter increase to be expected with reference to the very large increase (from 61,498 to 71,973) which occurred in 1864 compared with 1863.

4. The total number of persons for trial was 98,115 in the year 1865, contrasted with 95,940 in the previous year, being an increase of 2,175 persons brought to trial in the year under review; and an increase of 14,271 persons, when compared with the Returns of 1855, exclusive of the Saugor and Delhi Territories.

5. The increase was most marked in the cases of persons charged with non-bailable or heinous offences, who increased from 23,967 in 1864 to 26,108 in 1865; while those accused of bailable offences only increased from 71,973 to 72,007. This latter result was however in some degree to be expected, with reference to the very large increase (from 61,498 to 71,973) which occurred in the number of persons brought to trial for petty offences in 1864 compared with the year preceding.

6. Similar results are observable in the Returns of crimes and offences ascertained to have been committed, which increased in the aggregate from 87,399 reported in 1864 to 92,809 in 1865, and in detail, from 46,281 heinous offences in 1864 to 51,504 in 1865; and from 41,118 petty offences in the former year to 41,305 in the latter.

Crimes and offences ascertained to have been committed similarly increased from 87,399 in 1864 to 92,809 in 1865; i. e., from 46,281 heinous offences in 1864, to 51,504 in 1865; and from 41,118 petty offences in 1864 to 41,305 in 1865.

7. The number of ascertained offences of every description increased in all the districts of these Provinces, excepting those of Seharunpore, Dehra Dhoon, Allygurh, Moradabad, Bareilly, Agra, Humeerpore, Futtehpore, Gurhwal, Jhansie, Jaloun, and Lullutpore.

The number of ascertained offences increased in all the districts, excepting Seharunpore, Dehra Dhoon, Allygurh, Moradabad, Bareilly, Agra, Humeerpore, Futtehpore, Gurhwal, Jhansie, Jaloun, and Lullutpore.

Cases of heinous crime, however, increased in every district, saving those of Seharunpore, Dehra Dhoon, Moradabad, Humeerpore, Mynpoorie, Jhansie, and Jaloun.

Heinous crime increased in every district, saving those of Seharunpore, Dehra Dhoon, Moradabad, Humeerpore, Mynpoorie, Jhansie, and Jaloun.

8. From the above statistics, it will be evident that there was a general increase of crime throughout the country in the year under report; although it is in some measure satisfactory to observe that there was likewise a considerable increase in the number of persons brought to trial.

General increase of crime observable throughout the country; the number of persons brought to trial having likewise increased.

9. The causes of this increase have been variously explained. But there can be no doubt that in those parts of the country, especially in the districts of the Benares Division, where the harvests of 1865 were unfavorable, the prevailing scarcity of grain and the high prices of the necessaries of life contributed materially to this result.

Causes of the increase have been explained variously. In those parts of the country, especially in the Benares Division, where the harvests of 1865 were unfavorable, this result was due in a great measure to the prevailing scarcity of grain and the high prices of the necessaries of life.

10. As in the previous year, there was a considerable increase in most of the principal offences against property, as noticed below:—

As in 1864, there was a considerable increase in most of the principal offences against property.

	Cases reported.	Persons for trial.	Cases reported.	Persons for trial.
Thefts	28,081	13,361	28,809	14,785
Receiving stolen property dishonestly ...	1,346	2,742	1,623	3,400
Robbery	360	553	376	591
House-breaking	13,560	2,317	16,453	3,184
TOTAL ...	43,347	18,973	47,261	21,960

But it is satisfactory to find that there was an increase also in the number of persons brought to trial for these offences, though not in proportion to the increase in the offences themselves, which numbered 43,347 in 1864, compared with 47,261 in 1865; whereas 18,973 persons were for trial for these offences in 1864, contrasted with 21,960 in 1865.

The number of persons brought to trial for these offences increased from 18,973 in 1864 to 21,960 in 1865. This increase, however, was not in proportion to the increase in the number of offences themselves, which numbered 43,347 in 1864, compared with 47,261 in 1865.

11. In regard to the chief offences affecting the human body, the result was hardly so satisfactory.

Result not quite so satisfactory in regard to the chief offences affecting the human body.

	Ascertained offences.	Persons for trial.	Ascertained offences.	Persons for trial.
Murder	310	668	335	754
Culpable homicide	188	568	203	559
Grievous hurt	87	230	89	197
Rape	169	194	154	185
Dacoity	67	254	89	294
Ditto, aggravated	8	41	9	3
TOTAL ...	829	1,955	879	1,992

Whilst there was an increase in the number of offences of the above description, with the exception of rape, there was an increase in the number of persons for trial for culpable homicide, grievous hurt, and aggravated dacoities, excluding those charged with rape.

General results of the trials more favorable than in 1864.

12. Thus, whilst there was an increase in the number of offences of the above description committed during the year, with the sole exception of rape, there was an actual diminution in the number of persons for trial for the offences of culpable homicide, grievous hurt, and aggravated dacoities, excluding those charged with rape. It will be seen however in the sequel that the general results of the trials themselves were more favorable than in the previous year.

Magistrates of Benares and Furruckabad of opinion that the unchecked prevalence of gambling in these towns proved a considerable incentive to crime during 1865. These sentiments shared in by many other Magistrates.

Draft Bill for prohibiting gambling separately submitted by the Court.

13. It is worthy of notice that the Magistrates of the large cities of Benares and Furruckabad have expressed their opinion that the unchecked prevalence of gambling in these towns proved a considerable incentive to crime during the past year. The Court believe that these sentiments are shared in by many other Magistrates in the North-Western Provinces; and they have recently submitted to Government a draft Bill, declaring the practice of public gambling and the keeping of public gambling houses to be penal offences.

Several Magistrates have attributed the increase of crime to the inefficiency of the local Constabulary.

From the tenor of the District Reports, there is reason to believe that crime is now more faithfully reported than during the first few years of the introduction of the new system.

14. As in former years, several Magistrates of districts have attributed the increase of crime observable in their districts to the inefficiency of the local Constabulary. This subject will be noticed further on in this address. In the meantime, the Court observe with satisfaction that, from the tenor of the District Reports, there is reason to believe that crime is now more faithfully reported than during the first few years after the introduction of the new system.

In 1865 there were no cases of Thuggee, nor of belonging to a gang of Dacoits. The number of cases of administering stupifying drugs with criminal intent, which diminished from 74 in 1863 to 45 in 1864, still further decreased to 41 in 1865. River dacoity on the Jumna has been stopped by the judicious use of extra Police at the expense of offending village communities.

15. His Honor will be glad to learn that, during the year under report, no cases of Thuggee nor of belonging to a gang of Dacoits were reported to have occurred in the North-Western Provinces; and that the number of instances of administering stupifying drugs with criminal intent, which had diminished from 74 in 1863 to 45 in 1864, decreased still further to 41 in 1865. The Sessions Judge of Agra has specially mentioned that river dacoity, once so rife on the Jumna, has been stopped by the judicious use of extra Police at the expense of offending village communities.

The Court have had no reason to change their opinion expressed last year that, up to the present time, no evil effects have resulted from the abolition of the Thuggee Department as a separate agency.

16. On the whole, the Court have seen no reason to change their opinion expressed in last year's Report, that, up to the present time, no evil effects have followed the abolition of the Thuggee Department as a separate agency.

A case of attempted suttee in Furruckabad was prevented by the Police.

17.* One case of attempted suttee in the Furruckabad district was prevented by the timely interposition of the Police.

18. The Court remark that no diminution is observable in the number of persons for trial accused of petty offences, in respect to which a large increase was noticed in the Returns of 1864. Thus, in 1862, only 53,621 persons were charged with such offence; whereas, in 1863, 1864, and 1865 respectively, the numbers were 61,498, 71,973, and 72,007.

No diminution observable in the number of persons for trial accused of petty offences. In 1862 only 53,621 were charged with such offences. In 1863, 1864, and 1865, the respective numbers were 61,498, 71,973, and 72,007.

19. Some officers, and notably Mr. Hume, Magistrate of Etawah, are of opinion that the increase in the number of this class of offences brought before the Criminal Courts is a source of unmixed congratulation, as indicative of the satisfactory feeling entertained by the natives of the country in regard to the working of our Criminal Courts. He observes:—"It becomes day by day more the practice of the people to "refer to these Courts every quarrel and dispute. Where no man has more than a "three hours' walk in order to obtain an immediate hearing, and where petty cases are "disposed of in four to six days as an average, without a farthing of expense to the in-"jured party, it would be strange indeed if the number of petty offences for which "redress was sought in these Courts did not for some years increase. It is not that "more offences are committed than of yore,—on the contrary, it is unquestionable that "now multitudes of the richer and more powerful natives are deterred from the com-"mission of petty wrongs which a few years ago they considered it their prerogative "to inflict on their weaker neighbours; but it is that justice is now so much more "easily and cheaply obtainable that comparatively few tamely submit to any injury "or insult. It has been, and may "perhaps again be urged, that this "is teaching the people to be liti-"gious;* but it is really only secur-"ing something like liberty for the "masses, and teaching one and all the great lesson of respecting, in the minutest "particulars, the rights of others. Until recently, it must I think be conceded that "very scanty redress was, as a rule, obtainable by the poor for petty wrongs. Here "and there an extraordinarily able or hard-working Magistrate might possibly effect "a good deal, but such instances were rare, and the vast proportion of the poorer in-"habitants of these Provinces were practically compelled to submit, in silence and "bitterness of heart, to cuffs, insults, and petty injuries to property."

Some officers, especially Mr. Hume, are of opinion that the increase in the number of this class of offences brought before the Criminal Courts is indicative of the satisfactory feeling entertained by the natives of the country in regard to the working of the Criminal Courts.

Quotation of Mr. Hume's remarks.

* Doubtless, on the first introduction of such a system amongst an ignorant and unprincipled people, there will be a tendency to abuse the benefits conferred, and to attempt to convert the Courts into instruments of annoyance. This we guard against. During the past year 107 complaints were filed for frivolous and vexatious charges.

20. On the other hand, many experienced officers are of opinion that too much encouragement is given by the existing Stamp Law to the institution of petty complaints in the Criminal Courts; and that frequent advantage is taken of this encouragement, to prefer complaints which are either groundless in themselves, or, if based on some slight foundation, are put forward as a pretext for the settlement of some disputed right.

Many experienced officers, on the other hand, are of opinion that too much encouragement is given by the existing Stamp Law to the institution of petty complaints in the Criminal Courts.

21. Thus, an officer of a district adjacent to Etawah has remarked that there is a growing tendency to resort to a charge in the Criminal Courts as the readiest and cheapest method of collecting petty debts and settling disputes regarding houses and other property; and that there are very few assault cases in which the real point at issue is not either a small debt or a quarrel about a house or the like. It may sometimes be true that the assault may really have followed a dispute on these grounds. But in many cases it is open to question whether any criminal act has been committed.

Reference to one officer's remarks that there is a growing tendency to resort to a charge in the Criminal Courts as the readiest and cheapest method of collecting petty debts and settling disputes regarding houses and other property.

22. There can be no doubt, in the Court's opinion, that the establishment of local Courts, presided over by Honorary Magistrates, in the interior of the district, has been a great boon to the agricultural population of the country. At the same time it may, they think, be apprehended that cases are sometimes entertained in those Courts which are properly cognizable elsewhere; and that in large towns false litigation has been much fomented by the exemption from stamp-duty afforded to all petitions regarding petty offences.

The establishment of local Courts presided over by Honorary Magistrates a great boon to the agricultural population of the country.

At the same time, it may be apprehended that cases are sometimes entertained in these Courts which are properly cognizable elsewhere; and that in large towns false litigation has been encouraged by the exemption from stamp-duty of petitions regarding petty offences.

Of 98,115 persons for disposal, the cases of 96,312 were finally disposed of, contrasted with 94,149 disposed of in 1864; leaving the cases of 1,312 persons under trial, compared with 1,340 similarly pending at the end of 1864.

This result considered very satisfactory.

23. Of 98,115 persons for trial during the year under review, the cases of 96,312 were finally disposed of by the magisterial authorities, contrasted with 94,149 similarly disposed of in the previous year; leaving the cases of 1,312 persons under trial at the end of 1865, as compared with 1,340 pending at the close of 1864. Considering the increase of criminal business in the year under report, this result is very satisfactory.

The cases of only 23 persons were reported to have been pending at the end of 1865, compared with 95 similarly pending at the close of 1864. In reality, the number was only 13, five persons having been concerned in 3 cases.

In the Regulation Provinces 5 persons had been long pending trial: the remaining 18 persons (in reality 8) belonged to the district of Jhansie.

These persons were concerned in a case of dacoity committed in foreign territory, in which great delay occurred in the preliminary investigation in Mr. James's Court.

Dissatisfaction has been expressed as to this delay, and explanation has been called for.

24. The Court remark with great satisfaction that the cases of only 23 persons were reported to have been pending trial for more than 3 months at the close of 1865, as compared with 95 similarly pending at the end of 1864. In reality, the number was only 13, five persons having been concerned in 3 cases. It will be observed that, in the Regulation Provinces, only five persons had been long pending trial, and that the remaining 18 persons (in reality 8) belonged to the district of Jhansie. These persons were concerned in a case of dacoity committed in foreign territory, in which great delay occurred in the preliminary investigation in Mr. James's Court; and application was eventually made to the Commissioner to try the prisoners under Act I. of 1849. The Court have expressed their dissatisfaction on account of the long delay which took place in the investigation and trial of this case, and have called for detailed explanation regarding the time occupied between the various steps of the investigation and procedure.

Special explanation has been called for respecting the 5 persons whose cases had been long pending in the Bareilly district.

25. Special explanation has been called for in regard to the five persons in the Bareilly district whose cases had been pending more than 90 days.

Of 96,312 persons disposed of on trial, 58,646 were either convicted by the magisterial officers or committed to the Sessions Courts, being a proportion of 61 per cent., compared with 58 per cent. in 1864. 37,666 persons were discharged and acquitted; i. e., 39 per cent. of those disposed of, as contrasted with 41 per cent. in 1864.

26. Out of 96,312 persons disposed of on trial during the year, 58,646 were either convicted by the magisterial officers or committed for trial to the Sessions Courts, being a proportion of 61 per cent., as compared with 58 per cent. in the preceding year; and 37,666 were discharged and acquitted,—a percentage of 39, as contrasted with 41 per cent. in 1864.

60 per cent. of the persons accused of non-bailable offences were convicted or committed, compared with 56 per cent. in 1864.

In non-bailable or heinous offences, the proportion of persons convicted or committed improved from 56 to 60 per cent.,—a result which is considered to be very satisfactory.

Reference to paragraph 11 of Report for 1864 as to the unfavorable opinion of the late Judge of Mynpoorie in regard to the Police in the Etah Magistracy, and as to the measures in progress to remedy the cliquedom then extensively prevalent among the body.

27. The Court, in paragraph 11 of last year's Report, adverted to the unfavorable opinion entertained by the late Judge of Mynpoorie in regard to the efficiency and conduct of the Police in the Etah Magistracy, and to the measures then in progress to remedy the cliquedom which was found to be extensively prevalent among the body.

Quotation of Mr. Crosthwaite's remarks on the subject.

28. On this subject Mr. Crosthwaite, the Magistrate, now observes: "There is a "marked difference in the percentage of persons convicted to persons disposed of in the "bailable and unbailable offences. The difference is not in favor of the unbailable "offences. I am compelled to say that the Police are responsible for this; they exhi-"bited, especially during the 2nd quarter of the year, a reckless disregard to the exist-"ence of reasonable proof. They have latterly improved, but not so much as could "be wished.

"In last year's Report, the want of success of the Police in detection was the "object of special comment on the part of your predecessor, Mr. Carnac. The clique-"dom which Mr. Carnac complained of has now been removed, root and branch, and "the services of the Serishtadar, who, as that gentleman said, enjoyed the worst possi-"ble reputation, and was, I believe, a most corrupt man, have been dispensed with.

"But this very removal of cliquedom has involved the introduction of men new "to the district, of whom success in detecting offences cannot be at once expected. "But this is not the only reason of want of success. The Sikhs form a large and in- "fluential party in the force. Promotion has been given to the 'smart and well-set- "up' officer, not to the men who showed any talent for their profession as a rule. "The Head Constables are illiterate. At very few stations, in the absence of the Sub- "Inspector or officer in charge, is there a Head Constable, who has the remotest "notion of conducting an enquiry. Under these circumstances, want of success is "not wonderful. Add to this that the Chowkeedars (who alone show any aptness in "detection) are miserably paid. I have endeavored to impress on the Police that it is "their duty to make some attempt at detection. But this they do not appear to un- "derstand. Unless the plaintiff has his witnesses ready, and his proof clear, they "seldom move from the station, but content themselves with admonishing the plaintiff "to find a clue. This has now become the established routine, and it will take time "to break through it.

"I feel it my duty to state that nothing much can be done until a portion of the "Sikhs and illiterate officers be removed, and sufficient time shall have elapsed to "convince the men that promotion will not go as heretofore. Above all, it is necessary "that the force should be properly supervised."

29. The Court have furnished the Inspector-General of Police with copy of the above extract, for such notice as may be deemed necessary. They are glad to observe that the evil of cliquedom among the Police officials to which Mr. Carnac so prominently alluded has been completely eradicated; and they confidently expect that, as the new officers become familiar with the district, their efficiency in respect to their purely police functions will improve.

Copy of the above extract furnished to the Inspector-General of Police.

The Court are glad to observe that the evil of cliquedom alluded to by Mr. Carnac so prominently has been completely eradicated, and they expect improvement in the functions of the Police Officers.

30. In several other districts complaints have been made regarding the inefficiency of the Police during the year. In Meerut Mr. Forbes writes: "Generally "speaking, there has been no improvement in non-bailable offences; whilst in lurking "house-trespass there has been a distinct deterioration. There is a great and lamen- "table want of detective power on the part of the Police. In thefts, and these lurk- "ing house-trespass cases, we look to results as signs of success. On the contrary, in "the contest between the Police and the vagabond thievish population of the district, "I fear the vagabonds have gained a slight advantage in 1865. This is not as it "should be. Under the present system, the only remedy I believe to be the careful "and very gradual introduction of a special detective force, from which, in time, all pro- "motions to the higher grades of the Police should take place, and thus replace by men "trained in the art of detection those of decidedly mediocre ability and intelligence, who "at present occupy too many of the chief posts. The very ridiculously small number "of offenders who are punished on two convictions is a sure sign that the Police do not "make themselves acquainted with the thieves and loose characters of the station "jurisdictions placed under them."

In several other districts complaints have been made as to inefficiency of the Police.

Quotation of the remarks of the Magistrate of Meerut on the subject.

31. But the Court are glad to notice that, in the opinion of many other Magistrates, the Police force as a body are improving in detective ability; and they consider that the increase of the percentage of persons convicted and committed in heinous offences, from 56 to 60 per cent., may fairly and with good reason be appealed to in support of this conclusion.

In the opinion of many other Magistrates the Police Force as a body are improving in detective ability.

The increase from 56 to 60 per cent. of persons convicted and committed for heinous offences may fairly be appealed to in support of the above conclusion.

32. Mr. Oldfield, an officer of considerable experience and of sound judgment, observes: "The Police have been fairly successful, compared with the old "standard of the more serious crimes. Out of 16 cases of murder, they only failed in "one; out of 6 cases of robbery, the offenders were brought to justice in three cases, "and one is pending in the Sessions Court; out of the two cases of dacoity, the Police "were successful in one. I think it will be found that there will be a gradual inprove-

Quotation of Mr. Oldfield's remarks on this subject.

"ment year by year, in the detection of crime, as the Police get more accustomed "to their duties; so long as their numerical strength is not reduced to too low a "limit, towards which, I fear, there is a tendency."

Remarks recorded by the Sessions Judge of Bareilly on the subject.

33. Writing of the Bareilly district Mr. Vansittart remarks: "In the year "1864 many murders were committed, but few were proved by the Police. During "the year 1865, the same disregard of life has again been shown by the population "of the district; but the action of the Police has been good, so that 20 cases of mur-"der have been tried in this Court, convictions being had in 16."

The Court presume that, in regard to the amounts respectively recovered by the Police of the value of property stolen, improvement is desirable.

34. The Court's Criminal Statements do not exhibit the value of the property stolen and the amounts respectively recovered by the Police. But the Court presume that it is in this department of their duties that further improvement is specially desirable.

Districts named in which the most favorable percentages of offenders convicted were obtained.

35. The most favorable percentages of offenders convicted obtained in the following districts:—

Benares	77 per cent.
Agra	71 do.
Dehra Dhoon	70 do.
Moradabad	67 do.
Jounpore
Mirzapore

In the previous year the best Return, that of Benares, was 75 per cent.

Districts named in which the least favorable results were obtained.

36. The least favorable results were the following:—

Mozuffernuggur	37 per cent.
Banda	45 do.

Bustee	50 do.

Value resulting from the appointment of a Chemical Examiner brought to the Court's notice in two interesting cases during 1865.

37. In connection with this branch of the subject, the value resulting from the appointment of a Chemical Examiner for these Provinces has been brought to the Court's notice in two interesting instances during the past year.

Particulars given of a very difficult case, in which the report of the Chemical Examiner, corroborated by circumstantial evidence, led to the conviction of the accused.

38. In one case the Civil Surgeon had declared an axe-head to be free from all animal matter. The District Superintendent of Police and the Magistrate were not satisfied, and sent the instrument to the Chemical Examiner for inspection. Dr. Walker reported, after careful examination, that the weapon had been used to force in the skull of a human being; and that not only did the cracks in it contain cellular tissue found only on the brain and below the skull, but likewise portions of human hair forcibly torn out by the roots. This report, corroborated as it was by circumstantial evidence, led to the conviction of the accused in a most difficult case.

Particulars of another case, in which the report of the Chemical Examiner led to the acquittal of the accused, his statement having been confirmed by Dr. Walker's report.

39. The other case alluded to occurred in the Central Provinces. A person was under suspicion, from circumstantial evidence, of having committed a murder. He denied all knowledge of the crime. His spear-head was found with clotted blood on it. But this he explained by saying that he had used it some time before to kill a bandicoot. The spear-head was sent to the Chemical Examiner for inspection. On examination, the stains of blood were found too dry to admit of Dr. Walker being able to recognize whether the blood was human or otherwise; but in the clots he found some hair, which, on microscopic examination, proved to be hairs of a bandicoot; thus confirming the man's story, who was accordingly absolved from the crime with which he had been charged.

In the one case, the report of the Chemical Examiner was the means of bringing home the crime to the guilty; and in the other it led to the preservation of the innocent.

40. In the one case, the report of the chemical Examiner was thus the means of bringing home the crime to the guilty. In the other, it was the preservation of the innocent.

The Honorary Magistrates disposed of 3,205.

Criminal trials and 125 minor enquiries in 1865, exclusive of 76 cases referred to the Magistrate, against 2,223 criminal trials and 67 minor enquiries in 1864.

The number of miscellaneous cases disposed of was 6,106, compared with 2,135 in 1864.

50. This Statement shows a considerable increase in the amount of work disposed of by the Honorary Magistrates, as compared with the previous year. Thus, 3,205 criminal trials were decided by them in 1865, against 2,223 in 1864; and 125 minor enquiries in the former years, contrasted with 67 in the latter, exclusive of 76 cases referred to the Magistrate under Section 277, Criminal Procedure Code.

The number of miscellaneous cases disposed of was likewise 6,106, compared with 2,135 in 1864.

Very considerable assistance was rendered by the Honorary Magistrates in Etawah and Budaon.

51. In the districts of Etawah and Budaon, the assistance rendered by the Honorary Magistrates to the regular Magistracy of the district was numerically very considerable.

52. The following officers of this body are specially deserving of notice, with reference to the amount of work performed by them :—

1.—Rajah Juswunt Rao, Etawah ... ... 602 trials.

2.—Sheikh Shureef-ood-deen, Budaon ... ... 398 do.

3.—Chowdhree Gunga Pershaud, Etawah ... ... 236 do.

4.—Hotee Lall, Allygurh ... ... 226 do.

5.—Mr. Debnam, Budaon ... ... 218 do.

With reference to amount of work performed, Rajah Juswunt Rao, Etawah, Sheikh Shureef-ood-deen, Budaon, Chowdhree Gunga Pershaud, Etawah, Hotee Lall, Allygurh, and Mr. Debnam, Budaon, deserve special notice.

53. The Court have much pleasure in noticing the generally favorable opinion expressed by the Magistrate of districts in regard to the growing efficiency of this class of public officials in their capacity of Subordinate Magistrates. They observe that their services have been cheerfully given, sometimes at considerable personal inconvenience, in behalf of the State; and it is a source of real congratulation that their Courts are believed to possess the confidence of the people. The Court trust that the merits of the gentlemen noted in my last paragraph may receive the special acknowledgments of Government.

The Court notice with much pleasure the generally favorable opinion expressed by Magistrates in regard to the growing efficiency of this class of public officials as Subordinate Magistrates.

Their services have been cheerfully given, sometimes at considerable personal inconvenience. Their Courts believed to possess the confidence of the people, which is a source of real congratulation.

The Court trust that the merits of the gentlemen noted in paragraph 53 may receive special acknowledgment.

54. His Honor will be glad to learn that the experiment alluded to in paragraph 28 of last year's Report, of causing a Board of Honorary Magistrates to sit together several times a week for the purpose of trying petty cases in the city of Shahjehanpore, has worked successfully during the past year; and the Court are of opinion that great credit is due to Mr. Probyn for the careful supervision of the experiment, which might perhaps be successfully introduced into other large towns in these Provinces.

The experiment referred to in paragraph 28 of last year's (1864) Report, of a Board of these officials sitting together for several times a week for the trial of petty cases in the city of Shahjehanpore, has worked successfully during 1865.

Great credit due to Mr. Probyn for his supervision of the experiment, which perhaps may be introduced elsewhere.

55. On this subject Mr. Probyn writes "The experiment of a Board of Honorary Magistrates in the city has, I consider, proved a success. During the year under review, the gentlemen marginally noted have held office. They have met, as a rule, three times a week, and two form a bench. They have, during the year, convicted 55 and acquitted 31 persons in altogether 55 cases. This however gives but a small idea of the amount of work really performed by them. I find that nearly 200 cases were made over to them; three-fourths of these were however never brought on the file. The local knowledge and influence possessed by the Honorary Magistrates enables them very frequently to persuade parties to withdraw their complaint or come to a compromise when such an attempt on the part of the other Magistrates would be a mere waste of time and breath. After nearly two years' experience I unhesitatingly come to the conclusion that, if really honest men, with a fair amount of common sense, are forthcoming, the plan of a Board of Honorary Magistrates is a very great boon to the city people. But if, on the other hand, the Magistrates have the slightest inclination to take advantage of their official position, or even to show a suspicion of partiality in the decision of their cases, much mischief will ensue. In proof that the City Honorary Magistrates in this district command the confidence of the people, I have only to mention that not a single case has been appealed to me during the past year."

Penalty of whipping continues to grow in favor among the Magistrates, with the exception of some, who are of opinion that, save in the case of juvenile offenders, the punishment is not considered a sufficient penalty for the offences committed.

Quotation from an Annual Report on the subject.

68. The penalty of whipping continues to grow in favor among the Magistrates in these Provinces, although in the opinion of some its infliction as sole punishment, save in the case of juvenile offenders, is not considered a sufficient penalty for the offences committed. One officer writes: "The effect of whipping for first offences, in "preference to contaminating offenders by association with confirmed offenders in Jail, "is certainly what the Legislature wished it to be, deterrent and reformatory. It is "remarkable, as a rule, that offenders would far sooner be imprisoned than be "whipped, although the latter appears to be much the most lenient punishment of the "two. There is a disgrace attaching to a public whipping highly obnoxious to an "incipient offender."

Quotation of Mr. Probyn's opinion in favor of this kind of punishment.

69. On the same subject Mr. Probyn remarks: "For my own part, the more "I have seen, the more convinced do I feel that whipping is the punishment best "suited for petty thefts, &c. It appeals more directly to the feelings of the thief, "and is more dreaded than imprisonment. A man, too, may go into Jail comparatively "honest, but there is little hope of his coming out such."

Suggestion of Mr. Oldfield regarding the establishment of Juvenile Reformatory Wards.

70. Mr. Oldfield, Magistrate of Furruckabad, has suggested the establishment of a Juvenile Reformatory Ward within or in connection with every Prison, on the principle of keeping the juvenile apart from the adult offenders, in the same manner as female prisoners are kept separate from males. The Court consider this suggestion an admirable one, and understand that the Inspector-General of Prisons has under consideration a scheme for the construction of Reformatory Juvenile Wards similar to that proposed by Mr. Oldfield.

72. The number of appeals for disposal was 2,316, compared with 2,737 in the previous year, a considerable diminution, which, with reference to the greater number of decisions passed, is considered satisfactory. Altogether, 2,242 appeals were disposed of, 571 being rejected, 1,150 orders confirmed, and 521, or 23 per cent., reversed or modified, as contrasted with a corresponding percentage of 21 per cent. in 1864.

79. Including cases pending at the end of the preceding year, the number of cases committed to the Sessions amounted to 1,661, and the number of persons to 3,474, as compared with 1,671 cases and 3,382 persons similarly committed for trial in 1864. There was thus a slight decrease of cases and a trifling increase of persons for trial at the Sessions.

In 1865, 1,661 cases and 3,474 persons were committed, against 1,671 cases and 3,382 persons committed in 1864.

80. The cases of 3,228 persons were tried by the Sessions Judges,—2,355, or 73 per cent., being convicted, and 873, or 27 per cent., acquitted. These percentages are less favorable by one per cent. than in the previous year.

3,228 persons were tried by the Sessions Judges, 2,355, or 73 per cent., being convicted, and 873, or 27 per cent., acquitted,—proportions less favorable than previous year by one per cent.

86. The Court noticed in paragraph 53 of last year's Report a gradual decrease from year to year in this description of cases relating to possessory disputes when a breach of the peace is imminent. They observe that in the year under report there was a still further diminution, i. e., from 352 cases in 1864 to 215 in 1865. The great majority of these cases are instituted under Section 318, Criminal Procedure Code. The Court observe that, as the revision of settlement progresses, the number of these cases may be expected still more to diminish.

Reference to paragraph 53 of Report of 1864, as to the gradual decrease in this description of cases.

A still further diminution from 352 cases in 1864 to 215 in 1865.

Further decrease anticipated.

Reference to the instructions issued by the Court during 1865 as to testing the Witness Registers.

91. The Court have, during the past year, enjoined particular attention in respect to the daily testing by the magisterial officers of their Witness Registers as prepared by the Court Inspector in attendance in the magisterial Courts, and they have directed that each officer personally attest the entries made in the Register day by day, ascertaining from time to time by actual inquiry and inspection that no witnesses are otherwise detained than during the period recorded in the Register.

Separate orders have been issued by the Court, where necessary, regarding the Statement of witnesses and that of the average duration of cases.

The average duration of cases in the magisterial Courts was 11 days, compared with 12 days in 1864 and 13 in 1863.

They have likewise recorded, in regard to this and the next succeeding Statement, such orders as seemed to be necessary regarding those districts in which the results appeared unfavorable.

92. In the Courts of the magisterial authorities, the average duration of each trial was 11 days, as contrasted with 12 in the previous year and 13 in 1863,—a continued improvement which is considered very satisfactory. The detailed district results are thus tabulated :—

Including those pending, there were 1,602 appeals for trial in 1865, compared with 1,493 in 1864.

98. Including appeals pending at the end of 1864, there were 1,602 appeals of this description for trial during the year, compared with 1,493 in the previous one.

1,530 appeals were disposed of; 832 orders having been confirmed, 258 appeals rejected, and 440 orders reversed or modified, being a proportion of 29 per cent., contrasted with 27 per cent. in 1864.

Of these, 1,530 were disposed of; 832 orders were confirmed in appeal, 258 appeals rejected, and 440 orders modified or reversed,—a proportion of 29 per cent., contrasted with 27 per cent. in 1864. Considering the youth and general inexperience of this class of officers, the result cannot be deemed unsatisfactory.

Rs. 27,657 were imposed as fines by the magisterial authorities under Section 44, Criminal Procedure Code, as compared with Rs. 40,184 in 1864. In 1865 Rs. 12,106, or 43 per cent., were realized and paid, as compared with 34 per cent. in 1864.

The efforts of the Magistrates of Muttra and Seharunpore most successful.

100. The Magistrates and their subordinates directed Rs. 27,657 of the fines inflicted to be paid to the injured parties under the provisions of Section 44, Criminal Procedure Code, as compared with Rs. 40,184 in the preceding year. Of this sum, Rs. 12,106, or 43 per cent., were actually realized and paid to the parties as directed, as compared with 34 per cent. in 1864. The greatest amount of success attended the efforts of the Magistrates of the districts of Muttra and Seharunpore.

101. In the Courts of the Sessions Judges Rs. 11,220 of the fines inflicted were ordered to be paid away under the provisions of the same Section, against Rs. 6,717 in 1864; but only Rs. 881, or 8 per cent., of this amount were realized and paid to the injured parties.

Rupees 11,220 were imposed as fines under the same Section by the Sessions Judges, against Rs. 6,717 in 1864; but only Rs. 881, or 8 per cent., were realized and paid to the injured parties.

102. Looking to the class of offenders who most frequently come before the Criminal Courts in this country, the Court fear that much improvement will not be effected in the ratio of fines realized to that imposed under the Section.

The Court do not expect much improvement in the ratio of fines realized to that imposed under Section 44, Criminal Procedure Code.

103. The following Statement exhibits the total amount of criminal business disposed of in the several Sessions Judgeships in these Provinces during the year 1865, on the basis of one Sessions trial, or five criminal trials, being equal to one day's work :—

104. From this Return, it will be observed that 1,523 Sessions trials and 1,939 appeals were disposed of by the Sessions Judges. In 1864, these numbers were, respectively, 1,431 and 2,427. There was thus an increase in cases of heinous crime, but a considerable diminution in the number of appeals.

1,523 trials and 1,939 appeals were disposed of in 1865, compared with 1,431 trials and 2,427 appeals in 1864.

Cases of heinous crime increased, but the number of appeals diminished.

105. In the year under review, the largest amount of criminal business was performed by the Judges of Mynpoorie, Shahjehanpore, Moradabad, Agra, and Futtehpore; and the smallest by those of Goruckpore, Azimgurh, and Jounpore.

Judges of Mynpoorie, Shajehanpore, Moradabad, Agra, and Futtehpore, performed the largest amount of work; and the Judges of Goruckpore, Azimgurh, and Jounpore, the smallest.

In Ghazeepore, 4 cases decided without the aid of Assessors, the prisoners having confessed.
In Shahjehanpore, 15 cases decided without the aid of Assessors.
Jhansie, 1 case transferred not included.
Jaloun, 1 case transferred not included.
Lullutpore, 1 case decided without the aid of Assessors.
Goruckpore, 1 case dismissed without trial.
Mynpoorie, 4 cases decided without the aid of Assessors.
Cawnpore, 1 case prisoners confessed, and thus decided without the aid of Assessors.
Futtehpore, 1 case decided without the aid of Assessors.

113. One thousand five hundred and fifteen trials were disposed of with the aid of Assessors. In 1,362 of these the Sessions Judges concurred in the opinions expressed by the Assessors, differing from them in 153 cases.

Out of 1,515 trials disposed of, the Sessions Judges concurred in the opinions of the Assessors in 1,362 and differed from them in 153 cases.

114. One of the younger Judges, Mr. Ousely, has observed that, "as a rule, "Assessors always acquit. They possess, as a rule, no personal knowledge of or "interest in any of the parties concerned in a case which occurs in the interior. But "this want of personal feeling, instead of making them impartial, merely makes them "indifferent. They take no interest in the case on the grounds of public justice or "morality; and if the accused can afford to pay a Vakeel who is always a resident of "the city and an acquaintance of the Assessors, they are generally willing to acquit "the prisoners from no higher feeling than that of obliging the Vakeel."

Opinion of Mr. Ousely regarding Assessors.

115. The Court have, on former occasions, alluded to the pre-possession invariably shown by Native Assessors, especially by Hindoos, in favor of those charged with homicide and its kindred offences, and they quoted an extract from Mr. Vansittart, Judge of Bareilly's Report on this subject last year. They are glad, however, to observe that Mr. Vansittart is this year of opinion that the Assessors are advancing in general intelligence, and begin to understand the interpretation of the law and the rules of evidence.

With reference to the allusion formerly made by the Court as to the pre-possession shown by Native Assessors, especially Hindoos, in favor of those charged with homicide and its kindred offences, and in reference to the quotation made in the Report of 1864, of the opinion expressed by Mr. Vansittart, the Court are glad to observe that Mr. Vansittart is this year of opinion that the Assessors are improving.

116. The system of trial by jury, so far as Native offenders are concerned, has not, as His Honor is aware, been extended to these Provinces; and the Court are of opinion that civilization is not yet sufficiently advanced among the Native population to admit of the introduction of such a measure.

The system of trial by Jury, so far as Native offenders are concerned, has not yet been extended to these Provinces.

Moradabad.—Average duration of 31 cases is only given, as in the remaining cases the dates for trial were not fixed by Magistrates.

118. Calculating from the date fixed by the Magistrate for the trial to the date on which the warrant of the Sessions Judge issued or his reference was despatched to the Sudder Court, the average duration of each criminal trial in the Courts of the Sessions Judge was 17 days in 1865, compared with 20 days in the previous year.

Average duration of each trial 17 days in 1865, compared with 20 days in 1864.

The average duration of each criminal appeal was 19 days, contrasted with 20 days in 1864.

The average duration of each appeal was 19 days, compared with 20 days in 1864.

119. The Court have no new remarks to offer on this Statement. The results are subject to many exceptional circumstances, and do not call for special remark.

No new remarks on this Statement offered by the Court.

120. The results of the appeals preferred to the Nizamut Adawlut from the decisions of the Sessions Judges, and of the criminal cases reviewed by the Court during the past year, are shown below; the arrangement being made so as to exhibit in one place the total number of cases, with the results, referred by each individual Sessions Judge in the several districts in which he officiated during the year :—

Cases of 15 persons were referred to the Court under the old law for confirmation of sentence of death, of whom 11 were convicted and sentenced capitally; on one person; a modified sentence was passed; and the remaining three were acquitted.

121. The cases of 15 persons were referred to the Nizamut Adawlut for confirmation of sentence under the provisions of the old law. Of these, 11 persons were convicted by the Court and sentenced capitally, as recommended; on one person a modified sentence was passed; the remaining three being acquitted.

The cases of 104 persons sentenced to death under the new law were referred to the Court. The sentences passed on 79 were confirmed, those on 15 modified, the remaining 10 persons having been acquitted.

122. One hundred and four persons were sentenced to death by the Sessions Judges, and their cases referred to the Nizamut Adawlut for confirmation of capital sentence under the Code of Criminal Procedure.

The sentence passed on 79 of these were confirmed by the Court, modified sentence being passed on 15, and 10 being acquitted.

Officers whose references for confirmation of capital sentences were entirely concurred in by the Courts.

123. The Court would observe that in all the cases involving capital sentence referred by Messrs. Paterson (11 persons), M. Thornhill (7 persons), Major McNeile (5 persons), E. J. Boldero (5 persons), F. Thompson (4 persons), W. J. Bramly (3 persons), Hon'ble R. Drummond (3 persons), C. R. Lindsay (2 persons), B. Sapte (2 persons), J. R. Best (2 persons), S. J. Becher (1 person), H. P. Fane (1 person), H. Lushington (1 person), and Colonel Ramsay (1 person), they concurred in the judgment pronounced by the Sessions Courts.

Results of Messrs. Vansittart and Horne not favorable.

The results obtained by Messrs. Vansittart and Horne were not, however, favorable.

The cases of 892 persons were either appealed or called for by the Court.

124. The cases of 892 persons were either appealed to the Court or called for by them on inspection of the Monthly Statements of the Sessions Judges.

Of those disposed of, the sentences passed on 533 persons were confirmed and on 187 modified, 172 persons being acquitted.

Of those disposed of, the sentences passed on 533 persons were confirmed, and on 187 modified, 172 being acquitted.

The cases of 238 persons were otherwise reviewed by the Court. The sentences passed in regard to 175 persons were confirmed and modified in respect to 33, 30 persons were acquitted.

125. The cases of 238 persons were otherwise reviewed by the Nizamut Adawlut during the year. In these cases the sentences passed by the Sessions Judges were confirmed in regard to 175 persons, and modified in respect to 33; 30 persons being acquitted.

Best results were obtained by the late Major Lloyd.

126. With reference to both classes of cases revised, the best results were obtained by the late Major Lloyd, all his sentences being confirmed. The number of persons concerned in these cases (3) was, however, remarkably small.

Excluding the Returns of those Officers whose cases reviewed did not exceed 10, the Statement is most favorable to the judgment of Major McNeile, and to that of Messrs. Sapte, Ousely, Bramly, and Fane, and least to that of Messrs. Reid, Horne and Money.

127. Excluding the Returns of those Judges in respect to whom the number of persons whose cases were reviewed did not exceed ten, the Statement is most favorable to the judgment of Major McNeile, and to that of Messrs. Sapte, Ousely, Bramly, and Fane, and least so to that of Messrs. Reid and Horne.

Mr. Reid's work generally marked by care and intelligence.

128. The Court would guard against any inference unfavorable to Mr. Reid's general ability being drawn from, as it were, the accidental result of the few appeals preferred, as his work generally was marked by care and intelligence. By his transfer to Oudh, the Court have lost a good judicial officer.

The return in regard to Mr. Horne correctly indicates his general inefficiency.

The return however in regard to Mr. Horne, the Court are compelled to say, too correctly indicates the general inefficiency of this officer. His proceedings have been more than once the subject of the animadversions of the Court, though disapprobation has not been expressed so often as it has been felt.

Mr. Horne was apparently exerted himself in consequence of the Court's censure, but his decisions are still wanting in the respects indicated.

Mr. Horne does indeed appear to have exerted himself in consequence of the Court's censure; but his decisions are still characterized by such general confusion of thought and language as to suggest a doubt of his being equal to the proper discharge of judicial functions.

Messrs. Spankie, Turnbull, and Lindsay deserving of specially honorable mention; also Mr. Fane.

The two Judges of the Court who have sat on the bench with a slight interval throughout the year desire me to state that they can conscientiously commend the judicial ability of their present colleagues now officiating as Judges of the Court, Messrs. Spankie and Turnbull, and of Mr. Lindsay, who officiated in a like capacity in 1864, and that the careful work of Mr. Fane is deserving of honorable mention.

Amount of criminal business disposed of by the Nizamut Adawlut.

129. The amount of criminal business of every description disposed of by the Nizamut Adawlut during the year is tabulated below:—

In all 96 cases were referred to the Court, compared with 78 in 1864.

130. In the aggregate, the number of references made in capital cases was 96, compared with 78 in the preceding year.

The records of 40 cases were called for under Sections 403 and 405, Criminal Procedure Code, contrasted with 25 in 1864.

131. The Court called for the records of 40 cases under the provisions of Sections 403 and 405, Act XXV. of 1861, contrasted with 25 similarly called for in 1864.

310 appeals were preferred to the Court in 1865, against 340 in 1864.

114 cases were otherwise reviewed by the Court under Sections 404 and 434, compared with 71 in 1864.

132. The number of appeals preferred to the Court was 310, against 340 appeals in 1864; and the number of cases otherwise reviewed by the Court under Sections 404 and 434 was 114, compared with 71 in 1864.

560 criminal trials and 159 miscellaneous cases were altogether decided in 1865, compared with 514 trials and 178 miscellaneous cases in 1864.

133. On the whole, 560 criminal trials were decided by the Court in 1865, compared with 514 in the previous year; and 159 miscellaneous cases disposed of in the former year, contrasted with 178 in the latter.

38 criminal trials pending at the end of 1865, compared with 30 pending at the close of 1864.

134. Thirty-eight criminal trials were pending on the Court's file at the end of 1865, compared with 30 pending at the close of the previous year.

Average duration of each criminal trial before the Nizamut Adawlut was 19 days.

135. The average duration of each criminal trial before the Nizamut Adawlut during the year was 19 days.

Penal sentences passed or confirmed by the Court during 1865.

136. The following table indicates the penal sentences passed or confirmed by the Sudder Court during the year under report :—

PENALTIES.	1865.	1864.
Death	74	61
Transportation for life	20	11
Transportation above 7 years, and not exceeding 14 years	7	30
Imprisonment above 12, but not exceeding 21 years	0	0
Imprisonment above 5, but not exceeding 10 years	9	14
Imprisonment not exceeding 5 years	182	104
TOTAL ...	292	220*

* Erroneously entered 219 in last year's Report.

Total number of penal sentences increased from 220 in 1864 to 292 in 1865.

137. It will thus be observed that the number of penal sentences confirmed by the Court increased from 220 in 1864, to 292 in the year under report. In two of the minor headings there was a slight diminution.

As usual, copies of the Court's replies to the separate Annual Reports, and extracts of the Magistrates' and Sessions Judges' remarks regarding the qualifications of their subordinates, are submitted.

138. In accordance with usual custom, copies of the Court's replies to the separate Annual Reports of the Sessions Judges, with extracts of the remarks of the Magistrates and Sessions Judges respecting the conduct and qualifications of the subordinates, are transmitted for the information of Government.

The Court hope that the results of the past year (1865) will be considered favorable by Government.

139. The Court trust that the general results of the administration of criminal justice in these Provinces during the year 1865 will be considered favorable by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor.

I have the honor to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient servant,

JAMES SIMSON,

Register.

JAMES SIMSON,
Register.

From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces, to Registrar to the High Court of Judicature (No. 524A.).—Dated Nynee Tal, the 21st July, 1866.

SIR,—I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of the Court's Annual Report, dated the 14th April last, on the Administration of Criminal Justice in the North-Western Provinces during the year 1865.

2. It is noticed that there has been again an increase of reported crime, though to a much less extent than in the previous year. An unfavorable feature also in the returns is the comparatively larger increase of heinous offences; but the proportion of persons convicted and committed is higher than in 1864, which is satisfactory.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor observes that the chief causes which have contributed to this increase of criminal offences appear to have been the unfavorable season in the lower districts of these Provinces, and the consequent high price of grain, and the prevalence of gambling, which is not at present a penal offence. The appointment of Honorary Magistrates throughout the country, and the exemption from stamp-duty of all petitions regarding petty crime, have also no doubt added to the number of minor offences brought to trial, of which the apparent increase is therefore probably only nominal. The Lieutenant-Governor, however, entirely concurs in the opinion of the Court that the appointment of Honorary Magistrates has been of great advantage to the agricultural population.

4. It is satisfactory to find that no case of Thuggee has occurred during the year under report.

5. The criminal business coming before the Magistrates appears, on the whole, to have been disposed of with very creditable promptitude.

6. The explanation since received from the Court of the cause of the long delays in cases pending in the Court of Mr. James, Extra Assistant Commissioner in Jhansie, is not considered satisfactory, and Government expects that that officer will be careful to prevent a similar occurrence in future.

7. The steady improvement in the proportion of persons convicted or committed annually since 1862 is considered very satisfactory.

8. The questions of cliquedom in the police and their improvement or otherwise in detective ability will be discussed in the Inspector-General's Annual Report. His Honor sees no reason to doubt that the police have improved in efficiency, and the returns, especially the increased proportion of convictions, are evidence of this improvement, which is however not so marked as might be desired.

9. The industry of the officers named in paragraph 48 of the Report, as having disposed of the largest number of criminal trials, is commendable.

10. The Lieutenant-Governor has much pleasure in observing the continued and increasing usefulness of Honorary Magistrates, more especially of Rajah Juswunt Rao of Etawah, Chowdhree Jeichund of Furruckabad, Mr. Debnam and Sheikh Shureef-ood-deen of Budaon, Sheikh Ahmed Buksh of Futtehpore, and the other gentlemen named by the Court. The special acknowledgments of the Government are due to these gentlemen for the public spirit which has prompted them to devote so much of their time and trouble to the fulfilment of the duties entrusted to them, and will be conveyed to them through the Magistrates.

11. The success of the experimental establishment of a Board of Honorary Magistrates for the disposal of petty offences in the town of Shahjehanpore is gratifying. A similar Board has just been sanctioned by Government for Etawah, and His Honor trusts that, in other large towns in these Provinces, native gentlemen will be found with sufficient qualifications and public spirit to undertake these duties, by which they will both aid the Government and confer great benefit upon their fellow-citizens.

12. The increased proportion of fines realized is, I am to observe, satisfactory, especially when compared with the returns for 1863, which showed only 51 per cent.

13. With regard to the Statement of offences in paragraph 60 of the Report, the Lieutenant-Governor has observed that the first seven offences are the same as in last year's Report, though not exactly in the same order; but, excepting the first, the amounts are all considerably less. The Lieutenant-Governor has noticed with satisfaction that breaches of the stamp law have very considerably decreased, which tends to show that the provisions of the Act are now more generally observed.

14. It is noted that the number of persons whipped is nearly double that of 1864: the increase has been chiefly of adult offenders. The general opinion seems to be in favor of this punishment, especially for a first offence.

15. The subject will be considered separately in reporting to the Government of India upon the general working of the Act; the opinion of the Court, as expressed in some of their District Resolutions, appears to be favorable to it.

16. In regard to paragraph 70 of the Report, I am to remark that separate wards for juvenile prisoners have been provided in all the Central Jails; and the Inspector-General of Prisons has at present under his consideration a scheme for a Juvenile Reformatory to be established at Allahabad.

17. Referring to paragraphs 82 and 83 of the Report, I am to state that the Lieutenant-Governor considers the results therein exhibited to be, on the whole, satisfactory; but, as the Court themselves admit in some of their separate District Resolutions, neither of the tests referred to can be depended upon as affording reliable data for a correct estimate of official efficiency, and should be viewed as a guide rather for the direction of enquiry than for the formation of any positive conclusions.

18. The results, as shown in the Statement of witnesses contained in paragraph 87 of the Report, are satisfactory, and, if correctly exhibited, are very creditable to the industry and care of the officers concerned. It is a favorable feature, also, that, while the number of persons brought to trial, as compared with 1860, has increased by 34 per cent., the number of witnesses attending to give evidence has increased only by 13 per cent.

19. The effect of care in exercising due discrimination in the summoning of witnesses has been specially exemplified in the Allahabad returns, as compared with those of last year; but, comparing the number of persons under trial and the witnesses summoned with the returns of 1861, the best results are noticeable in Meerut, Allygurh, Shahjehanpore, Furruckabad, Boolundshuhur, Ghazeepore, and Etah, and are very creditable to the officers concerned.

20. The number of witnesses summoned in the Etawah district was very large.

21. In regard to paragraph 91, I am to observe that the Lieutenant-Governor approves of the instructions issued by the Court in respect of the daily testing of the Witness Registers by magisterial officers. The returns from Cawnpore, Bareilly, and Jaloun, are considered unsatisfactory.

22. With reference to the returns showing the average duration of trials, it is observed that there were special reasons which account for the unfavorable returns in Gurhwal, Goruckpore, and Bustee; but those for Humeerpore and Etah admit of considerable improvement, which will be looked for in future. The returns generally exhibit continued improvement, which, in connection with the increase of business, is very satisfactory.

23. The Lieutenant-Governor has observed with much satisfaction the favorable mention made in the Report and its accompaniments of the following officers :—

Judges.—Major McNeile; Messrs. Turnbull, Spankie, Lindsay, Paterson, M. Thornhill, and Sapte.

Magistrates.—Messrs. Forbes, Prinsep, Probyn, Edwards, Oldfield, Martin, Bax, and Hume.

Joint Magistrates and Assistants.—Messrs. Crosthwaite, Duthoit, Halkett, Tracey, Markham, Reid, W. H. Smith, Barstow, J. Smith, McConaghey, Twigg, Dale, J. Robertson, Whalley, Tupp, Quinn, Sells, Burkitt, Cadell, Howell, Butt, and Lieutenant Liston.

Deputy Collectors.—Messrs. Bachman, Concannon, Khyr-ood-deen, Nasir Ali Khan, and Kunnoo Lall.

24. The loss sustained by the Government by the death of Major Moncrieff, Cantonment Magistrate of Benares, is much to be regretted. He was an experienced and valuable officer.

25. The Lieutenant-Governor regrets to learn the very unfavorable opinion which the Court entertain of Mr. Horne; on this subject, however, they will be separately addressed.

26. His Honor notices with satisfaction the favorable opinion entertained by the Court of Messrs. Turnbull and Spankie, their present colleagues, and also of Messrs. Lindsay and Fane.

27. The criminal business which has come before the Court has, I am to remark, been disposed of with great promptitude.

28. The Court are requested to print and circulate to all district officers their separate Resolutions, and the remarks, giving the opinions of the district officers on the qualifications of their several subordinates.

29. In conclusion, I am to observe that the results exhibited in the Report under review are considered by the Lieutenant-Governor to be generally favorable, and I am desired to convey to the Court the thanks of the Government for the ability and zeal with which they have regulated the administration of criminal justice during the past year, and for the careful Report which they have submitted.

From

J. D. SANDFORD, Esquire,

Registrar to the High Court of Judicature,

North-Western Provinces, Agra,

To

R. SIMSON, Esquire,

Secretary to Government,

North-Western Provinces, Allahabad.

Dated Agra, the 14th June, 1867.

Sir,

I am directed to forward, for the information of Government, the Report on the administration of Criminal Justice in the North-Western Provinces for the year 1866, with the usual statements.

High Court of Judicature, N. W. Provinces.
Criminal Side.

2. The first statement shows the number of persons brought up for trial in the several districts during the year for bailable and non-bailable offences, the state of the files at the end of the year in the Magisterial Courts, and the results of the trials, in regard to the conviction or acquittal of the accused, as compared with similar results in the previous year:—

General Statement of persons under trial, and whose cases were disposed of during the years 1865 and 1866.

4. The total number of persons for trial, exclusive of Ajmere, which was not included in the Returns for 1865, was 103,440, as compared with 98,155 in the previous year,—being an increase of 5,285.

5. This increase occurred altogether in persons charged with bailable offences; the number of persons charged with the more heinous or non-bailable offences shows a decrease of 121.

6. These figures, however, do not accurately represent the state of crime; for while numbers of guilty persons escape detection, numbers of persons are brought up for trial who are innocent of offence.

7. Thus, on the one hand, it is reported that 50,437 non-bailable offences were ascertained to have been committed during the year, while but 26,108 persons were brought up for trial; on the other, 10,533 persons, after having been arrested by the Police, or brought up to the Magistrate's Court on summons or warrant, were discharged without even being put on their trial.

8. For the latter result the Police are in some degree to blame, in so far as they have sent in prisoners against whom there is no evidence to substantiate the charge preferred. But the Magistrates in some districts are no doubt also responsible, for they are apt to issue summonses on complaint without proper caution.

9. Very many of the petty charges on which persons are summoned to the Criminal Courts come under the head of criminal trespass and mischief, and probably the bulk of these are of such a nature that they should not be entertained at all in a Criminal Court; they are brought with the object of establishing possession over disputed property, or of obtaining evidence for a Civil suit.

10. Again, it is not for every petty squabble that the machinery of the Criminal Courts should be set in motion. "Nothing is an offence by reason that it causes "any harm, if that harm is so slight that no person of ordinary sense and temper "would complain of such harm."—Indian Penal Code, Section 95.

11. There is a tendency to disregard altogether the annoyance, the loss, and the disgrace that may attach itself to every one arraigned on a criminal charge, and to look upon the Criminal Courts as Civil tribunals for the adjustment of disputes.

12. The stamp which the new law affixes to complaints before a Magistrate will, in respect of the poorer classes of complainants, stop many groundless and frivolous charges; and those Magistrates who have hitherto failed to exercise due discretion will, the Court hopes learn to consider the petitions presented and examine carefully the grounds of complaint before issuing summonses on the accused.

13. There were under trial in the Magisterial Courts at the end of the year but 906 persons—a decrease of 415, compared with the similar Returns for 1865; and of these 906, only 545 were in custody. Seeing that there are more than 200 Magistrates' Courts in the North-Western Provinces, this result must be considered satisfactory.

14. The cases of 11 persons only had been under investigation or trial in the Magisterial Courts for more than three months at the end of the year, as compared with the cases of 23 persons at the end of 1865. This improvement is also regarded as very satisfactory.

15. In the case shown in the Furruckabad Statement as pending for more than three months, the accused is in a lunatic asylum, unable to make his defence. Exceptional circumstances such as this can alone excuse a Magistrate for keeping a case on his file over three months.

16. The Court is of opinion that the Magistrates, as a rule, dispose of the work brought before them with punctuality and promptitude.

17. The proportion of persons convicted or committed to the total number against whom complaints were investigated was 62 per cent. This proportion shows a slight increase upon that for 1865.

18. It is very low in the Etawah and Ajmere districts; high in the districts of Dehra Dòon, Boolundshuhur, and Benares. For the last three years, Benares has shown the best proportion of convictions. The unsatisfactory result in the two former districts is due to the indiscriminate manner in which petty charges are admitted; and the Magistrate of Etawah expresses his opinion that an amicable compromise is the best termination of such accusations. So it may be, but it should not be effected by the agency of a Criminal Court, which is instituted for the protection of the public and for the punishment of offenders, and is not a patriarchal tribunal for the settlement of disputes.

19. In cases investigated by the Police, the Magistrate is, of course, not responsible for the result of the particular trial; but he should be careful to note imperfect investigations, and by his instructions or by censure, or, if necessary, by severer measures, endeavour to bring about improvement. The Court has recently obtained the sanction of Government to a rule requiring the presence of the District Superintendent of Police, or other superior officer of Police, at every Sessions trial, in order that the Judge may at the time point out to a responsible officer the faults or shortcomings of the Police in preparing the case.

20. The number of ascertained offences is put down at 95,225, being an increase of 714 upon the number for 1865. But it is satisfactory to add that there is an actual decrease in the amount of serious crime of 1,578 cases. This may fairly be attributed to greater agricultural prosperity.

21. Where increase has taken place, it is assigned to more faithful reporting on the part of the Police,—to the extension of Section 34 of the Police Act for the punishment of obstructions and nuisances to certain Towns,—to the non-observance of sanitary regulations promulgated by Government,—to the increase in the number of Magisterial Courts.

22. On examination of the statements showing the description of offences reported to have been committed in the several districts, it is surprising to find that but 13 cases of giving false evidence and 23 of forgery were brought up for trial during the year.

23. No cases of Thuggee are reported, and but one case of belonging to a gang of dacoits. There is an increase, however, in the cases of administration of stupifying drugs, which amounted to 49. The Court believes that the attention of the Police Department has been seriously directed to this alarming crime, which threatens to rival the Thuggee of former days.

24. Of the total number of non-bailable offences reported,—viz., 50,437,—no less than 28,620 came under the head of theft, and 13,938 more under the head of house-breaking. Many of these reported crimes are believed to be fictitious, such as cases of cattle straying, and many more so petty as hardly to be designated crime.

25. As will be seen from the table below, there was no very material change in the number of the more serious offences affecting the human body. The number of persons brought up for trial doubles, as it did during 1865, the number of offences. In the commission of such crimes, several persons generally are concerned, and where the offence is committed in the course of an affray or riot, many persons are arrested for one offence, and complaints are frequently entered by both parties to the quarrel. The injured persons, too, are more able and ready to point out the offenders than in the case of offences against property. To such considerations, more than to successful efforts on the part of the Police, must, the Court fear, the high proportion of arrests to offences be attributed; for, so far as the Court can judge from the cases which come before it, the Police are wanting in detective ability.

	1865.		1866.

Grievous hurt	89	197	86	128
Rape	154	185	197	209
Total ...	781	1,695	820	1,748

26. There has been a not inconsiderable decrease in the number of offences against property, as exemplified in the following table; and especially more plentiful harvests have rendered less frequent the crime of house-breaking :—

	1865.		1866.
	Offences.	Persons for trial.	Offences.	Persons for trial.
Dacoity	98	297	72	431
Theft	28,809	14,785	28,620	14,500

Robbery	376	591	303	393
House-breaking	16,453	3,184	13,938	2,677
Total ...	47,359	22,257	44,964	21,928
Criminal breach of trust ...	...	...	456	644

27. It appears to be in the investigation of cases of ordinary theft and house-breaking that the Police most fail, unless the reports are much exaggerated. That only 2,677 persons should have been brought up for trial on account of 13,938 reported crimes, is a fact that calls for very serious consideration.

28. Thus, one Magistrate writes:—"It is in burglaries and thefts that the "Police are least successful; they are too much disposed to give up a case as hope-"less at once, if the village Chowkeedar or the plaintiff is unable to afford some "clue to the perpetrators. It is very difficult to root out the old and obnoxious "system of throwing the whole onus probandi on the unfortunate individual who "has been robbed." Another Magistrate would gladly welcome a far greater increase than had taken place in the number of persons charged with non-bailable offences, for "in the great majority of theft and house-trespass cases the offenders are "never detected or apprehended. If the Police did their work well, the number "of persons tried under this head might well be doubled." And a third,—"I affirm "that arrests in only 27 cases out of 281 burglaries show a great want of detective "power in the Police, and the fact of so large a proportion of convictions shows, as "I have always held to be the case, that, unless the offender is taken in the act, "he is never taken at all. This is the opinion also of the native public, openly express-"ed." In the Etah district, the Police have been reported as especially inefficient, but better results were expected from a change in the superintending officer.

29. The Court has reason to fear that the objectionable and illegal practice of extorting or eliciting confessions from accused persons is not unknown in the Police.

30. It is, however, the general impression that the Police are improving, especially in the higher ranks, and it would be unfair not to make allowance for the recent introduction of the Constabulary Force, and for the difficulties thrown in the way of the Police by the apathy of the people.

31. It has been very truly remarked that the time of the Police is unprofitably taken up in serving summonses in bailable cases,—time that should be devoted to the investigation of serious crime. This evil is aggravated by the facility with which summonses are at present obtained, and the provision of Section 70 of the Criminal Procedure Code, that summons should ordinarily be issued through a Police Officer, shows how far it was from the intention of the Legislature that the intervention of the Criminal Courts should be invoked for the determination of every petty quarrel.

32. The next statement shows the description of Magisterial work performed in the several districts.

33. Exclusive of miscellaneous business, the number of cases conducted amounted to 66,645, showing an increase of 2,956 over the Return for 1865.

34. As might have been expected from the operation of Act VIII. of 1866, by which certain charges formerly triable by the Sessions Judge alone have been placed within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate, there was a decrease of 223 in the number of cases prepared for the Sessions, and a very considerable increase in the number of trials before Magistrates under Chapters XIV. and XV. of the Code of Criminal Procedure, which amounted to 63,775.

35. The number of enquiries by Subordinate Magistrates diminished from 1,626 to 906. It is curious to observe the difference of practice that obtains in different districts as to the employment of Subordinate Magistrates in preliminary enquiry as permitted by Sections 135, 180, and 273 of the Code. Thus, in 12 districts no such enquiries were conducted at all; in Bijnour and Futtehpore 193 and 177 enquiries took place. The general tendency seems to be to discontinue the employment of Subordinate Magistrates on such duties. Local enquiries are made over to the Police, and it is more convenient, in referring a case under Chapter XVI., to refer it to an officer competent to dispose of it, than to one who can only enquire into it. It is possible that the general character of the Police investigation might be improved by the occasional deputation of a Subordinate Magistrate to hold local enquiry, while the officer deputed would be more likely to learn and report the actual circumstances of the particular case, and would gain valuable experience.

36. The largest number of enquiries preliminary to commitment to the Sessions took place in the undermentioned districts:—

This is exclusive of the districts of the Jhansie Division and Ajmere, where Act XV. of 1862 gives higher powers to the Magistrates. Allahabad and Cawnpore were similarly conspicuous in the Return for 1865.

37. The largest number of criminal trials before Magistrates took place in the undermentioned districts:—

Benares, Agra, and Etawah appeared in the same list in the Returns for 1865. Etawah owes its presence there to the prominent part in the administration taken by the Honorary Magistrates, and the encouragement given to the people to bring all their complaints and disputes into the Criminal Courts; Benares, Agra, and Bareilly, probably to their large cities; Futtehpore to the number of persons punished for the non-observance of the sanitary regulations promulgated by Government, and imprisoned in default of security, and punished for breach of the Customs laws. The Magistrate has been called upon for a report on the subject.

38. It is worthy of notice that the fewest trials took place in the same six districts both in 1865 and in 1866. In Humeerpore probably the result is due to the peculiar position of the Sudder Station at a corner of the district, and separated from the rest of the district by, it is believed, an unbridged river. The nature of the country and the sparse population sufficiently accounts for the small number of trials in Kumaon, Gurhwal, Dehra, and Lullutpore. In Boolundshuhur the Magistrates appear to exercise a wise discretion before issuing summonses, and the proportion of convictions to acquittals in bailable cases is higher than in any other district; hence trials are fewer.

39. The greatest number of trials was held before the undermentioned officers :—

Mr. Ironside, Magistrate, Benares	1,175
Imdad Ali, Deputy Magistrate, Cawnpore	1,109
Mr. Niblett, Deputy Magistrate, Benares	1,032
Munsoor Ali Khan, Deputy Magistrate, Futtehpore ...	943
Mr. Bachman, Deputy Magistrate, Ghazeepore	942
Mr. Halkett, Joint Magistrate, Benares...	842
Raja Juswunt Rao, Honorary Magistrate	837
Mr. C. Grant, Magistrate, Etawah and Futtehpore ...	777
Mr. Duthoit, Joint Magistrate, Mirzapore	767
Mr. Quinn, Assistant Magistrate, Benares	730

It will be noticed that the names of four officers of the Benares district appear in this list. The Court is glad to observe the large share of criminal work undertaken by Mr. Ironside. It is but seldom that the Magistrate of the district devotes his time to this branch of his duties.

40. Imdad Ali, Deputy Magistrate, held charge of the important city of Cawnpore, and the Magistrate writes of him as an invaluable assistant.

50. It is honorable to Raja Juswunt Rao, C. S. I. Honorary Magistrate in the Etawah district, that his name should appear in this list, as it did also in the similar list for 1865.

51. The names also of Mr. Halkett, Mr. Quinn, Mr. Niblett, and Mr. Bachman appeared in the list for 1865.

52. The subjoined statement shows the amount and details of work performed by the Honorary Magistrates of the several districts.

53. It will be seen that the employment of resident landholders in this capacity is becoming more general. In 1864, 2,223 trials were held before Honorary Magistrates; in 1865, 3,205; and in the past year, 4,502. The Magistrates generally write favorably of the system, and acknowledge the assistance received. The fault of the Honorary Magistrates appears to be, as may be inferred from the proportion of convictions to acquittals, a too great readiness to receive all complaints and to adjudicate between parties as in a civil suit. It is satisfactory to observe that but six persons were left under trial at the close of the year. In the districts of Budaon, Futtehpore, and Etawah, the Honorary Magistrates rendered most material help.

54. The Magistrate of Etawah writes in the highest terms of Rajah Juswunt Rao, C.S.I., who devotes himself to his work with industry and zeal equal to that of the most hard-worked of the regular Magistrates. Mr. Hume also praises very warmly the labors of Chowbey Gunga Pershaud, who has lately died.

55. The Magistrate of Mynpoory records that Chowdry Luchmun Singh has rendered very useful assistance; that out of 70 persons sentenced by him, only one appealed, and in that case the sentence was confirmed.

56. Sheikh Ahmed Bux Khan Buhadoor, in the Futtehpore district, is described by the Magistrate as a man of marked and unusual ability, and has done his work well. In the Jounpore district, Syud Riazut Ali is stated to have been very useful and zealous.

57. The Magistrate of Bareilly gives a good character to Hukeem Hidayut Ali, of Aonla; and Mr. Carmichael thanks Mr. George Debnam and Sheikh Seeraj-ood-deen for much assistance cordially rendered.

58. The Board of Honorary Magistrates, sitting together in the city for the trial of criminal cases, continues, it is reported, to work successfully at Shahjehanpore. At Etawah, where the experiment has also been tried, it has not been so successful. The officers comprising the Board could or would not work together.

59. At Etah, one of the regular Magistrates was deputed to sit with Rajah Dilsookh Rao for the hearing of petty cases; and this plan gave satisfaction; but it was not continued, as the time of the regular Magistrate could not be spared.

60. It is well suggested by the Judge of Mirzapore, where no native gentleman has been appointed Honorary Magistrate, that one of the regular Magistrates should hold Court two or three times in the week at some central Police Station in the city, for the trial of petty thefts and minor crimes. A system of cotton pilfering is reported to be very prevalent in the city, and some special measure is stated to be necessary to put down the crime.

61. In the Meerut, Etawah, and other districts watered by the canal, there are officers of the Irrigation Department vested with magisterial powers for the punishment of offences connected with the canal. It has been held that appeals from their orders lie only to the Sessions Judge, and that they are not subordinate in the exercise of their magisterial authority to the Magistrate of the district. The Magistrate of Meerut protests very strongly against this arrangement, especially as the officers are quite untrained for judicial work. The Court thinks it right to bring the subject to the notice of Government. The policy of investing officers of a special department with authority to punish offences against their departmental rules seems very questionable, although it is done under the authority of Act VII. of 1845; and where it is done, there should be at any rate every facility of appeal to an independent tribunal, in order to correct the possible injustice committed by a zealous officer who is at once prosecutor and judge.

62. The next statement shows the nature of the sentences passed by the Magisterial authorities throughout the year.

63. In all, 21,431 persons were sentenced to imprisonment, being an increase, exclusive of Ajmere, of about 2,000 over the result for 1865. Of these, only 834 were sentenced to simple imprisonment.

64. The degrees of punishment were as follows :—

Not exceeding six months	16,385
Ditto ditto one year	2,140

65. The increase over the number for 1865 is due partly to the enactment of Act VIII. of 1866, partly to the increased number of persons accused of bailable offences, and partly to the higher proportion of convictions.

66. It will be observed that of the sentences of above one year's imprisonment none were to simple imprisonment, and that of those of above six months but 15 were to simple imprisonment. The Magistrates are no doubt aware that to the poorer and the criminal classes simple imprisonment is no punishment. Thus, the Magistrate of Jounpore complains of the insufficiency of the punishment of simple imprisonment, which is all the law allows, to stop the crime of attempt at suicide, which is common in his district, owing apparently to general distress. It is not likely, however, that a man bent on committing suicide would be stopped by the fear of rigorous imprisonment, but it is possible that feigned or half attempts may be made in the hope of obtaining a not uncomfortable lodging and a sufficiency of food.

67. Similarly, the Magistrate of Mirzapore reports that the provisions of Chapter XIX. of the Code of Criminal Procedure are powerless over the bad characters of the city, who purposely decline to furnish security, and accept without reluctance the idle life in prison.

68. Judging from the number of persons sentenced to periods of imprisonment exceeding one year, the criminal class is most numerous and hardened in the districts of Cawnpore and Ghazeepore. The latter district was remarkable for the number of heavy sentences in 1865 also. In Moozuffernuggêr, only 15 heavier sentences were passed during 1866, and only 9 during 1865.

69. Thirty-four thousand, nine hundred and ninety-two persons were fined in the Magistrates' Courts to an aggregate amount of Rs. 3,55,140. These figures give an increase of 3,748 in the number of persons fined, but a decrease of Rs. 3,502 in the amount imposed, as compared with the Return for 1865.

70. Only 2 persons were fined to an amount exceeding Rs. 500, and only 28 persons to an amount exceeding Rs. 200. The latter number—28—is the same as appeared in the similar Return for 1865. Out of the total number fined,—viz., 34,992, —34,685 persons were fined small sums below Rs. 50.

71. Of the amount of fines imposed, 65 per cent. was realized,—a considerable improvement upon the percentage for 1865, which was 60. Considering, however, that, under Section 70 of the Indian Penal Code, imprisonment, when inflicted in default of payment, is no satisfaction of the fine, it seems improbable that any person will go to prison if the fine inflicted be within his means. The Court think, therefore, that if all Magistrates were to regard well the means of offenders when awarding fines, and were to use due diligence in realizing fines, this proportion would be much higher.

72. Subjoined is a statement showing the offences for which fines were imposed exceeding in the aggregate Rs. 1,000. By far the largest amount was, as in 1865, imposed for the offence of causing grievous hurt, and the five offences following next in order are also the same as in the similar statement for 1865 :—

74. In the following districts resort was most had to this kind of punishment:—

Ghazeepore	318
Benares	283
Allahabad	236
Mirzapore	232
Azimgurh	217

It is noticeable that these five districts appeared also in the list for 1865 of those districts in which most persons were whipped, and that the Magistrates of the Benares Division appear to approve of whipping more than the other Magistrates.

75. In the following districts resort was least had to this kind of punishment:—

Moozuffernugger	12
Bijnour	27
Dehra	29
Etawah	32
Kumaon	34
Etah	43

It is again noticeable that these seven districts were similarly conspicuous in the Return for 1865.

76. The general opinion and practice seem to be in favor of the punishment as suitable for juvenile offenders, and for other offenders on the first commission of such offences as theft and receiving stolen property; but it is thought to be insufficient as sole punishment for hardened criminals. Thus, there has been an increase of 59 in the number of juveniles whipped, a decrease of 204 in the number of adults, as compared with the results of 1865.

77. In the event of the establishment of Reformatories for the discipline and training of juvenile offenders, the Court would regard with satisfaction a decrease in the number of juveniles whipped. Till such time, however, there can be no doubt that whipping is the best punishment for such offenders.

79. Notwithstanding a considerable increase in the number of appealable cases decided by the Magistrates, the number of cases appealed to the Judge is less than in 1865. The percentage of reversals to appealable cases decided—3—is the same as for 1865, and must be considered very satisfactory. The proportion, however, of judgments reversed or modified to appeals decided by the Judge—26 per cent.—is not quite so good as for 1865.

80. It is remarkable that Boolundshuhur, which was one of the districts in which fewest criminal trials were held, should be one of those in which most orders were passed appealable to the Judge.

81. In the undermentioned districts the appeals were fewest, as compared with appealable decisions:—

Boolundshuhur	4	per cent.
Bijnour	4	,,
Jounpore	4	,,
Budaon	5	,,
Lullutpore	6	,,
Ajmere	7	,,
Meerut	7	,,

And in these, appeals were most frequent:—

Muttra	36	per cent.
Allygurh	39	,,
Dehra	51	,,
Kumaon, Gurhwal	68	,,

Bijnour, Jounpore, and Boolundshuhur appeared in the former list also for 1865, and Allygurh in the latter. It will be noticed that the frequency of appeal does not depend, as might have been anticipated, upon the residence of a Judge at the Sudder Station.

82. In the undermentioned districts, decisions were the least disturbed, as compared with the number of appeals actually heard :—

Shahjehanpore	5 per cent.
Ajmere	8 ,,
Jaloun	13 ,,
Dehra
Meerut

And in these, decisions were the most frequently altered :—

Lullutpore	67 per cent.
Moradabad	48 ,,
Mynpoorie	41 ,,
Etah	39 ,,
Etawah	36 ,,

The last three districts, it may be remarked, are under the jurisdiction of the Judge of Mynpoorie.

83. One Magistrate has complained of what he considers a defect in the present practice of hearing appeals,—namely, that there is no one present on behalf of the Crown to answer the arguments or refute the assertions of the Counsel who may be engaged on behalf of the prisoner. It is not difficult, however, to remedy this defect. The Magistrate should instruct the Government Pleader or other qualified practitioner to appear on behalf of the prosecution, where the importance and circumstances of the case may require such precaution.

84. Of individual officers, the undermentioned are those from whose decisions in appealable cases the fewest appeals were proportionately preferred :—

Mr. Twigg, Assistant Magistrate, Agra ...	72	1
Captain Shuttleworth, Cantonment Magistrate, Ajmere	135	1
Mr. Debnam, Honorary Magistrate, Budaon ...	180	2
Mr. Concannan, Deputy Magistrate, Azimgurh,	111	2
Captain Wheler, Cantonment Magistrate, Jhansie,	53	2
Mr. R. J. Crosthwaite, Assistant Magistrate, Boolundshuhur	421	3
Shurf-ood-deen, Honorary Magistrate, Budaon,	408	3

85. The names of Mr. R. J. Crosthwaite and Mr. Debnam appeared in the similar statement for 1865 ; and it is some evidence of the popularity of the two Honorary Magistrates, Mr. Debnam and Shurf-ood-deen, that so few of their decisions were appealed.

86. The Court are, however, constrained to remark that this statement is of little or no worth as the test of the soundness of a Magistrate's decisions. This is proved by the absence from the lists of the names of those officers whose experience is the greatest and whose judgments are the best.

87. The results of appeals were most favorable to the judgment of those officers whose names follow :—

Name of Officer.	Number of appeals heard.	Percentage of reversals and modification to decisions.
1. Mr. Ironside, Magistrate, Benares ...	28	4
2. Mr. A. Sells, Assistant Magistrate, Agra ...	21	5
3. Nasir Ali Khan	19	5
4. Mr. Ward, Assistant Magistrate, Dehra ...	16	6
5. Mr. Howell, Ditto, Shahjehanpore ...	35	6

7. Mr. C. Twigg, Ditto, Shahjehanpore ...	13	8
8. Mr. Clarke, Magistrate, Banda	13	8
9. Major Davidson, Deputy Commr., Ajmere ...	25	8

Here, again, the names of some of the best officers are conspicuous by their absence; but the officer at the head of the list deserves his place.

88. A statement follows, showing the result of commitments made to the Sessions during the past year. Act VIII. of 1866 has brought about a decrease in the number of these cases. The general percentage of convictions to commitments—74—is more favorable by 1 than the result for 1865.

There does not appear to be much use in keeping up this statement. There is no doubt that in many cases which should properly be dealt with under this chapter, charges of criminal trespass are erroneously brought, and, the Court fears, entertained.

Detention of witnesses.

92. The number of witnesses examined has increased considerably over the return for 1865, being 256,083, as compared with 238,311. But the Court are glad to observe that the percentage of those dismissed after one day has improved from 95 per cent. in 1865 to 98 per cent. in 1866.

93. The returns from the districts of Boolundshuhur and Budaon are wonderfully good. In the latter district, 13,941 witnesses were examined during the year, and only 24 detained over one day. The returns from Agra, Etawah, Meerut, and Moradabad, are hardly less good. Benares and Furruckabad also show well.

See Circular Order No. 22, dated 1st November, 1863.

94. It has been hinted that, regard being had to the pressure of work upon most Magistrates, and the constant moves into the interior during the cold weather, these returns are too good to be true. The Sudder Court, however, directed that each Magisterial Officer shall personally attest with his own signature the correctness of the entries in the register of the attendance of witnesses at the close of office for the day; and the Court is slow to believe that with this precaution the correctness of the returns cannot be ensured. And, after all, punctual attendance at office, and additional labor on occasions, are not virtues too high to be demanded from trusted public servants.

95. Close on 16,000 witnesses attended the Courts in Etawah. In 1865, also, the largest number of witnesses attended in this district. The people were encouraged to bring all their complaints into Court. It is right to notice that the greatest pains were taken to prevent any unnecessary annoyance from undue detention to this multitude of witnesses.

96. The Court has taken proper notice where witnesses appear to have been improperly detained, as in Ajmere, Lullutpore, Jaloun, Ghazeepore, and Mirzapoor. The Banda return is not good, but it was affected by the illness of the officer stationed at Kirwee.

97. The average duration of cases in the Magistrates' Courts is shown in the following statement:—

98. This statement must also be considered very satisfactory, except in regard, perhaps, to the districts of Allygurh, Etah, Goruckpore, Bustee, Gurhwal, and Jhansie. For the comparatively large duration in the four last districts, sufficient excuse is found in geographical formation or the intermixture of foreign territory.

99. Some officers have protested strongly against the attachment of much importance to this statement, on the ground that any pressure put upon the Magistrates to shorten the duration of their cases only leads to imperfect investigation and hasty judgment. One officer remarks that the average duration for his district could have been shorter but for the laudable habit of one of his subordinates to proceed to the spot and hold local enquiry in cases of difficulty; in other districts, the duration has been increased by the laborious proceedings of an officer who has at the same time been commended for his diligence and good judgment. The object of the return is, of course, to ensure the prompt discharge of duty; and so long as the character of the Magistrate is known to the Court to be above suspicion of idleness or procrastination, the Court will refrain from censure, even though the return of average duration is below the standard mark.

100. Still, where other objects have not interfered with the quick despatch of business, there is matter for congratulation; and the officers of the districts of Benares, Dehra, Etawah, Jounpore, Meerut, Budaon, Furruckabad, Cawnpore, Futtehpore, and Kumaon, are entitled to commendation on this account. The Court have also satisfaction in reporting that the general average duration throughout the Provinces is shorter by one day than it was for 1865.

101. The next statement shows the general result in each district of appeals preferred from the decisions of Subordinate Magistrates to the Magistrate of the district. The proportion of decisions altered to appeals heard is the same as for 1865.

102. The very small number of appeals in the Allahabad district may be noted. It appears that appeals from the decisions of one Subordinate Magistrate were erroneously heard by the Judge. The Court has been surprised to notice the same error of practice in other districts. The language of Sections 412 and 414 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is clear enough.

104. More use appears to have been made of this Section in the Magisterial Courts than in 1865, and the amount imposed was more successfully realized. The Judges have in a very small degree availed themselves of it. One officer has attributed this to the fact that the complainants do not apply for compensation; but the law does not contemplate such application.

106. The number of Sessions trials has diminished; the number of appeals has increased;—in neither case very materially as compared with 1865.

107. The Judges of Mynpoorie, Ghazeepore, Futtehpore, Allahabad, and Bareilly devoted most time to criminal work; exclusive of the Jhansie Division, Kumaon, and Ajmere, the Judges of Jounpore, Moradabad, Allygurh, Furruckabad, and Azimgurh devoted least.

108. Estimated according to the number of cases, the amount of criminal business was heaviest in Bareilly, Mynpoory, Agra, Cawnpore, and Futtehpore; lightest in Furruckabad, Benares, Ghazeepore, Azimgurh, and Jounpore. But the number of cases merely is not a certain test, as may be inferred from the fact that the Judge of Ghazeepore was one of those whose time was most occupied by criminal work, while according to the estimation in figures, he was one of those who had the least amount of criminal work.

109. The Court approves of the practice followed by the Judges of Moradabad and Goruckpore, of fixing certain days for the performance of criminal work. This is most convenient to the Judge himself, the subordinate Courts, and the appellants, who know that their cases will be heard on a certain day. Civil work, too, is the least interrupted; and the pleaders and suitors benefit by the arrangement, which conduces to order and regularity in the despatch of business,—elements essential to judicial proceedings. In a recent Circular, the Court has ordered that a fixed day or days in each month shall be set apart for Sessions trials.

110. The Court has reason to fear that some Judicial Officers are not sufficiently careful to attend their Court-houses at fixed hours in the day. The Court does not attribute this to any lack of diligence, but to the habit of disposing of certain kinds of business out of office. And possibly part of a Magistrate's work may more conveniently be done in private. All that the Court would insist upon is, that well-known hours should be set apart, both by Judges and Magistrates, for attendance at the public Court-house, and that these hours should be rigidly observed. Any other habit must produce a vast amount of public inconvenience, which the servants of the public are not warranted in inflicting.

111. The nature of the sentences awarded by the Sessions Judges is shown in the following statement:—

* Inclusive of one person sentenced to transportation, who was sentenced with another, whose case was referred for the confirmation of the Court.

(a).—Includes two cases of two persons received in 1867.

112. One hundred and three persons were sentenced capitally, as compared with 109 so sentenced in 1865. One hundred and sixty-five were sentenced to transportation for life, as compared with 175 so sentenced in 1865.

113. The greatest number of persons were sentenced capitally in the Bareilly and Mynpoorie Judgeships, as was the case also in 1865.

114. Only 9 persons were flogged by sentence of the Sessions Courts. The Judges seldom flog, because the cases tried by them are generally of a more serious nature than those for which the punishment of flogging is appropriate.

115. The number of persons fined in small sums as sole punishment has very materially diminished,—from 232 in 1865 to 67 in 1866.

116. It is to be regretted that not a seventh part of the fines imposed by Sessions Judges was realized. It is possible that Magistrates—to whom, it is presumed—the Judge's warrant is directed, are not sufficiently diligent in executing the same; and, as has been before observed, many Judicial Officers appear to lose sight of the provisions of the Code, which, in order to deprive the offender of the option of undergoing the imprisonment awarded in default of fine rather than of paying, provides that the Court may, notwithstanding the imprisonment of the offender, levy the fine. Fines, too, are in some cases inflicted without sufficient regard to the means of the offender.

117. The following statement shows the classes from which the Assessors at Sessions trials were taken, and the agreement or disagreement of the Judge with the Assessors in their opinion :—

118. The decisions of all the Judges, except the Judge of Seharunpore, agreed in the great majority of cases with the opinion of the majority of the Assessors.

119. One Judge has remarked that the Assessors are perfectly useless. But another has stated that he has occasionally derived considerable assistance from the Assessors; that they usually appreciate the points of a case, and sometimes put very pertinent questions to the witnesses. "As a rule, I think they act bonâ fide; but I "have seen cases in which they appeared determined to acquit the prisoners at all "hazards." A third Judge has found the presence of Assessors of great assistance in cross-examination, and in enabling him to understand points of native evidence. He considers that they do their work with intelligence and impartiality, and that their presence at trials not only tends to popularize the administration of criminal justice, but forms a valuable contribution to the political education of the people.

120. The Court regrets to notice that one Magistrate has reported the great dislike shown by respectable natives to sit as Assessors. The Court has little doubt that both the popularity and the utility of the system in a great measure depend upon the Judge himself, upon his mode of conducting the trial, and upon the degree in which he chooses to avail himself of the local knowledge and experience of the Assessors.

They may also be affected by the abundance of employment or leisure enjoyed in any particular district by the classes from which Assessors are selected, the distance they have to travel in order to attend Court, and other causes peculiar to certain localities.

121. The duration of criminal trials and appeals before the Sessions Judges is shown in the following table :—

122. These averages are of course affected by the periods elapsing between the Judges' visits to out-stations and by the promptness with which the record of a case appealed is furnished from the Magistrate's Office. The average duration of Sessions trials at Humeerpore (89 days) is due to the fact that the Judge of Cawnpore only held two Sessions at Humeerpore throughout the year. Those Judges within whose districts out-stations are situated have been requested to report to the Court the dates on which they leave their head-quarters in order to hold Sessions at the out-stations.

123. The Judge of Futtehpore has been called upon to explain the unusually long duration (30 days) of appeals in his Court. The attention of Government is invited to the average duration of Sessions trials (135 days) and of criminal appeals (53 days) in Ajmere. The Court is aware that the Commissioner and Sessions Judge has important duties in his capacity of Agent to the Governor-General which call him away from Ajmere.

124. The next statement shows the result of the references made to the Sudder and High Courts for confirmation of capital sentences, the result of appeals from the decisions of Sessions Judges, and of revision of their sentences by the Sudder and High Courts.

125. The Court confirmed the capital sentences passed by the Sessions Judges on 81 persons out of 100 persons whose cases were referred by the Sessions Judges and decided by the Sudder or High Court during the year. Four persons only were acquitted.

126. In all the cases where capital sentence was passed by Mr. Sapte (9 persons), Mr. Thompson (7 persons), Mr. Paterson (3 persons), Mr. Lance (4 persons), Mr. Boldero (2 persons), Mr. Andrew Ross (3 persons), Mr. Fane (3 persons), Mr. Bax (2 persons), Major McNeile (4 persons), Colonel Eden (1 person), the sentence was confirmed by the Sudder or High Court. In the cases of 16 persons sentenced capitally by Mr. Horne, the Court confirmed the sentence on 14 persons.

127. The cases of 999 persons sentenced by the Sessions Judges came before the Sudder or High Court in the exercise of its appellate power or powers of revision: in 655 cases were the sentences confirmed; 152 persons were acquitted.

128. The results of the Court's decisions were most favorable to the judgment of Mr. Probyn, Mr. Sapte, Major McNeile, and Mr. Thornhill; least favorable to Mr. Andrew Ross, Colonel Eden, Mr. Keene, Mr. Prinsep, and Mr. Power.

129. The Court has every reason to be satisfied with the care and good judgment shown generally both by the Judges and the Magistrates in the administration of criminal justice.

130. Among the Judges, perhaps Mr. Paterson, Mr. Sapte, and Mr. Probyn are most worthy of mention, as having shown judicial ability in their decisions on the Criminal side; and the carefulness of Mr. Fane's judgments has been mentioned in former reports.

131. Among the magisterial authorities, the Court has had reason to notice the able decisions of Mr. Hume, Mr. Edwards, Mr. Ironside, Mr. C. H. Crosthwaite, Mr. Tidy, Mr. Duthoit, and Mr. Markham.

132. Extracts from the reports of the Judges and Magistrates showing the opinion held by them of their subordinates accompany this report. The Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor will no doubt notice the high praise given to Mr. Tracey, Mr. Cadell, Mr. Spedding, Mr. Wall, Mr. Montague, and Mr. Tyrrell; and among the Native Deputy Magistrates, Kunnoo Lall of Etawah, Sheikh Khyr-ood-deen of Bareilly, and Imdad Ally of Cawnpore.

133. The characters of Mr. Forbes, Mr. Martin, Mr. Oldfield, Mr. Carmichael, Mr. Webster, Mr. Harrison, Mr. Wigram, Mr. Jenkinson, as energetic Magistrates, are known to the Government.

134. The High Court of Judicature for the North-Western Provinces commenced its sittings on the 16th June, 1866.

135. The amount of criminal work disposed of by the Sudder and High Courts is shown below:—

The form of statement prescribed in a late despatch from the Secretary of State could not be adopted in this report, owing to the date at which it was received.

136. In all, 962 cases came before the Court, ending in the conviction of 615 persons and the acquittal of 134. There was no material difference between the amount of business transacted in 1866 and in 1865.

137. In addition to the above, 11 criminal trials were held on the Original Criminal side, ending in the conviction of 5 and in the acquittal of 8 European British subjects.

138. The nature of the penalties inflicted under the judgments of the Sudder and High Courts was as follows:—

No. 619A.

FROM

R. SIMSON, ESQUIRE,

Secretary to the Government,
North-Western Provinces,

To

J. D. SANDFORD, ESQUIRE,

Registrar, High Court of Judicature.

DATED NYNEE TAL, THE 28TH AUGUST, 1867.

SIR,

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt, on the 12th instant, of your letter No. 777, dated the 14th of June last, submitting the Report on the Administration of Criminal Justice in the North-Western Provinces for the year 1866.

2. The Report having been laid before His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, I am directed to communicate, in reply, the following observations and orders:—

3. The total number of persons under trial during the past year has exceeded by 5,285 the number shown in the return for the previous year. It is observed, however, that the increase has been entirely of persons charged with bailable and less heinous offences; and the Police returns show that cases of murder, dacoity, robbery, lurking house-trespass and theft, have all diminished, as compared with 1865. The districts in which the largest numbers of persons were under trial are those of Agra, Bareilly, Cawnpore, Allahabad, and Mirzapore.

4. The percentage of convictions and commitments, to the whole number tried, is somewhat better than in 1865. The best percentages have been in the districts of Benares, Boolundshuhur, and Deyrah Dhoon.

5. Satisfactory improvement is shown in the reduction of the number of persons under trial at the close of the year, and of those whose cases had been under investigation for more than three months.

6. With reference to the remarks in paragraphs 27 and 28, I am to observe that there is no doubt of a want of detective ability in the Police; but as regards their failure in cases of burglary and theft, it must be remembered with what facility a burglary is committed in a mud or grass hut; that the Police force is weak in number as compared with area; that in both classes of crime, the offence is generally of a petty nature; and that as the property stolen is of a very common character, there is consequently difficulty in identifying it. Unless, therefore, the prosecutor or village Chowkeedar can give some clue, detection is often almost hopeless. The statistics given in the Police Report show, however, that out of a total number of 65,413 offences reported in 1866, 34,724, or 53 per cent., were investigated by the Police, and that 74 per cent. of the persons arrested by the Police were convicted or committed for trial. While it must be admitted that there is considerable room for improvement, His Honor cannot consider that these results, which are as good as those shown in the return of crime in England for 1865, are altogether unsatisfactory.

7. The attention of the Inspector-General of Police, North-Western Provinces, will be called to the remark of the High Court in the 29th paragraph of the Report, that there is reason to fear that the practice of extorting or eliciting confessions from accused persons is not unknown in the Police, His Honor trusts that all officers of the force will do their utmost to check so objectionble a practice.

8. There can be no question that the time of the Police is often unprofitably occupied in serving summonses in petty cases; but it appears to have been the intention of the Legislature that processes should be served by them, even in petty cases, except when "immediate service might be necessary, and no Police officer be immediately available," for the purpose.

9. The Lieutenant-Governor considers the Court's suggestion regarding the occasional deputation of a Subordinate Magistrate to hold local enquiry in preliminary investigations, as permitted by Sections 135, 180, and 273 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, to be useful, and a general direction to that effect might, with advantage, be issued.

10. With reference to the remarks on the comparative number of trials in different districts, it must be observed that the position of Humeerpore is in a considerable degree due to the fact that its population is smaller than that of any other District in these Provinces, excepting Deyrah Dhoon and the Non-Regulation Districts. It has also to be considered that although the amount of criminal work undertaken by Mr. Ironside is creditable to that officer, yet there is only one Tehseelee in the Benares District, and consequently less Revenue work than in most others.

11. The Lieutenant-Governor has much satisfaction in acknowledging the valuable services of the gentlemen named in paragraphs 54 to 57 of the Court's Report.

12. The Lieutenant-Governor is of opinion that if in large towns the Joint Magistrate, or an experienced Assistant, were to sit with the Honorary Magistrate two or three times a week in the city, it would have a very beneficial effect, and would be most useful in teaching the latter rules of procedure, and the mode of trying cases. A Circular will therefore be issued desiring Magistrates to introduce this practice wherever circumstances admit of it. You will be addressed hereafter on the subject of paragraph 61 of your Report.

13. It appears to His Honor that persons imprisoned for bad livelihood, in default of security, should be made to labor, and that advantage should be taken of any revision of the Procedure Code to procure an alteration of the law in this respect.

14. Of the number of persons sentenced to whipping under the provisions of Act VI. of 1864, which was rather less than in the previous year, it is observed that 525 were thus punished on a second conviction, and 3,389 on a first conviction. Of the whole number whipped, 3,276 were adults, and 670 juveniles. The proposal to establish a Reformatory for juvenile offenders has been negatived by the Supreme Government; but in the Central Prisons, and in the larger District Jails, arrangements are being made for the entire separation of all juveniles from the other prisoners.

15. It is correctly remarked by the Court that the remedy for any injurious consequences likely to arise from the absence of any one on behalf of the Crown at the hearing of appeals is in the hands of Magistrates themselves.

16. The expediency or otherwise of discontinuing the statement showing the number of cases in which proceedings have been taken under Chapter 22 of the Code of Criminal Procedure will come under consideration when the Court's Report on the Judicial Statements proposed by the Statistical Committee is received.

17. The statement showing the number of witnesses examined in Zillah Courts, and the periods of their detention, is very satisfactory and creditable. This opinion is expressed with the more confidence that there is every reason to confide in the accuracy of the statement, now that the check directed by the Court is carried out.

18. The Lieutenant-Governor entirely approves of the principle followed by the Court in reviewing the return of the average duration of cases before different Magistrates.

19. His Honor observes with much satisfaction that the general average duration of suits throughout the North-Western Provinces is shorter by one day than it was in 1865.

20. His Honor trusts that Judicial Officers will not overlook the remark of the Court, that it is unnecessary that complainants should apply for compensation under Section 44 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

21. The rule followed by the Judges of Moradabad and Goruckpore, of fixing certain days for the performance of criminal work, has deservedly met with the approval of the Court.

22. It is very important that Judges and Magistrates should set apart some well-known hours for attendance at the Public Court-house, and it is hoped that all Judicial Officers will appreciate the justice of the Court's remarks on the point.

23. The Lieutenant-Governor believes that where questions of caste or of creed are not involved, assessors perform their duty on the whole with impartiality and to the best of their ability, and is inclined to concur generally in the opinion of the Third Judge, referred to in paragraph 119 of the Report. The Court are requested to report the name of the Magistrate who has noticed the great dislike shown by respectable natives to sit as assessors.

24. With regard to the remarks in paragraph 123, I am to observe that some alteration in the Judicial arrangements at Ajmere is unquestionably called for, in order that Sessions trials may come off with less delay. There is not sufficient work for a special officer, and the only alternative appears to be to invest the Deputy Commissioner with the powers of a Sessions Judge, for which his experience appears sufficiently to qualify him. The Commissioner will be consulted on the subject.

25. The Lieutenant-Governor notes with satisfaction the commendation bestowed by the Court on the Officers named in paragraphs 130 to 134, whose services are fully appreciated by His Honor. I am desired to request that the High Court will be good enough to furnish this Office with the reports of the Judges and Magistrates, as well as the Court's own replies thereto, and will in future cause these papers to be forwarded with their own Annual Report to Government.

26. It is observed that the criminal business coming before the High Court has been promptly disposed of, and that there are no arrears. Altogether, the Lieutenant-Governor considers the state of the Criminal Administration to be satisfactory, and desires me to convey to the High Court the acknowledgments of Government for their interesting and useful Report, and for their able superintendence of this important branch of the administration.

I have the honor to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient Servant,

Amount of Crime.

3. The total number of offences is shewn at 91,740, being a decrease of 3,485 from the number in 1866. The decrease is about the same in bailable and in non-bailable offences.

4. The decrease in the latter has occurred in offences against property, as will be seen from the annexed Statements:—

	1866.		1867.
	Offences.	Cases for trial.	Offences.	Cases for trial.

Total ...	820	809	830	816

5. In cases of theft alone, there is a decrease of nearly 3,000 reported offences.

6. There has been a slight increase in the number of the more serious offences against the person, that is, in cases of murder, rape, and culpable homicide not amounting to murder. In a large proportion of the cases of murder which have come before the Court, the motive has been the plunder of jewels worn by children.

Culpable homicide not amounting to murder has generally had its origin in disputes as to agricultural rights which result in latthee fights.

The number of cases of administration of poisonous drugs was 49, the same as in 1866.

7. The decrease in the number of non-bailable offences reported may be attributed in some measure to the general decrease in crime, and in some measure to the new Stamp Act, by which a fee is imposed on the institution of some complaints of the less serious offences. Otherwise probably an increase would have taken place from the introduction of the recent law for the prevention of gambling, and from the extension of Municipal Institutions, which add to the number of offences by rendering certain acts and omissions punishable as nuisances.

8. The Court however does not anticipate that the effect of the institution fee, in checking materially the presentation of complaints, will be lasting. The Joint Magistrate of Etah, for instance, has reported that the effect of the Act was only temporary, and that at present quite as many petitions are given in as when they were presented on plain paper.

BENGAL SECRETARIAT LIBRARY.

9. The Court has not been informed whether the Magistrates have to any, and what extent, availed themselves of the discretionary power given them of dispensing with the stamp in certain cases.

Police Investigations.

10. The proportion between the number of offences ascertained to have been committed, and the number of cases brought into the Magistrates' Courts for enquiry or trial, has not improved. Out of 25,711 cases of theft and 13,093 cases of house-breaking, in only 8,743 and 1,653 cases respectively were arrests made. These figures support the complaint generally made, and which the Court believes to be well founded, as to the want of detective ability shown by the Police. At the same time it is right to mention that more than one Judicial Officer has commended the carefulness with which investigations by the Police have been conducted, and the diligence with which a clue once given has been followed up.

11. The Court has reason to fear however that, in conducting their investigations, the Police are not careful to keep within the provisions of the law. One Judge writes that resort is occasionally had, "in cases, where the trace has been difficult, to practices which subject unoffending persons to much annoyance and distress." And this remark is confirmed by a case which recently came before the Court, in which two of the Agra Police were accused of voluntarily causing hurt, and of wrongful confinement for the purpose of extorting confession. The evidence was conflicting, and the charges in the opinion of the Magistrate broke down : but it was shewn that certain persons had been illegally detained during the enquiry into a robbery that had taken place, merely because they were known or supposed to be bad characters.

12. The Court has reason to believe that the Police, when engaged in a difficult enquiry, are in the habit of arresting all persons, who in their opinion are bad characters, and of keeping them in duress without sending them in to the Magistrate, in order that by some means or other some one of them may be induced to give information. By this course of procedure the Police habitually transgress the law, and afford ground for constant complaints of torture. Such detention is styled "surveillance;" but surveillance implies merely a keeping watch over the movements of any one suspected, and not the putting any restraint on his movements by detention of his person. Any detention by a Police Constable is, if the Constable acts in the execution of his duty, an arrest, and the person detained should within 24 hours either be released, or sent in to the Magistrate, as the law directs.

13. The Court has had occasion to notice the efficiency of the Railway Police at Allahabad and Cawnpore. This portion of the Force has, in cases which have come before the Court in the exercise of its original jurisdiction, shown itself to possess both detective ability and smartness, which merits commendation.

14. The decrease in the number of persons brought to trial in the Magistrate's Courts is very much larger than the decrease in the number of offences. Seventy-five thousand and forty-four (75,044) persons charged with bailable, and 22,600 charged with non-bailable offences were brought to trial, as compared with 80,556, and 26,650 persons in 1866. The total decrease is 9,562, or about nine per cent. The decrease in the number of persons charged with non-bailable is proportionately twice as large as in the number of persons charged with bailable offences, and whether it be due to agricultural prosperity or to successful administration it is matter for congratulation. The proportion between the number of ascertained offences, and the number of cases brought to trial, appears to be about the same in both years.

State of Magistrates' Files.

15. The number of persons left under trial at the end of the year was 995, of which only 484 were in custody. Considering the number of Magistrates' Courts in these Provinces, the number of persons left under trial, although it exceeds by 84 the number in the corresponding return for 1866, is by no means excessive. Indeed, it is matter for surprise that in such a district as Cawnpore, for instance, where the Criminal work is heavy, three persons only should have been awaiting trial at the end of the year.

16. In the Districts of Shahjehanpore, Azimgurh, Mirzapore, and Ghazeepore, the files might have been clearer; but the circumstance, which but for any special arrangement would be accidental, of a large or small number of persons being under the trial in the Magistrates' Courts on a particular date, is not much to be regarded, so long as the number is not so large as to show that arrears have been allowed to accumulate. The Magistrate of Azimgurh reports that the staff of Magisterial Officers is quite inadequate for the wants of his district.

17. It is not satisfactory to find that 14 persons had been, at the close of the year, under trial in the Magistrates' Courts for more than three months. The two persons however who are shewn in the Furruckabad Return were in confinement in a Lunatic Asylum, and the trial of four persons in the Mirzapore District had been delayed owing to the absence of the record, which had been sent up to the High Court on the appeal of some other persons concerned in the same case. Generally the business of the Magistrates' Courts is despatched with sufficient promptitude.

Per-centage of Convictions.

18. The per-centage of successful prosecutions stands at 62 for non-bailable offences, the same proportion as was shown in the Report for 1866. But there is an improvement in the per-centage of convictions for bailable offences, which stands at 68, as compared with 62 which was the per-centage for the previous year.

19. The Court notices with satisfaction any improvement in this respect; for the large proportion of innocent persons, who are needlessly summoned into the Criminal Courts, and subjected to the annoyance and disgrace of a Criminal prosecution for the gratification of private animosity, or for the determination of some dispute which forms appropriate matter for a Civil suit, is a blot upon the administration of Justice in India.

20. In order to check this evil, the Court believes that ample means are provided by law, and this it has endeavoured to impress upon all Judicial Officers by often repeated instructions.

21. First, the Code of Criminal Procedure provides that the Magistrate on receiving a complaint shall, before issuing summons or warrant on an accused person, examine the complainant, reducing the examination to writing, and shall only issue summons or warrant when there is sufficient ground for proceeding, otherwise he shall dismiss the complaint.

22. Now it appears from the report of one Magistrate that it is the practice in his district,—and the practice is, the Court fears, not confined to his district,—to receive petitions at the close of each day's work, and to pass orders upon them without due attention to the provisions of the law. He urges that inasmuch as some two hundred petitions are daily presented, it would be "simply impossible to get through them, if the Magistrate stops to catechise the complainants." The Court can hardly believe that any Magistrate in these Provinces receives so many as 200 petitions a day; but whether this be so or not one thing is clear, that, in the district referred to, a salutary provision of the law is systematically overlooked. In issuing summonses or warrants, Magistrates are required to proceed with deliberation and discretion, having regard to the inconvenience and injury which may be occasioned to innocent persons, if the precaution which the law enjoins is neglected.

23. If this Magisterial staff is too weak to carry out the duties imposed upon it by law, representation should be made to the Government. But a thorough examination of the complainant will not unfrequently shew, that his complaint is groundless or not, one to be entertained in a Criminal Court, and by such an examination the Magistrate's time will be in the end economized.

24. At the same time, while the Court condemns the indiscriminate issue of process upon every complaint, it warns Magistrates against the converse error into which they may be led by misunderstanding the Court's instructions, or the desire to show good returns, namely, the summary dismissal of complaints without enquiry, upon a hastily conceived or pretended impression that they are groundless or unfit for investigation in a Criminal Court. It may be necessary to warn the younger Magistrates against such hasty procedure.

25. Secondly, as a means of repressing improper recourse to the Criminal Courts, the Code of Criminal Procedure empowers the Magistrates to award amends to be paid by the complainant to the accused in cases of frivolous or vexatious complaints. This power is at present confined to cases, where complaint is made of an offence punishable with imprisonment not exceeding six months. The Court is of opinion, that the power might be advantageously extended to cases, where complaint is made of other offences. This provision of the law is expressly intended, and is well suited to accomplish the object for the attainment of which an institution fee has been considered necessary. And it has this advantage that, whereas the institution fee vexes the good and the bad alike, the penalty inflicted at the end of the suit falls only where it is deserved.

26. The Court has been surprised to find, on an examination of the District Returns, how little use is made of the section. It may be that the Magistrates dislike to act on their own motion, although it is not necessary that any charge should be preferred by the injured person; or it may be that the Magistrates are content with dismissing the case and getting it off their files, and in the press of work forget the amends that are due to the falsely accused. For the future, the Court will look for a wise exercise of this power, and is confident that it will go far to remove the grounds of the complaint now made, with too great justice, against our Criminal Courts,—that they afford a ready means for the gratification of private enmity, and for the annoyance of the innocent.

27. Here too an abuse may arise from arbitrary or ill-judged action; but this is less to be feared, as the order cannot be passed till after the case has been determined by judicial inquiry. But it may be worthy of consideration whether the Legislature, in extending the provision as mentioned above, should not also provide for an appeal, which is not at present allowed, from the order awarding amends when passed by a Subordinate Magistrate. Any person convicted on trial by a Subordinate Magistrate and sentenced to pay a small fine has the right of appeal to the Magistrate, and it seems inconsistent to deny this right where the fine is inflicted without judicial conviction upon a charge framed.

28. The Court is of opinion that by acting as pointed out above, by a careful personal examination of complainants, by inflicting penalties for frivolous and vexatious complaints, by exercising an efficient control over the practitioners in their Courts, the Magistrates have ample means for suppressing malicious and unfounded litigation; and with these views the Court carefully watches the per-centages of convictions, and calls for explanations, where the statements show that summonses have been issued without proper deliberation, and innocent men have been needlessly brought away from their homes and subjected to the expense and disgrace of appearing as criminals.

29. It will be seen from the subjoined Statement that, except in the case of complaints for wrongful confinement, there has been a considerable improvement during the past year in the proportion of successful prosecutions for those offences, the alleged commission of which is the ground for the majority of frivolous and vexatious complaints:—

Crimes.	Per-centage of Conviction for
	1866.	1867.
Assault	47	53
Mischief	42	46

The Court looks however for much better results in future.

31. The total number of enquiries preliminary to commitment to the Sessions for trial was only 1,758, as compared with 1,964 in the previous year; the total number of trials concluded by the Magistrates was only 55,106, as compared with 63,735, in 1866.

32. The largest number of enquiries preliminary to commitment was held in the undermentioned districts:—

Allahabad	128
Mirzapore	122
Cawnpore	112

The same three districts were similarly remarkable in the report for 1866. Allahabad and Cawnpore in that for 1865 also. In the Districts of Kumaon and Gurhwal, Dehra, Bijnour, and Boolundshuhur, the commitments were very few, as was the case too in the previous year.

33. The largest number of Criminal trials was conducted before Magistrates in the undermentioned districts:—

Benares	3,728
Agra	3,042
Banda	2,967
Bareilly	2,687
Allahabad	2,597
Futtehpore	2,403
Cawnpore	2,388
Etawah	2,276

Benares, Agra, Bareilly, Futtehpore, and Etawah appeared in the same list for 1866. Benares, Agra and Etawah in that for 1865 also. The number of trials held in Etawah has however decreased in an extraordinary degree, by 1,180, as compared with the number held in 1866. Under a former Magisterial Administration the people were encouraged to bring all their disputes into the Criminal Court, a practice, which this Court has discouraged and condemned for obvious reasons.

34. In the undermentioned districts, the smallest number of trials was held:—

Dehra	337
Lullutpore	463
Kumaon and Gurhwal	533
Bustee	731
Boolundshuhur...	791
Bijnour	961
Humeerpore	987

Excluding Bijnour, the fewest trials took place in these same six districts during the three years 1865-1867.

35. Except in the Districts of Bijnour and Futtehpore, few enquiries have been made by Subordinate Magistrates.

36. The Court desires to impress upon the Magistrates of the Districts the propriety of hearing all appeals at the Sudder Station. These cases the Court has reason to believe are frequently taken up in Camp, and without any notice being given to the appellants.

37. The large amount of work entrusted to the Uncovenanted Magistrates in some districts is remarkable. Thus, in Benares, out of 3,647 trials, the extraordinarily large number of 1,192 was conducted by Mr. Niblett. In Cawnpore, out of 2,376 trials, 943 were held before Imdad Ally, and the same officer conducted half the preliminary enquiries into cases for the Sessions. Mr. Brown, at Allahabad, held 42 out of 128 preliminary enquiries, and 725 out of 2,518 trials. The Court is aware that in large cities and stations a large amount of miscellaneous work devolves upon the Magistrate and his Covenanted subordinates. But the Court would regret to see an clination on the part of those officers to divest themselves of Judicial duties,—more especially remembering the high Judicial functions that will, in the ordinary course of the service, soon devolve upon them.

38. The Court doubts whether the people receive much benefit from the employment of Tehseldars in the interior as Deputy Magistrates. The Tehseldar has so much Revenue and miscellaneous work that he has little time for the trial of cases, and two Magistrates have remarked upon the delay that takes place in their Courts, so that the complainant would have obtained speedier justice at the Sudder Station. The Tehseldar too inclines to send cases to subordinates for report, and to take up on the Criminal side disputes which should, if brought into Court at all, go to the Civil Court.

39. The next Statement shows the work of the Honorary Magistrates:—

40. The total number of persons brought before the Honorary Magistrates, for trial or for enquiry into complaints, was 6,790—an increase of 438 upon the number in 1866. The total number of enquires and trials held by them was 4,023 as compared with 4,659 in 1866. The proportion of work entrusted to them has rather increased than diminished.

41. Most use appears to have been made of their services in the Districts of Etawah, Allygurh, Shahjehanpore, and Budaon. The Court continues to receive a favorable report of the Bench of Honorary Magistrates which sits in the City of Shahjehanpore ; but the Magistrate had not been able to carry out the direction of Government, that the Joint Magistrate or an experienced Assistant Magistrate should occasionally be associated with the Bench of Honorary Magistrates for the transaction of business.

42. The experiment of a Bench of Honorary Magistrates has also been introduced at Chundowsee, in the District of Moradabad, and the Magistrate writes, that he has received great assistance and benefit from their exertions in the decision of cases and from their influence. Petty complaints are made over to them for local enquiry, and have in consequence perceptibly decreased. The advantages of such measures can hardly be exaggerated, if the result really is to enlist the sympathies and efforts of the native gentry on behalf of the suppression of offences, and the improvement of the administration.

43. The highest testimony is borne to the character of Chowdry Luchmun Singh by the Magistrate of Mynpoory and the Judge. Mr. Debnam, and Sheikh Shurfooddeen in Budaon, Mr. Blachett in Allygurgh, Raja Dilsookh Rai in Etah are thanked by the Magistrates for their services. The Court noticed that Sheikh Shurfooddeen examined 3,382 witnesses, and did not detain one beyond the first day of attendance, and that the average duration of cases in his Court was only 5 days. Such gratuitous devotion to public business is worthy of high praise.

44. Magistrates of Districts should not however lose sight of the Honorary Magistrates in the interior. Unadvised and uninstructed they fall into errors of law and procedure. One common error is to take up judicially and decide in a Criminal Court disputes about property and other matters which pertain to the Civil Court. Another is to refer trivial cases to the Police for report, a very objectionable practice, giving to the ill-disposed facilities for oppression and other malpractices. The position of Honorary Magistrate is valued and sought after; the institution is politically very useful, and may with careful supervision be made beneficial to the administration of justice.

46. In all, 18,231 persons were sentenced to imprisonment, being fewer by 3,200 than the number so sentenced in 1866. Only 799 persons were sentenced to simple imprisonment, as compared with 834 in the previous year.

47. The degrees of punishment were as follows:

Persons sentenced to imprisonment, not exceeding 6 months			...	14,158
Ditto	ditto	1 year	...	2,063
Above one year			...	2,010

A decrease of more than 2,000 is shown in the number of persons sentenced to short periods of imprisonment, as compared with the number sentenced in 1866.

Imprisonment.

48. In some districts the number of persons sentenced to simple imprisonment is remarkably small as shown below:—

In Dehra Doon	1
Moozuffernugger	8
Bijnour	3
Meerut	10
Mynpoory	11

The Court is aware of the objections, that are entertained to this kind of punishment, which allows prisoners to live idle in Jail, free from the salutary discipline of hard labor; but this objection is pressed too far when persons convicted of the most trivial offences are sentenced to rigorous imprisonment. The Court has found such to be the practice of some Honorary Magistrates.

49. Cawnpore is noticeable, as it was in the return for 1866, for the large number of persons sentenced by the Magisterial Authorities to longer periods of imprisonment. Two-hundred and seventy-one (271) persons were sentenced to imprisonment in excess of one year. After Cawnpore, Allahabad is the district, where the heaviest sentences were passed; but the return of the latter district shows only 145 persons sentenced to imprisonment beyond one year.

Fines.

50. Thirty-six thousand one hundred and thirty-four persons were fined during the year, to an aggregate amount of Rs. 3,27,378. There is an increase of 1,142 in the number of persons fined, as compared with the previous year, which is remarkable, considering the large decrease in the number of persons brought to trial. There is a large decrease (Rs. 27,762) in the aggregate amount imposed. This decrease however is not to be regretted, as it may show, that more care has been taken in awarding fines proportionate to the means of offenders.

51. And that this has been the case, and that more diligence has been shown in realizing fines when imposed, is proved by the fact that, out of Rs. 3,27,378 imposed as fines, Rs. 2,35,282, or a proportion of 72 per cent., has been realized. This is an improvement upon the percentage of former years, which for 1865 stood at 60, and for 1866, at 65.

52. From the terms in which some officers write of the imprisonment awarded in default of payment of fine as an alternative punishment, it would appear, that they entertain the notion, that the offender, when sentenced to fine, may choose whether he will pay or be deprived of liberty. Imprisonment is awarded to punish the offender for his contumacy in omitting to pay the fine, but it does not in any way absolve him from liability to pay the fine, and notwithstanding the imprisonment the fine may be levied by distress and sale of the offender's property at any time within the period limited by law.

53. One great cause of the non-realization of fines is the restriction contained in Section 61 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, of distress and sale to moveable property belonging to the offender, which may be found within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate of the District, in which he may have been sentenced. The Court perceives, that by the amended Code now before the Legislative Council, the liability is extended to property, which may be found either within the jurisdiction of the Court, that sentences the offender, or of the Magistrate of the district in which he ordinarily resides. The Court however is not aware of any good reason, why the liability should be even thus limited. "An offender who has been sentenced to fine must be considered as a debtor, and as a debtor not entitled to any peculiar lenity." Moveable property, wherever found, might justly be made liable.

54. The Court is anxious to impress upon all Judicial Officers, that it is their duty carefully to apportion fines to the means of offenders, so far as these can be ascertained: and that when a fine has once been imposed; it is also their duty to be diligent in realizing it, so that the sentence may be carried out in its integrity.

55. The Court has also found it necessary to condemn a practice occasionally adopted, of awarding a fine manifestly beyond the means of the offender, in order that his imprisonment may be extended beyond the term specified by the law. Such a practice is an abuse of authority, and is in effect a contrivance to violate the intention of the law.

56. As in 1866, only two persons were fined to an amount exceeding Rs. 500, and only 21 to an amount exceeding Rs. 200. Of the total number of persons fined, viz., 36,134, all but 302 were fined in small sums not exceeding Rs. 50.

57. A Statement follows, showing the offences for which fines have been imposed as sole punishment, exceeding in the aggregate Rs. 1,000.

58. As in 1865 and in 1866 by far the largest amount was imposed for the offence of causing hurt, and for the three past years also the five succeeding offences,—assault, breaches of Customs and Abkaree Laws, mischief and criminal trespass have come next in order. The recent Act for the suppression of gambling is shown to have been actively put in force.

Security for good conduct.

59. A large number of persons, viz., 1,470, were compelled to give security for good conduct, or in default thereof were committed to prison under the provisions of Chapter XIX. of the Code of Criminal Procedure. The greatest caution and moderation should be shown by Magistrates in administering these Sections of the Law. The Police are naturally ready to get rid of a troublesome person by reporting that he is a vagrant, or that his general character is bad ; such reports are not to be easily accepted, and above all are not to be regarded as evidence of bad character, until they have been tested by the ascertainment of the facts, on which they are based. There is a disposition, the Court fears, to demand an impossible amount of security (Rs. 1,000 is a very usual sum), and in default to commit suspected persons to prison, for perhaps a longer period, than that to which they would have been sentenced on conviction of an offence. The prison life cannot but have the worst effect upon persons so confined, for labor cannot be imposed upon them. The amount of security should therefore be fixed at such a sum as the accused person can furnish—for the fear of fortfeiure of the penalty may be some restraint upon him. It is of course quite illegal on expiration of the term of confinement to demand fresh security without fresh proof of continued bad livelihood.

Security to keep the peace.

60. Again the number of persons ordered to enter into recognizances or to give security to keep the peace, viz., 4,465, is very large. In the District of Shahjehanpore alone, 567 persons were so dealt with, and of these 347 in the Court of one Officer. It has been found necessary to point out that the mere existence of a dispute between two parties is not sufficient to justify action under Chapter XVIII. of the Code. There must be a conviction for an offence mentioned in Section 280, before an order can be passed under that Section : or if there be no conviction the Magistrate must be in possession of credible information, that a breach of the peace is likely to occur, before he can summon any person to show cause why he should not be required to enter into a bond to keep the peace, and only on the appearance of such person, and on the Magistrate being satisfied that it is necessary for the preservation of the peace to take a bond, can he make order accordingly.

A. Besides these there were 22 persons punished with whipping which are not included in the district statements (as detailed below.)

Boolundshuhur	1	Juvenile under Section 182, Indian Penal Code.
Mynpoory	3	Ditto punished under Section 5, Act VI. of 1864, for offences under Sections 323, 352, and 406, Indian Penal Code.
Allahabad	4	Ditto Ditto Ditto Ditto under Sections 403, 352, and 309, Indian Penal Code.
Benares	5	1 Juvenile under Section 5, Act VI. of 1864, for the offence under Section 385, Indian Penal Code, and 4 under Section 13 Act III. of 1857.
Jhansie	9	punished under Ditto Ditto for unnatural offences.
Total ...	22

62. The number of adults so punished was 2,505, being less by 761 than the number flogged in the previous year. The number of juveniles whipped was 633, a decrease of 43 from the number whipped in 1866. Taken with the fact of the large decrease in the number of persons imprisoned, the decrease is satisfactory, as indicating a decrease in the more disgraceful crimes.

63. Of the total number flogged, 3,138, all but 40 were flogged for the offence of theft or house-breaking. The other offences punished with whipping appear to have met with their appropriate penalty, except perhaps one case under the cattle trespass Act.

64. In the undermentioned districts whippings were most frequent :—

Cawnpore	...	...	186
Agra	...	...	182
Allahabad	...	...	171
Benares	...	...	169
Barielly	...	...	166
Budaon	...	...	166
Meerut	...	...	153

And in these the least frequent :—

Moozuffernuggur	...	...	6
Dehra	...	...	11
Kumaon	...	...	17
Etawah	...	...	30
Lullutpore	...	...	41
Jaloun	...	...	50

65. For the past 3 years Allahabad and Benares on the one hand, and Moozuffernuggur, Dehra, Kumaon and Etawah, on the other, have been noticeable for the large and small number, respectively, of persons whipped.

66. The order passed by Government, No. 88A., dated 21st March, 1864, directing either that a Medical Officer shall be present at whippings, or that a medical certificate must be obtained of the culprit's fit state of health to undergo the penalty, has probably the effect of rendering less frequent the infliction of this penalty by Deputy Magistrates in the interior, and by officers when out in camp; and objections have therefore been raised to the rule. But the precaution seems to the Court advisable.

Appeals to Sessions Court.

68. The number of appealable cases decided, 19,260, is slightly in excess of the number decided in the previous year; and it is satisfactory to record that the proportion of appeals to decisions, 11 per cent., is less than it was in 1866,—as is also the proportion, 25 per cent., of decisions reversed or modified, to appeals decided by the Judges.

69. The largest number of appealable orders was passed in the Districts of Budaon, Bareilly and Agra:—the percentage of appeals to decisions was most favorable in the Districts of—

For the last three years, the Districts of Jounpore, Bijnour, and Boolundshuhur have been remarkable for the paucity of appeals, and for the same three years Allygurh has been remarkable for the large number of appeals. For the past two years, Muttra and Kumaon have also been similarly remarkable.

70. Compared with the number of appeals heard by the Sessions Judge, decisions have been least interfered with in the Districts of—

71. Of individual officers, the undermentioned are those, from whose decisions appeals have been proportionately fewest:—

72. It is gratifying to find the name of Sheikh Shurfooddeen, Honorary Magistrate, in this Statement, as it was also in the similar Statement for 1866.

73. The result of appeals is shown to have been most favorable to those officers whose names are given below, excluding those from whose decisions fewer than 10 appeals were heard.

80. The number of witnesses examined stands at 2,28,022, less by 28,061 than the number examined in the previous year. The percentage of those dismissed after one day's attendance is 96, which is not quite so high as it was in 1866, but it is still very good, especially in the Districts of Boolundshuhur, Budaon, and Humeerpore; the two former districts were similarly conspicuous in the return for 1866. There is a great improvement in the return from Mirzapore, which was one of the worst in last year's report. The only bad returns are those from Lullutpore, Ghazeepore and Gurhwal. The attention of the officers in fault has been called to the subject in the replies to the district reports.

81. Magistrates, in signing, as they are required to do, each day's return of witnesses examined, become responsible for its correctness. And it is incumbent upon them to see that the Court Officials report the attendance of every witness on the day, that he arrives at the Court. It is to be feared, that by their neglect to make this report, by their reporting the attendance of only so many witnesses, as the Magistrate may be able to examine in the day, an incorrect representation is given as to the period, for which witnesses are actually in attendance.

82. The court approves of the proposal, which is contained in the amended Code now before Council, by which power is given not only to the Court of Sessions as at present, but to the Criminal Courts generally subject to any rules that may be passed by Government, to order payment of the reasonable expenses of any complainant or witness attending for the purpose of any trial. In exceptional cases such expenses may be paid at present under the authority of a Circular issued by Government in 1866. But the Court believes, that it is seldom done, and it certainly is fair, that witnesses attending Court at great personal inconvenience and some expense for the prosecution of crimes, as distinguished from private injuries, should not suffer for their service to the State.

Average Duration ...	...	...	10 Days.	...	...	10. Days

84. The average duration is shown to be ten days, the same as for 1866, and is generally satisfactory. The result is not good as regards Goruckpore, where the average duration stands at 16 days. Some allowance may be made for the size of the district and the position of the Sudder Station. But the Magistrate admits, that the return is not, what it should be, and promises amendment. The return from Etah is hardly satisfactory.

85. The returns from Benares and Dehra, showing only three days average duration, are very creditable. The great bulk of the Criminal work in the former district comes from the City.

86. The next Statement shows the number and result of appeals preferred in each district to the Magistrate from the decisions of the Subordinate Magistrates:— Appeals from Subordinate Magistrates.

87. The number of appeals, 1,401, is less by 462, than the number preferred in 1866, and the general percentage of reversals is 32, as compared with 29 in the former year. The percentage appears very unfavorable in some districts, but in these the number of appeals preferred was very small, and the paucity of appeals may tell more in an officer's favor than the proportion of reversals.

89. The amount ordered to be paid, whether in the Judges' or the Magistrates' Courts, was Rs. 28,451, less by Rs. 4,277 than that ordered to be paid in the previous year; and of this amount considerably less than one-half was realized, which is far from satisfactory. The proportion, however, of the sums ordered to be paid away under Section 44, to the total amount of fines inflicted, is about the same in both years—between 8 and 9 per cent.

90. The Courts should be ready to take advantage of this section; and they can under its provisions reimburse complainants in the expenses incurred in prosecution, which have by the recent Stamp Act been increased to a sensible degree in the case of poorer suitors. It is to be hoped, also, that the amount awarded will be more completely realized in future.

92. The number—both of sessions trials and of appeals—is less than in 1866. The work was heaviest in the Judgeships of Mynpoory, Cawnpore, and Bareilly. The Judge of Agra decided the largest number of appeals. In the Judgeships of Azimgurh, Furruckabad, Jounpore, and Moradabad, the criminal work was light.

93. From the report of the Judge of Furruckabad it appeared, that the District Superintendent of Police was in the habit of examining the witnesses on behalf of the Crown in sessions trials and conducting the prosecution. The Court pointed out in reply, that it is very expedient that the local chief of the Police Force should be in attendance for the purpose of watching the course of criminal trials, and particularly with reference to the action of the Police as it may be disclosed by the proceedings; but that his interference in the conduct of the case, and especially in the examination of witnesses, should not be permitted.

94. The Judge of Agra remarked in his report, that many prisoners when on trial for their life are undefended by Counsel, and have no means of obtaining assistance. He was informed that in England the Judge assigns Counsel to prisoners accused of capital offences, who have not the necessary funds to remunerate Counsel, and that it is a point of honor with the Counsel so assigned to defend the prisoner without remuneration. There seems no reason why the practice should not be introduced into the Courts of the Sessions Judges, where generally qualified pleaders are in attendance.

96. Seventy-three persons were sentenced capitally. In 1866 one hundred and three persons were so sentenced. One hundred and seventy-eight persons were however sentenced to transportation for life, as compared with 165 in the previous year. There is a decrease of 95 in the number of persons sentenced to long terms of imprisonment (over 7 years), and of 160 in the number of persons sentenced to short terms below 3 years. The decrease in crime is very striking.

97. Only six persons were flogged, and 98 persons were fined as sole punishment. Out of Rs. 27,313 imposed as fines, only Rs. 4,307 were realized. The Court has directed enquiries to be made as to the cause of the realization of so small a proportion of the fines, which are imposed by Sessions Judges.

Assessors.

98. The following statement shows the classes, from which assessors at sessions trials were taken, and the agreement or disagreement of the Judge in the opinion of the assessors :—

99. Two persons being Europeans, not British subjects or Americans, were tried by Juries,—one in the Cawnpore and one in the Furruckabad District.

100. In the large majority of cases, except in the Scharunpore District, the opinions of the Judge and of the majority of the Assessors coincided.

101. The Judge of Furruckabad has noticed, that he has received much assistance from the Assessors, and that their findings as to facts are generally distinct and correct. Other Judges have noticed the difficulty of procuring an independent expression of opinion, and the reluctance generally to attend. Doubtless some classes of natives are unwilling to take part in proceedings, which may involve the life of a fellow-creature. But the Court believes, that if the Assessors are treated with proper courtesy, and if the Judge shows, that he wishes them to understand and take an intelligent share in the conduct of the trial, and that he looks to them for assistance, the institution will become popular and useful, politically as well as in the administration of justice.

102. The average duration of sessions trials, and of appeals to the Sessions Judges, is shown in the next statement:—

Zillah.	Trials of Committed Cases.			Appeals.
	Total number of trials disposed of in the year.	Total number of days, reckoning from the date fixed by the Magistrate for the trial to the date on which the warrant of the Sessions Judge issued, or his reference was despatched to the High Court.	Average duration of each trial in days.	Total number of cases of appeal disposed of in the year.	Total number of days, reckoning from the date on which the application was preferred to that on which final orders were passed.	Average duration of each case of appeal in days.

103. Courts of Session now sit on fixed days in each month. These dates are well known to the Magistrates, who should arrange the committals accordingly, and the duration of each trial should ordinarily be but one day.

104. The average duration of appeals is generally unsatisfactory. The delay occurs, the Court believes, in forwarding the records from the Magistrates' offices. The result is especially bad in the Banda and Futtehpore Districts. The delay is of serious moment to appellants, and Sessions Judges should insist upon the correction of this evil. Mr. Sapte, the Judge of Meerut, has informed the Court, that he obtains the record from the Magistrate's Office immediately on receipt of the petition of appeal, and disposes of the appeal on the same day.

105. From the Ajmere Return it appears, that only two sessions trials were held during the year, and that nine were left pending, and that the decided cases were under trial for nearly the whole year. The Court has not been informed of the result of the reference which was made by the Government on last year's report to the Commissioner of Ajmere, as to the propriety of investing the Deputy Commissioner with the powers of a Sessions Judge. Some alteration in the present arrangements appears very desirable.

106. On a recent reference to the Court, the Commissioner omitted to forward his own opinion on the point referred (which he is required by law to record), on the ground, that he had not time to attend to the matter.

Result of the Sessions Judges' work as reviewed by the High Court.

107. The next statement shows the result of the references made to the High Court for confirmation of capital sentences passed by the Sessions Judges, the result of appeals from their decisions, and of revision of their sentences by the High Court.

110. The cases of 845 persons, on whom judgment had been passed by the Sessions Judges, came before the High Court in the exercise of its powers as a Court of appeal or revision; in 498 cases the sentences were confirmed; 133 persons were acquitted.

111. The Court is on the whole satisfied with the way, in which the criminal work has been performed throughout the year, and has had occasion to thank several of the Sessions Judges for their devotion to business and conscientious discharge of their duties.

112. Extracts from the Judges' Reports showing the characters borne by the Magisterial Officers have been separately forwarded to Government.

113. The business performed by the High Court in the criminal side is shown in the statements, the form of which is prescribed by the Home Government. Fourteen prisoners only were tried by the Court in the exercise of its original jurisdiction, of whom seven were acquitted and seven convicted.

No. 286A. OF 1868.

FROM

R. SIMSON, ESQUIRE,

Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces,

To

THE REGISTRAR TO THE HIGH COURT OF JUDICATURE, NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES.

Dated Nynee Tal, the 26th August, 1868.

SIR,

JUDICIAL DEPT. (CRIMINAL.)

HAVING received and laid before the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor the letter from your office No. 923, dated the 13th June last, being the report on the Administration of Criminal Justice for the past year, I am directed to communicate the following observations and orders:—

2. There is a discrepancy observable between the returns of offences in this report, and those contained in the report of the Police Administration for the same period. This is most noticeable in the case of "murders," which are stated in the Criminal Report to have amounted to 328, while the Police returns showed only 279. This may arise from a different system of registration; for instance, a dacoity attended with murder may be shown in the Police returns under the head of "Dacoity," while it may possibly appear in the Magistrate's returns as a "Murder." But the variation is so considerable as to require explanation, which has accordingly been called for from the Inspector-General of Police and the Magistrates.

3. The decrease in the reported number of non-bailable cases is attributed in some measure by the Court to the working of the new Stamp Act; but it is not understood how the Act can affect, except very slightly, the complaints of such offences. The Lieutenant-Governor apprehends that it is chiefly in complaints of assault, abuse, trespass, and other petty offences which are bailable, that the Act operates to produce a decrease.

4. With reference to paragraph 8, I am to observe that some check in the presentation of complaints was no doubt required. Whether the stamp of one rupee was more than adequate there is no evidence yet to prove. Possibly a lower stamp would have sufficiently fulfilled the object in view: but the discretion given to Magistrates to dispense with it altogether ought, even on that supposition, to prevent any absolute denial of justice.

5. Adverting to the remarks on the deficiency of detective ability in the Police, the Lieutenant-Governor fears that the imputation is to a great extent just, as has been fully admitted in the Police reports and the orders of Government.

6. There is also ground to fear that cases like that of Bichpooree near Agra (apparently the one alluded to by the High Court in paragraph 11) too frequently occur, in which, by arbitrary and indiscriminate arrests, the Police vainly hope and endeavour to supply the lack of really detective intelligence and vigour. Constant inculcations are issued against this, the normal tendency of Indian Police, and when any instance comes to light, prompt and sufficient notice is taken of it. There is, however, ground for believing that the detective power of the Police by right and honest measure is on the increase.

7. It is gratifying to find that the Court are able to bear testimony to the efficiency of the Railway Police at Allahabad and Cawnpore. This body consists of men selected for the duty, but there is no reason why the detective and preventive ability shown in it should not by degrees be acquired in the general force.

8. It is correct as stated in paragraph 16, that by an unfortunate combination, which it was not possible to avoid, the staff of the District of Azimgurh happened to be unusually weak.

9. On the subject of paragraph 22, namely, the indiscriminate issue of summonses and warrants, and the alleged want of leisure on the part of Magistrates carefully to enter into the merits of each petition, I am to observe that the jurisdiction is ordinarily territorially divided, in which case ordinary petitions would follow such division; or the Magistrate can at the time of hearing petitions distribute some portion to his subordinate staff, who again are responsible for seeing that no unnecessary warrant of summons is issued. The Lieutenant-Governor however fully admits that the Court's injunctions on this point are very just, and also on the converse error of hasty dismissal of complaints; and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that both will receive a careful and discriminating attention from the Magistrates and their staff.

10. There is no doubt that the power to punish for bringing frivolous or vexatious complaints might be used more freely with advantage; but as observed by the Court, this power requires to be exercised with very great judgment and discrimination, and His Honor agrees in the view that all orders of the kind ought to be made subject to review by the Magistrate of the District.

11. The Lieutenant-Governor concurs that as a rule it is proper that criminal appeals should be heard at the Sudder Station, but when the Magistrate's camp is in the vicinity of the complainant and defendant's place of abode, there is an obvious advantage in the appeal being heard in camp.

12. The attention of Commissioners will be directed to the very just remarks contained in paragraph 37, and they will be desired to impress upon Magistrates, and themselves to see in their circuits, that a due amount of Judicial work is disposed of by the Magistrates of the several districts.

13. In regard to the employment of Tehseeldars in the interior as Deputy Magistrates, I am to observe that the two Magistrates who complain of the delay which occurred in the Tehseeldars' Courts, had the remedy in their own hands. If the Tehseeldars had too much business of other kinds, the Magistrates should have given them less Criminal work; and if unnecessary delays occurred, the Magistrates should have reproved them, and ensured greater promptitude for the future.

14. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with commendation the exertions of the Honorary Magistrates named in paragraph 43; and I am also to add the name of Rajah Juswunt Rao, C.S.I., of Etawah, as deserving notice. His Honor is gratified to receive the remarks upon the work performed by these gentlemen, and thoroughly joins the Court in expecting the best results from their association with the Administration, and the hope justly entertained of thereby really enlisting the energies and endeavours of the native gentlemen of rank and character in the interests of justice and good Government.

15. The caution however enjoined in paragraph 44, in respect of directing the action of the Honorary Magistrates in the interior, is evidently required, and should receive the attention of the several Magistrates.

16. The remarks of the Court in paragraphs 54 and 55, on the proportioning of fines to the means of the offender, and the importance of realizing them when once imposed, are very appropriate. It is probable that the recent Circular Order, limiting prosecutions for breach of the salt laws, will reduce the number of fines under this head in future.

17. There has apparently in some districts been laxity and misapplication of the provisions of the Law in respect of security for good conduct and for keeping the peace. The cautions and instructions of the Court in paragraphs 59 and 60 on this subject will no doubt receive due attention from Magistrates.

18. The report on the punishment of whipping under Act IV. of 1864 is satisfactory so far as it is indicative of decrease of disgraceful crimes. In respect of juvenile criminals, however, it would not be satisfactory if there were reason to apprehend that such offenders had been frequently imprisoned instead of being whipped. Referring to paragraph 64, it may be noted that in districts which contain large cities with crowded bazaars, those crimes for which the punishment of whipping is usually awarded, occur much more frequently than in districts the population of which is chiefly rural.

19. The Lieutenant-Governor shares in the gratification of the Court in finding the name of Honorary Magistrate Sheikh Shurf-ood-deen among the list of officers whose decisions have been least frequently appealed.

20. The small number of appeals in Boolundshuhur and Budaon is no doubt owing to there being no resident Judge at those stations.

21. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the proposal to authorise the payment by Criminal Courts of the reasonable expenses of complainants and witnesses attending a trial, will be passed into law, as recommended in paragraph 82.

22. The average duration of cases in Etah is shown to have been one day less than last year, but the duration is still high. In Allygurh there has been much improvement.

23. The decrease in crime, shown in paragraph 96, is very satisfactory, if, as may be presumed, there was equal power of detection.

24. The statement at paragraph 98 shows that the total number of cases tried by Judges with the aid of Assessors was 1,041, in only 181 of which, or 14 per cent., the Judges disagreed with the opinion of the Assessors. It is noticeable that Mr. Mark Thornhill, in all three districts of Seharunpore, Mozuffernugger, and Dehra Doon, found cause to disagree with the Assessors in 75 out of the 86 cases tried by him, or in no less a proportion than 87 per cent.

25. His Honor cordially agrees in the remark of the Court in paragraph 101 that "if the Assessors are treated with proper courtesy, and if the Judge shows that "he wishes them to understand and take an intelligent share in the conduct of the "trial, and that he looks to them for assistance, the institution will become popular "and useful, politically as well as in the administration of justice."

26. Adverting to the Court's remarks in paragraph 104, on the delay in the average duration of appeals in Sessions Courts, I am to observe that promptitude in the submission of the records from the Magistrate's Courts should be insisted on. This point is so essential to the ends of justice, and often, indeed, to the efficient exercise of the right of appeal at all, that Commissioners will be required in their tours to see that proper arrangements are made for the immediate submission of the record in case of appeal.

27. On the question of the trial of Sessions cases in Ajmere, I am to forward, for the information of the Court, the accompanying extract, from which it will be seen that, although the evil of the present system is fully admitted, a way for improvement has not yet been found.

28. On comparing your paragraph 108 with the statement given in paragraph 115, it is not clear how 73 persons were sentenced to death, when out of 74 capital sentences 58 only were confirmed by the High Court.

29. In conclusion, I am desired to convey the thanks of the Government to the Court for their excellent review of the Criminal Administration, and for the effective control exercised by them over it.

I have the honor to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient Servant,

R. SIMSON,

Secy. to the Government of the North-Western Provinces.

No. 287A.

ORDERED,—That a copy of paragraph 2 of this letter be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Police, with the request that he will cause a thorough comparison of the returns submitted to the Court and to this office, to be instituted with the view of discovering the reason of the discrepancy noted.

No. 288A.

COPY of paragraph 37 of the report, and paragraph 12 of this reply, forwarded to all Commissioners for information and guidance.

Extract paragraphs 1 to 9 of a Minute by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, North-Western Provinces, on the proposed changes in Ajmere, dated the 27*th March,* 1868.

Government of India, Home Department, No. 1101, dated 9th December, 1867.
Agent, Governor-General, No. 114, dated 25th February, 1868.
Inspector-General of Police, No. 797, dated 14th February, 1868.
Ditto ditto, No. 1178, dated 5th March, 1868.

1. This correspondence involves a number of very important questions.

2. There is first the proposal to confer upon the Deputy Commissioner the authority of a Sessions Judge brought before the Supreme Government in Mr. Simson's letter of 20th November last, and in reply to which a return of the number of cases coming before the Agent as Sessions Judge was called for. The number is now shown to be eight on an annual average: though it varies much, having been in 1866 no fewer than eighteen.

3. Colonel Keatinge, in his letter of 25th February, proposes a more radical change in the constitution of the Commission. He would relieve the Agent to the Governor-General altogether from his duties as Commissioner of Ajmere, and would appoint a separate Officer, resident at Ajmere, to that duty. He thinks the present Deputy Commissioner might be nominated Commissioner, and his two Assistants be made the District Officers respectively of Ajmere and Mhairwara. He would increase their salary, if necessary, from the proposed reductions in the Mhairwara Battalion.

4. Now there are some grave objections to this plan.

5. In the first place if the Deputy Commissioner be nominated Commissioner, and as such invested with the powers of Sessions, he must resign the immediate executive control; for those powers cannot, under the terms of Act XV. of 1862, be exercised in conjunction with the executive charge. The arrangement therefore could not be carried out in the present state of the law; and this consideration seems equally to negative the proposal made in paragraph 4 of the address of this Government, dated 20th November, to the Government of India.

6. Now if the services of the present Deputy Commissioner were to be given to the supervising duties of Commissioner, and not to the executive charge of the district, then it appears to me that the two Assistants on 800 and 500 Rs. per mensem could not undertake respectively the sole charge of the two districts, without additional aid.

7. The question then comes to this, whether a new officer shall be nominated to the Commission, whose sole duty shall be that of Commissioner. Considering the small area and population of Ajmere, and that its Revenue to Government is less than four lakhs of rupees, it would be quite unreasonable to post an officer to it, whose single duty should be that of Commissioner. The proposal would be justly objected to by the Government of India, and must be abandoned.

8. There is no doubt that the present arrangement is open to all the objections urged in Colonel Keatinge's letter of 25th February. Delay and hardship are involved in having the appellate authority at so great a distance from Ajmere; and I can well imagine that amid the multifarious engagements of the Rajpootana Agency, the duty must often be inconvenient, and sometimes irksome, to the Agent himself. But situated as Ajmere is, a British Province, many hundred miles from our own territories, and in the midst of Rajpootana, there appears to be really no other reasonable arrangement open to consideration; and as this is the arrangement sanctioned by the Supreme Government, there seems no help for it but to make it as efficient and convenient as possible.

9. In respect of the Session's Court and Gaol deliveries, I do not see that any alteration is possible, unless the Supreme Government would consent to a modification of the present law extending the powers of the Deputy Commissioner as Sessions Judge.

Letter from Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department, to Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces (No. 717).—Dated the 23rd April, 1868.

SIR,—I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 376, dated the 7th instant, forwarding, with reference to prior correspondence, copy of a Minute dated 27th ultimo, recorded by the Lieutenant-Governor on certain "proposed changes in Ajmere;" and in reply to state that the Governor-General in Council concurs in the views expressed in paragraphs 1 to 9 of His Honor's Minute.
